Passing of Postmodernism Josh Toth, 2010-03-24 The Passing of Postmodernism addresses the increasingly prevalent assumption that a period marked by poststructuralism and metafiction has passed and that literature and film are once again engaging sincerely with issues of ethics and politics In discussions of various twentieth and twenty first century writers directors and theorists from Michel Foucault and Slavoj i ek to Thomas Pynchon and David Lynch Josh Toth demonstrates that a certain utopian spirit persisted within and actually defined the postmodern project Just as modernism was animated by an idealistic belief that it could finally realize the utopia beckoning on the horizon postmodernism was compelled by an equally utopian belief that it could finally reject the possibility of all such illusory ideals Toth argues that this specter of an impossible future is and must remain both possible and impossible a ghostly promise of what is always still to come Josh Toth teaches literature and critical theory at Grant MacEwan College and is coeditor with Neil Brooks of The Mourning After Attending the Wake of Postmodernism

Huber, 2014-06-10 Literature after Postmodernism explores the use of literary fantastic storylines in contemporary novels which begin to think beyond postmodernism They develop an aesthetic perspective that aims at creation and communication instead of subversion and can thus be considered no longer deconstructive but reconstructive The Story of "Me" Marjorie Worthington, 2018-11-01 Autofiction or works in which the eponymous author appears as a fictionalized character represents a significant trend in postwar American literature when it proliferated to become a kind of postmodern cliché. The Story of Me charts the history and development of this genre analyzing its narratological effects and discussing its cultural implications. By tracing autofiction's conceptual issues through case studies and an array of texts, Marjorie Worthington sheds light on a number of issues for postwar American writing: the maleness of the postmodern canon and anxieties created by the supposed waning of male privilege; the relationship between celebrity and authorship; the influence of theory; the angst stemming from claims of the death of the author; and the rise of memoir culture. Worthington constructs and contextualizes a bridge between the French literary context from which the term originated and the rise of autofiction among various American literary movements from modernism to New Criticism to New Journalism. The Story of Me demonstrates that the burgeoning of autofiction serves as a barometer of American literature from modernist authorial effacement to postmodern literary self-consciousness. Let's Play Doctor Mark Leyner, Billy Goldberg, 2008 The authors of the bestselling series that includes Why Do Men Have Nipples and Why Do Men Fall Asleep After Sex are back with a hilarious look at what it takes to look, act, and talk like a real doctor.

Pour a mug of hot cocoa and cozy up with new fiction, essays, and poetry from fireside favorites and discover New Voices for the new year. Truth and Metafiction Josh Toth, 2020-12-10 Metafiction has long been associated with the heyday of literary postmodernism with a certain sense of irresponsibility, political apathy, or outright nihilism. Yet if, as is now widely assumed, postmodernism has finally run its course, how might we account for the proliferation of metafictional devices in contemporary narrative media? Does this persistence undermine the claim that postmodernism has passed, or has the function of metafiction somehow changed? To answer these questions, Josh Toth considers a broad range of recent metafictional texts by writers such as George Saunders and Jennifer Egan and directors such as Sofia Coppola and Quentin Tarantino. At the same time, he traverses a diffuse theoretical landscape from the rise of various new materialisms in philosophy and the turn to affect in literary criticism to the seemingly endless efforts to name postmodernism's ostensible successor. Ultimately, Toth argues that much contemporary metafiction moves beyond postmodern skepticism to reassert the possibility of making true claims about real things. Capable of combating a post-truth crisis, such forms assert or assume a kind of Hegelian plasticity; they actively and persistently confront the trauma of what is infinitely mutable or perpetually other. What is outside or before a given representation is confirmed and endured as that which exceeds the instance of its capture. The truth is thereby renewed, neither denied nor simply assumed; it is approached as ethically as possible. Its plasticity is grasped because the grasp, the form of its narrative apprehension, lets slip. Et Tu, Babe Mark Leyner, 2011-07-13 In this fiendishly original new novel, Mark Leyner is a leather blazer wearing Piranha 793 driving narcotic guzzling monster who has potential rivals eliminated by his bionically enhanced bodyguards has his internal organs tattooed and eavesdrops on the erotic fantasies of Victoria's Secret models which naturally revolve around him Leyner's jet propelled roller derby through the cultures of celebrity cyberpunk and rabid egotism is exhilaratingly bizarre exhaustingly funny and you'd better hope it's just fiction Comedy and Culture Fabian Alfie, 2017-12-02 This work examines the ways in which the culture and society of the Middle Ages impacted on the works of the Sienese poet Cecco Angiolieri c 1260-1312 It analyzes how Angiolieri's poetry conformed to medieval notions and practices of comicality The study explores the means by which Cecco satirized important cultural movements of the late 13th and early 14th centuries such as love literature and the ascendant Franciscan order In addition it looks at his relations with other writers of the day including three insulting sonnets addressed to Dante Alighieri The text shows that Angiolieri was not an isolated bizarre figure as some early 20th century scholars have described him but rather an author in step with his times

Rewriting Christian Moraru, 2001-09-20 Does the postmodern process of rewriting stories by earlier writers point to a crisis of originality in our cloning culture In Rewriting the first systematic examination of this tendency in late twentieth century American fiction Christian Moraru answers this question with a no by examining a wide range of representative writers including E L Doctorow Robert Coover Paul Auster Charles Johnson Ishmael Reed Trey Ellis Kathy Acker Mark Leyner and Bharati Mukherjee among others Moraru shows that in reworking the emblematic nineteenth century short
