The Private Farmer Transformation And Legitimation In Advanced Capitalist Agriculture:

The Private Farmer Stephen Pile, 1990 Studie o a via enquetes naar de wijze waarop Engelse melkveehouders de hun opgelegde bedrijfsmatige veranderingen begrijpen en interpreteren en in hoeverre zij de regering verantwoordelijk achten voor moeilijke bedrijfsomstandigheden

The Private Farmer Stephen John Pile, 1988 Farming for Us All Michael Mayerfeld Bell, 2024-07-02 Climate change Habitat loss Soil erosion Groundwater depletion Toxins in our food Inhumane treatment of farm animals Increasing farm worker exploitation Hunger and malnutrition in the midst of plenty What will it take for farmers in the United States to embrace sustainable practices Michael Mayerfeld Bell's Farming for Us All first tackled this question twenty years ago providing crucial insight into how the structure of US agriculture created this situation and exploring by contrast the practices of farmers who are working together to radically change how they think learn and grow This updated edition of his now classic work reflects on the lessons learned over the past two decades Constrained by an oppressive nexus of markets regulations subsidies and technology farmers find themselves undermining their own economic and social security as well as the security of the land Bell turns to Practical Farmers of Iowa PFI that state's largest sustainable agriculture group He traces how PFI creates an agriculture that engages others farmers researchers officials and consumers in a common conversation about what agriculture could look like Through dialogue PFI members crossbreed knowledge discovering pragmatic solutions to help crops grow in ways that sustain families communities societies economies and environments Farming for Us All makes the case that for sustainable farming to flourish new social relations are as important to cultivate as new crops This book is necessary and hopeful reading for anyone concerned about the present and future of food and farming

Constructing The Countryside Terry Marsden, Jonathon Murdoch, Philip Lowe, Richard C Munton, Andrew Flynn, 2005-08-16 The first of a five volume series Restructuring Rural Areas from the London Countryside Research Centre this book aims to put the rural domain firmly on the agenda of social science enquiry

Development Sociology Norman Long, 2003-09-02 In this exciting and challenging work Norman Long brings together years of work and thought in development studies to provide a key text for guiding future development research and practice Using case studies and empirical material from Africa and Latin America Development Sociology focuses on the theoretical and methodological foundations of an actor oriented and social constructionist form of analysis This style of analysis is opposed to the traditional structuralist institutional analysis which is often applied in development studies With an accessible mix of general debate critical literature reviews and original case study materials this work covers a variety of key development issues Among many important topics discussed the author looks at commoditisation small scale enterprise and social capital knowledge interfaces networks and power globalisation and localisation as well as policy formulation and planned intervention processes This book should be read for its desire to pursue a form of analysis that helps us to understand better and more realistically the kinds of development interventions and social transformations that have characterised the second half of the twentieth century and will no doubt continue to characterise future development studies

A Future for Regional Australia I. W. Gray, Geoffrey Lawrence, 2001-07-31 This book interprets the predicament faced by Australia's regional people from their own perspective and proposes a means by which they can act together to find a secure future under globalisation. It argues that neoliberalism in combination with its real world effects in economic policy are driving regional Australia further into social environmental and economic decay. The book will be of great interest to all concerned about the future of regional Australia and will make a lively and relevant text for students studying the social sciences in the countryside or in the major cities.

The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban. That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural. In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas. Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agriculture has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city. More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice. In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources. The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance. The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally. These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts.
