Palumbo,2004 Who wrote the Dead Sea Scrolls Paleographical dating has tended to downplay the Scrolls importance and to distance them from the personages of earliest Christianity but a carefully worked out theory based on radiocarbon dating and other tests connects Scroll allusions to personages and events in the period from 37 BC to AD 71 and suggests a new view on how and why the Romans crucified Jesus Part I of this study is an attempt to deal more realistically with the evidence of the Dead Sea Scrolls very few scholars have ever examined the period from 37 BC to AD 71 as the possible setting for the scrolls Nevertheless everyone would admit the existence of scroll allusions that only have real relevance in this time period Part II takes up Jesus and the beginnings of Christianity

Studies in the Hebrew Bible, Qumran, and the Septuagint James C. VanderKam, Peter W. Emerging Sectarianism in the Dead Sea Scrolls, 2022-07-18 These essays reflect the lively debate about the sectarian movement of the Scrolls They debate the degree to which the movement was separated from the rest of Judaism and whether there was one or several watershed moments in the separation Notable contributions include a cluster of essays on the Teacher of Righteousness and a thorough survey of the archaeology of Qumran The texts are problematic in historical research because they rely on biblical stereotypes Nonetheless possible interpretations can be compared and degrees of probability debated The debate is significant not only for the sect but for the nature of ancient Judaism The Dead Sea

When the Son of Man Didn't Come Christopher M. Hays, 2016-06-01 The delay of the Parousia the second coming of Christ has vexed Christians since the final decades of the first century This volume offers a critical constructive and interdisciplinary solution to that dilemma The argument is grounded in Christian tradition while remaining fully engaged with the critical insights and methodological approaches of twenty first century scholars The authors argue that the deferral of Christ's prophesied return follows logically from the conditional nature of ancient predictive prophecy Jesus has not come again because God's people have not yet responded sufficiently to Christ's call for holy and godly action God in patient mercy remains committed to cooperating with humans to bring about the consummation of history with Jesus return Collaboratively written by an interdisciplinary and ecumenical team of scholars the argument draws on expertise in biblical studies systematics and historical theology to fuse critical biblical exegesis with a powerful theological paradigm that generates an apophatic and constructive Christian eschatology The authors however have done more than tackle a daunting theological problem as the group traverses issues from higher criticism through doctrine and into liturgy and ethics they present an innovative approach for how to do Christian theology in the twenty first century academy
