Eliot and the Poetics of Evolution Lois A. Cuddy,2000 Guided by Eliot's own allusions and references to specific authors and historical moments Cuddy adds a feminist cultural and intertextual perspective to the familiar critical interpretations of Eliot's work in order to reread poems and plays through nineteenth century ideologies and knowledge set against our own time By considering the implications and consequences of Eliot's culturally approved assumptions this study further reveals how Eliot was trapped between the idea of Evolution as a unifying project and the reality of his own and his culture's hierarchical and fragmenting beliefs about class gender religion and race Cuddy concludes by exploring how this conflict undermined Eliot's mission of unity and influenced his and Modernism's place in history BOOK JACKET      The Story I Tell Myself Hazel E. ### Dictionary of Modern American Philosophers John R. Shook,2005-01-01 The Dictionary of Modern American Philosophers includes both academic and non academic philosophers and a large number of female and minority thinkers whose work has been neglected It includes those intellectuals involved in the development of psychology pedagogy sociology anthropology education theology political science and several other fields before these disciplines came to be considered distinct from philosophy in the late nineteenth century Each entry contains a short biography of the writer an exposition and analysis of his or her doctrines and ideas a bibliography of writings and suggestions for further reading While all the major post Civil War philosophers are present the most valuable feature of this dictionary is its coverage of a huge range of less well known writers including hundreds of presently obscure thinkers In many cases the Dictionary of Modern American Philosophers offers the first scholarly treatment of the life and work of certain writers This book will be an indispensable reference work for scholars working on almost any aspect of modern American thought

Off with Her Head! Howard Eilberg-Schwartz, Wendy

Doniger,1995-11-14 Whereas many books look at how women's bodies are represented in different religions and cultures around the world this work explores the site of a woman's voice and identity her head The female head threatens to disrupt the classic gender distinctions that link men to speech identity and mind while relegating women to silence anonymity and flesh The contributors to this collection argue that the objectification of women as sexual and reproductive bodies results in their symbolic beheading Decapitation occurs symbolically in myths as well as in actual practices such as veiling head covering and cosmetic highlighting which by sexualizing a woman's face turns it into an extension of her body The essays explore how similar treatments of the female head find their unique articulation in diverse religious traditions and cultures in Hindu myths of beheading in Buddhist and Tantric practices and poetry about the hair of female nuns in the resistance to veiling by early Christian women at Corinth in contemporary veiling practices in a Turkish village in the eroticization of the female mouth in ancient Judaism and in Greek and Roman cosmetic practices Together these essays show how the depiction of the female head is critical for an understanding of gender and its influence on other fundamental religious and cultural issues

Bob Dylan and Leonard Cohen

David Boucher, Lucy Boucher,2021-04-08 Both Dylan and Cohen have been a presence on the music and poetry landscape spanning six decades This book begins with a discussion of their contemporary importance and how they have sustained their enduring appeal as performers and recording artists The authors argue that both Dylan and Cohen shared early aspirations that mirrored the Beat Generation They sought to achieve the fame of Dylan Thomas who proved a bohemian poet could thrive outside the academy and to live his life of unconditional social irresponsibility While Dylan's and Cohen's fame fluctuated over the decades it was sustained by self consciously adopted personas used to distance themselves from their public selves This separation of self requires an exploration of the artists relation to religion as an avenue to find and preserve inner identity The relationship between their lyrics and poetry is explored in the context of Federico Garc a Lorca's concept of the poetry of inspiration and the emotional depths of duende Such ideas draw upon the dislocation of the mind and the liberation of the senses that so struck Dylan and Cohen when they first read the poetry and letters of Arthur Rimbaud and Lorca The authors show that performance and the poetry are integral and the duende or passion of the delivery is inseparable from the lyric or poetry and common to Dylan Cohen and the Beat Generation

Medusa's Mirrors Julia M. Walker, 1998 The question of selfhood in Renaissance texts constitutes a scholarly and critical debate of almost unmanageable proportions The author of this work begins by questioning the strategies with which male writers depict powerful women Although Spenser's Britomart Shakespeare's Cleopatra and Milton's Eve figure selfhood very differently and to very different ends they do have two significant elements in common mirrors and transformations that diminish the power of the female self

Religion of the Gods Kimberley Christine Patton, 2009 In many of the world's religions both polytheistic and monotheistic a seemingly enigmatic and paradoxical image is found that of the god who worships Various interpretations of this seeming paradox have been advanced Some suggest that it represents sacrifice to a higher deity Proponents of anthropomorphic projection say that the gods are just big people and that images of human religious action are simply projected onto the deities However such explanations do not do justice to the complexity and diversity of this phenomenon In Religion of the Gods Kimberley C Patton uses a comparative approach to take up anew a longstanding challenge in ancient Greek religious iconography why are the Olympian gods depicted on classical pottery making libations The sacrificing gods in ancient Greece are compared to gods who perform rituals in six other religious traditions the Vedic gods the heterodox god Zurvan of early Zoroastrianism the Old Norse god Odin the Christian God and Christ the God of Judaism and Islam's Allah Patton examines the comparative evidence from a cultural and historical perspective uncovering deep structural resonances while also revealing crucial differences Instead of looking for invisible recipients or lost myths Patton proposes the new category of divine reflexivity Divinely performed ritual is a self reflexive self expressive action that signals the origin of ritual in the divine and not the human realm Above all divine ritual is generative both instigating and inspiring human religious activity The religion practiced by the gods is both like and unlike human religious action Seen from within the religious tradition gods are not big people but other than human Human ritual is directed outward to a divine being but the gods practice ritual on their own behalf Cultic time the symbiotic performance of ritual both in heaven and on earth collapses the distinction between cult and theology each time ritual is performed Offering the first comprehensive study and a new theory of this fascinating phenomenon Religion of the Gods is a significant contribution to the fields of classics and comparative religion Patton shows that the god who performs religious action is not an anomaly but holds a meaningful place in the category of ritual and points to a phenomenologically universal structure within religion itself

Device and Composition in the Greek Epic Cycle Benjamin Sammons, 2017-06-22 From a corpus of Greek epics known in antiquity as the Epic Cycle six poems dealt with the same Trojan War mythology as the Homeric poems Though they are now lost these poems were much read and much discussed in ancient times not only for their content but for their mysterious relationship with the more famous works attributed to Homer In Device and Composition in the Greek Epic Cycle Benjamin Sammons shows that these lost poems belonged compositionally to essentially the same tradition as the Homeric poems He demonstrates that various compositional devices well known from the Homeric epics were also fundamental to the narrative construction of these later works Yet while the cyclic poets constructed their works using the same traditional devices as Homer they used these to different ends and with different results Sammons argues that the essential difference between cyclic and Homeric poetry lies not in the fundamental building blocks from which they are constructed but in the scale of these components relative to the overall construction of poems This sheds important light on the early history of epic as a genre since it is likely that these devices originally developed to provide large scale structure to shorter poems and have been put to quite different use in the composition of the monumental Homeric epics Along the way Sammons sheds new light on the overall form of lost cyclic epics and on the meaning and context of the few surviving verse fragments
