Chaco and After in the Northern San Juan Catherine M. Cameron, 2018-06-27 Chaco Canyon the great Ancestral Pueblo site of the eleventh and twelfth centuries remains a central problem of Southwestern archaeology Chaco with its monumental great houses was the center of a vast region marked by outlier great houses The canyon itself has been investigated for over a century but only a few of the more than 200 outlier great houses key to understanding Chaco and its times have been excavated This volume explores the Chaco and post Chaco eras in the northern San Juan area through extensive excavations at the Bluff Great House a major Chaco outlier in Utah Bluff s massive great house great kiva and earthen berms are described and compared to other great houses in the northern Chaco region Those assessments support intriguing new ideas about the Chaco region and the effect of the collapse of Chaco Canyon on outlying great houses New insights from the Bluff Great House clarify the construction and use of great houses during the Chaco era and trace the history of great houses in the generations after Chaco s decline An innovative comparative study of the northern and southern portions of the Chaco world the northern San Juan area around Bluff and the Cibola area around Zuni leads to new ideas about population aggregation and regional abandonment in the Southwest Appendixes present details and descriptions of artifacts recovered from Bluff ceramics projectile points pollen analyses faunal remains bone tools ornaments and more This book is one of only a handful of reports on Chacoan great houses in the northern San Juan region It provides an in depth study of the Chaco era and clarifies the relationship of outlying great houses to Chaco Canyon Research at the Bluff Great House begins to answer key questions about the nature of Chaco and its region and the history of the northern San Juan in the Chaco and post Chaco worlds Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations for 1976

Gwinn Vivian, 1990 This book was presented the New Mexico Heritage Preservation Award of Honor in 1991 This is the definitive scholarly reconstruction of the Chacoan World of the 10th to 12th century native Americans These tribes built and lived in Pueblo Bonito Aztec Ruin Mesa Verde and many of the other magnificent prehistoric pueblos scattered throughout the San Juan Basin of northwestern New Mexico which are some of our most popular national parks and monuments today The Chacoan Prehistory of the San Juan Basin will appeal to archaeologists interested in the American Southwest including undergraduate and graduate students and all amateur and professional archaeologists The Archaeology of Chaco

Canyon Stephen H. Lekson, 2006 The site of a great Ancestral Pueblo center in the 11th and 12th centuries AD the ruins in Chaco Canyon look like a city to some archaeologists a ceremonial center to others Chaco and the people who created its monumental great houses extensive roads and network of outlying settlements remain an enigma in American archaeology Two decades after the latest and largest program of field research at Chaco the National Park Service's Chaco Project from 1971 to 1982 the original researchers and other leading Chaco scholars convened to evaluate what they now know about Chaco in light of new theories and new data Those meetings culminated in an advanced seminar at the School of American Research where the Chaco Project itself was born in 1968 In this capstone volume the contributors address central archaeological themes including environment organization of production architecture regional issues and society and polity They place Chaco in its time and in its region considering what came before and after its heyday and its neighbors to the north and south including Mesoamerica The Architecture of Chaco Canyon, New Mexico Stephen H Lekson, 2007-06-13 A fresh volume on the ancient structures of Chaco Canyon built by native peoples between AD 850 and 1130 that unifies older information on the area with new advanced research techniques focusing on studies of technology and building types analyses of architectural change and readings of the built environment aided by over 150 maps floor plans elevations and photos A History of the Ancient Southwest Stephen H. Lekson, 2009 According to archaeologist Stephen H Lekson much of what we think we know about the Southwest has been compressed into conventions and classifications and orthodoxies This book challenges and reconfigures these accepted notions by telling two parallel stories one about the development personalities and institutions of Southwestern archaeology and the other about interpretations of what actually happened in the ancient past While many works would have us believe that nothing much ever happened in the ancient Southwest this book argues that the region experienced rises and falls kings and commoners war and peace triumphs and failures In this view Chaco Canyon was a geopolitical reaction to the Colonial Period Hohokam expansion and the Hohokam Classic Period was the product of refugee Chacoan nobles chased off the Colorado Plateau by angry farmers Far to the south Casas Grandes was a failed attempt to create a Mesoamerican state and modern Pueblo people with societies so different from those at Chaco and Casas Grandes deliberately rejected these monumental hierarchical episodes of their past From the publisher The second printing of A History of the Ancient Southwest has corrected the errors noted below SAR Press regrets an error on Page 72 paragraph 4 also Page 275 note 2 regarding absolute dates 50 000 dates was incorrectly published as half a million dates Also P 125 lines 13 14 Between 21 000 and 27 000 people lived there should read Between 2 100 and 2 700 people lived there Excavations at Anasazi Sites in the Upper Puerco River Valley Richard B. political and social aspects of native peoples Arkansas Archeological Survey Research Series ,1989 The Archaeology of Tribal Societies William A. Parkinson,2002-03-01 Anthropological archaeologists have long attempted to develop models that will let them better understand the evolution of human social organization In our search to understand how chiefdoms and states evolve and how those societies differ from egalitarian bands we have neglected to develop models that will aid the understanding of the wide range of variability that exists between them This volume attempts to fill this gap by exploring social organization in tribal or autonomous village societies from several different ethnographic ethnohistoric and archaeological contexts from the Pre Pottery Neolithic Period in the Near East to the contemporary Jivaro of Amazonia

Ripples in the Chichimec Sea Frances Joan Mathien,Randall H. McGuire,1986 This is the first book in 40 years to consider systematically the nature and extent of Southwestern Mesoamerican interactions Is the Southwest simply the northernmost extent of Mesoamerica or is it an independent entity that developed on its own with only occasional borrowings from Mesoamerica This question is the basis for a debate that extends to the very beginnings of archaeological investigation in the Southwest Mathien and McGuire have brought together 12 papers and two commentaries that challenge this long standing and perhaps misleading central question Reality suggests their 13 contributors lie not at these polar opposites but along a continuum of interactions and economic connections on a number of geographic levels These papers raise a series of sophisticated issues that are both theoretical and empirical Can models such as Wallerstein's be used to study the prehistory of the Southwest and Mesoamerica and by implication other prehistoric economic systems When is a region peripheral and when is it external How may the boundaries of large economic systems be determined Prehistoric
