

The background of the entire image is a dramatic sky. A vibrant rainbow arches across the upper half of the frame. Below the rainbow, the sky is filled with dark, swirling clouds, suggesting a storm or a powerful natural force. The bottom of the image shows a dark, silhouetted horizon line, possibly representing a body of water or a distant shore.

Women and the Material Culture of Death BethFowkes Tobin, 2017-07-05 Examining the compelling and often poignant connection between women and the material culture of death this collection focuses on the objects women make the images they keep the practices they use or are responsible for and the places they inhabit and construct through ritual and custom Women s material practices ranging from wearing mourning jewelry to dressing the dead stitching memorial samplers to constructing skull boxes collecting funeral programs to collecting and studying diseased hearts making and collecting taxidermies and making sculptures honoring the death are explored in this collection as well as women s affective responses and sentimental labor that mark their expected and unexpected participation in the social practices surrounding death and the dead The largely invisible work involved in commemorating and constructing narratives and memorials about the dead from family members and friends to national figures calls attention to the role women as memory keepers for families local communities and the nation Women have tended to work collaboratively making collecting and sharing objects that conveyed sentiments about the deceased whether human or animal as well as the identity of mourners Death is about loss and many of the mourning practices that women have traditionally and are currently engaged in are about dealing with private grief and public loss as well as working to mitigate the more general anxiety that death engenders about the impermanence of life

My Big Cousin Mike Michael L. Pinkard Jr., 2024-03-01 Did you ever have an iconic big brother big sister older cousin or neighbourhood hero that everyone admired and wanted to be around Someone who shielded you from bullies wild animals or even your own self doubt Someone who bolstered your confidence and made you feel like you belonged If so then you had your very own Big Cousin Mike This series is a tribute to those remarkable individuals It s a heartfelt thank you for including us in your adventures sporting trials and games Thank you for believing in us when we doubted ourselves and our abilities Thank you for standing up for us against bullies animals and adults who may not have understood the right way to discipline These unsung heroes have helped many of us navigate the turbulent waters of childhood and adolescence My Big Cousin Mike offers a nostalgic chance to reminisce about those times in our lives when we either had our own Mike or were the Mike to someone else If you know someone who was there for you in the ways described either in your youth or even now take a moment to remember acknowledge and appreciate them And if you were or still are that unsung hero this series honors you You are personally thanked here and know that this series is in honor of you CLA Journal ,2014
