extended well beyond its military forces to the expertise of its universities and professional men and women. Scientists and engineers oversaw the manufacture of munitions and the development of chemical weapons. Doctors sustained soldiers in the trenches and treated the physically and psychologically damaged. Public servants, lawyers and translators were employed in the war bureaucracy while artists and writers found new modes to convey the trauma of war. The graduates and staff of Australia's six universities—Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Tasmania, Queensland and Western Australia—were involved in this expansion of expertise. But what did these men and women do after the guns were silenced? How were the professions and universities transformed by the immediate and longer term impacts of the war?

The First World War the Universities and the Professions examines how the technical and conceptual advances that occurred during World War I transformed Australian society. It traces the evolving role of universities and their graduates in the 1920s and 1930s, the increasing government validation of research, the expansion of the public service and the rise of modern professional associations and international networks. While the war contributed to greater specialisations in traditional professions such as teaching or medicine, it also stimulated new jobs and training, whether in economics, anthropology or graphic art. This volume provides a new account of the interwar years that places knowledge and expertise at the heart of the Australian story. Its four sections—The Medical Sciences, Science and Technology, Humanities, Social Sciences and Teaching and The Arts, Design, Music and Writing—highlight how World War I disrupted and shaped the careers of individuals as well as the development of Australian society and institutions.

Out of Paper Katie Anania, 2024-06-11 A dynamic look at how artists used paper to radically redefine the relationship between the body and its surroundings and to propose new conceptions of ecology. From sketches created inside pants pockets to paper strewn performances that took cues from protests and riots, the work on paper in the 1960s acted as a mobile, flexible connective tissue between the body and the world around it. In this book, Katie Anania reveals how artists Carolee Schneemann, William Anastasi, Richard Tuttle, Robert Morris and Charles White harnessed this historically intimate medium during a period in which Americans were becoming urgently concerned with identity, consumer culture, the overreach of state power and the rapidly deteriorating natural world. Her reexamination of drawing shows how the omnipresence of paper facilitated artists' critiques of dominant systems, from modern throwaway culture to bureaucracy to colonial violence. Engaging a wide range of actions such as recycling, recording, cutting, planning and erasing, Anania offers fresh insights into paper's role, not merely as a preparatory medium but one essential to the histories of performance, minimalist, conceptual and land art. Out of Paper uses materiality studies, social history and feminist art historical methods to situate paper as a major conduit for thought in the postwar United States.

Ethno-Playography Anne Hart, 2007-07-27 Here's how to write salable plays, skits, monologues or docu-dramas from life experiences, social issues or current events. Write plays, skits using the technique of ethno-playography, which incorporates traditions, folklore and ethnography into dramatizing real events. The sample play and monologues portray events as social issues. One true life example for a skit is the scene in the sample play written from first person point of view about a 1964 five minute train interlude when a male passenger commands the protagonist not to cross between cars while the train is in motion The passenger stands between the cars next to his wife who says timorously Let her go dear after the wife notices the young protagonist wears a wedding ring The protagonist tells him she s pregnant returning from the john and needs to get back to her family Instead he squeezes her head in a vise like grip crushing her between his knee and the wall of the train He kicks at the base of her spine yelling stereotypical ethnic epithets while passengers ignore events After the sample play and three monologues for performance you will have learned how to write ethnographic dialogue and select appropriate scene settings Also included are e interviews with popular fiction writers
