The Metropolis of Tomorrow Hugh Ferriss, 2005-02-11 In 1916 New York City enacted zoning laws that mandated the building of set back structures so that light and air would be more freely admitted into the streets below This concept was first proposed by Louis Sullivan in his 1891 article The high building question inspired by William Le Baron Jenney's recently completed Manhattan building in Chicago Hugh Ferriss 1889 1962 American draftsman and architect studies architecture at Washington University in St Louis where the Beaux Arts school was favored Early in his career he worked as a draftsman in the office of Cass Gilbert until he became a freelance delineator In 1922 Ferriss took part in a series of zoning envelope studies that sought to comply with the earlier city legislation Such were the key ingredients that gave rise to this book In this book 59 stunning illustrations depict towering structures personal space wide avenues and rooftop parks features that now exist in many innovative densely populated urban landscapes Ferriss uses metaphors from nature that lend his text a poetic quality It is no wonder that the work inspired critics of the time to remark As a creative entity as a symbol of the American spirit it is superb Survey and as magically stirring as a prophecy Albert Guerard in Books With its eloquent commentary and powerful renderings this book is an indispensable resource for students architects and anyone else with an interest in American architecture Back cover The Public General Statutes Great Britain, 1892 The Complete Statutes of England, Classified and Annotated Great Britain, 1929 A Collection of the Public General Statutes, 1860
