The Marriage Track:

Marriage and Marriageability Chigusa Yamaura, 2020-07-15 How do the Japanese men and Chinese women who participate in cross border matchmaking individuals whose only interaction is often just one brief meeting come to see one another as potential marriage partners Motivated by this question Chigusa Yamaura traces the practices of Sino Japanese matchmaking from transnational marriage agencies in Tokyo to branch offices and language schools in China from initial meetings to marriage the visa application processes and beyond to marital life in Japan Engaging issues of colonial history local norms and the very ability to conceive of another or oneself as marriageable Marriage and Marriageability rethinks cross border marriage not only as a form of gendered migration but also as a set of practices that constructs marriageable partners and imaginable marriages Yamaura shows that instead of desiring different others these transnational marital relations are based on the tactical deployment of socially and historically created conceptions of proximity between Japan and northeast China Far from seeking to escape local practices participants in these marriages actively seek to avoid transgressing local norms By doing so on a transnational scale they paradoxically reaffirm and attempt to remain within the boundaries of local marital ideologies

Christopher King, 2005-10-06 Christian interpretations of the Song of Songs have long depended upon the allegorical reading developed by Origen of Alexandria c 185 c 254 This study aims to show that Origen's Commentary and two Homilies on the Song of Songs clearly portray the Song of Songs as the biblical book that as the Bridegroom's perfect marriage song reveals the spirit of Scripture with greater intensity and immediacy than any other Institutionalizing Rights and Religion Leora Batnitzky, Hanoch Dagan, 2017-03-23 Modern statesmen and political theorists have long struggled to design institutions that will simultaneously respect individual freedom of religion nurture religion's capacity to be a force for civic good and human rights and tame religion's illiberal tendencies Moving past the usual focus on personal free expression of religion this
