The Political Economy of Land Alan Gilbert, Patsy Healey, 1985      Oiling the Urban Economy Franklin

Obeng-Odoom, 2014-06-13 This book presents a critical analysis of the resource curse doctrine and a review of the international evidence on oil and urban development to examine the role of oil on property development and rights in West Africa's new oil metropolis Sekondi Takoradi Ghana. It seeks answers to the following questions: In what ways did the city come into existence? What changes to property rights are oil prospecting, explorations and production introducing in the 21st century? How do the effects vary across different social classes and spectrums? To what extent are local and national institutions able to shape, restrain and constrain transnational oil-related accumulation and its effects on property in land, property in housing, residential leisure and commercial and property in labour? How do these processes connect with the entire urban system in Ghana? This book shows how institutions of varying degrees of power interact to govern land, housing and labour in the city and analyses how efficient, sustainable and equitable the outcomes of these interactions are. It is a comprehensive account of the tensions and contradictions in the main sectors of the urban economy, society and environment in the booming Oil City and will be of interest to urban economists, development economists, real estate economists, Africanists and urbanists.

The Geography of the Third World Michael Pacione, 2012-08-06 First published in 1988, this reissue presents a comprehensive overview of contemporary developments and research into the geography of the Third World at a time when economies and societies there were changing at a much more rapid rate than their counterparts in the developing world. It covers the topic both systematically and by region, showing how the unique background of each region affects developments there. Economic Growth and Urbanization in Developing Areas David Drakakis-Smith, 2017-10-30 Originally published in 1990, Economic Growth and Urbanization in Developing Areas is a wide-ranging collection of research studies focused on urban economic growth at various levels of urban and national development. The contributions range from studies of peripheral Third World states such as Fiji and Malaysia to countries of the so-called semi-periphery such as Spain, South Africa and Northern Australia. In addition, the authors cover a variety of thematic topics within the framework of urban economic development, from the provision of basic services such as housing and food to the functional preservation of historic cores and the impact of economic change on family structure.

Self-help Housing, the Poor, and the State in the Caribbean Robert B. Potter, Dennis Conway, 1997 This collection of essays represents the first in-depth scholarly treatment of housing policies and conditions throughout the Caribbean. The contributors consider both the performance of the state and the autonomous activities of the poor, making this volume an invaluable contribution to future planning and debate. The essays, each dealing with a specific island or group of islands, collectively address four main themes: the history of housing provision since colonization; current housing conditions; state policies toward housing provision; and the changing relationships between governments, international funding agencies, the private housing sector and the people's responses.

These investigations not only highlight the often alarming problems that Caribbean nations face in providing adequate housing for the poor but also implicate governments in past and present failures and poor performances. However, the essays are also filled with useful insights about the ways in which progressive housing policies can be formulated and implemented. For example, the volume suggests that the Caribbean's rich heritage of folk and vernacular architectural styles should be taken into serious account in future planning efforts. In a concluding synthesis chapter, the volume editors argue that a more progressive future is attainable if all parties exhibit the political will that the poor have already demonstrated.

The City in the Developing World Robert B. Potter, Sally Lloyd-Evans, 2014-09-25. The City in the Developing World is a comprehensive and up-to-date introduction to urbanisation in developing countries. The goal of this text is to place an understanding of the developing world city in its wider global context. First, this is done by developing the concept of social surplus product as a key to understanding the character of the contemporary Third World city. Second, throughout this text, the city in developing areas is centrally placed in the context of global social, economic, political, and cultural change. Thus, the important themes of globalisation, modernity, and postmodernity are examined both in relation to the structure of sets of towns and cities which make up the national or regional urban system and in respect of ideas and concepts dealing with the morphology, structure, and social patterning of individual urban areas. The City in the Developing World is a core text for second and third year undergraduates in the fields of geography, development studies, planning, economics, and the social sciences, taking options which deal with development issues, development theory, gender and development, and Third World development.

The Development of Indonesia's Oil Industry Cecile T. David, 1995. The Geography of South America Thomas A. Rumney, 2013-04-18. South America is an area of fascination and study for geographers and other scholars from around the world, and its land and people have played important roles in the discovery and distribution of civilizations, resources, and nations for millennia. The region has long stimulated a large amount of research across the many subdisciplines of geography, and Thomas A. Rumney collects, organizes, and presents as many scholarly publications as possible in The Geography of South America: A Scholarly Guide and Bibliography. Every South American nation is included: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, French Guiana, Guyana, Paraguay, Peru, Surinam, Uruguay, and Venezuela. Beginning with an overview of the region as a whole, successive chapters, one per nation, are divided by specific subdisciplines of geography: cultural, social, economic, historical, physical, and environmental, political, and urban. Each section is then divided by document type: atlases, books, book chapters, articles from scholarly journals, master's theses, and doctoral dissertations. Although the majority of entries focus on English language works, selected entries written in Spanish, French, German, and other languages are also included, with the entry titles translated into English and noted accordingly.

Learning from Other Countries: The Cross-National Dimension in Urban Policy Making I. Masser, Mrs Bernadette Williams, R. Williams, 2005-08-11. Looking at the lessons we can learn from international research in urban and regional planning, this book explores the challenges in using cross country studies The contributors address how to approach researching planning in other countries and how to then diffuse the planning information Key topics include comparable urban data and how to use it working with international agencies methodological issues in cross country research translating theory into practice Case studies include researching new towns in France and Poland and problems doing empirical work in Eastern Europe     Welfare, Poverty and Development in Latin America Christopher Abel, Colin M. Lewis, 2015-12-30 The book analyzes the social consequences of recent development strategies in Latin America The volume introduces readers to official strategies private initiatives and individual responses to issues of welfare and poverty during the twentieth century These issues are addressed from several disciplines A substantial introduction is followed by a wide range of case studies including Pinochet's Chile the Haiti of the Duvaliers and Nicaragua under the somocistas and sandinistas as well as Brazil Mexico the Argentine Cuba and Colombia
