DiMaggio, 2017-02-21 Tracking the effects of media content on the public is a difficult endeavor and media effects vary on a subject to subject basis To address this challenge The Politics of Persuasion employs a multifaceted mixed method approach to studying mass media and public attitudes Anthony R DiMaggio analyzes more than a dozen case studies covering US domestic economic policy and examines a wide range of theories of how bias operates in mass media with regard to coverage of these issues While some research claims that journalists are overly negative and biased against government officials some reveals that journalists favor citizens groups Still other studies contend there is a liberal bias in the media a progovernment bias or a bias in favor of advertisers and business interests Through his analysis DiMaggio is the first to systematically examine all of these competing interpretations He concludes that reporters tailor stories to corporate and government interests but argues that the ability to manufacture consent from the public in favor of these elite views is far from guaranteed According to DiMaggio citizens often make use of their own personal experiences and prior attitudes to challenge official narratives The Politics of Crime Control Professor Kevin Martin Stenson, David Cowell, 1991-10-23 What is meant by crime crime prevention and crime control Who defines the acts which are deemed as criminal Who devises the sanctions and who acts as agents of social control This timely and challenging book brings together a group of leading international criminologists from all sides of the political

The Politics of Egypt Ninette S. Fahmy, 2012-10-12 This book addresses two important matters of current concern to Middle East scholars firstly the nature of the Egyptian state and society and the interactive process between them and secondly how change which would finally lead to development can be initiated The book argues that the Egyptian case represents a weak authoritarian state which through its coercive and repressive policies towards various societal forces political parties professional associations and organisations and individuals creates a weak society Individual behaviour in urban and rural communities sometimes viewed as signs of the strength of societal forces is seen here as a symptom of a weak and fragmented society The existence of a weak society in turn impedes government objectives and hinders the implementation of developmental policies and programmes further weakening the state This being the case change has to be initiated externally in both the political and economic spheres

The Politics of the Black "nation" Georgia Anne Persons, This volume of the National Political Science Review the official publication of the National Political Science Association is anchored by a major symposium on The Politics of the Black Nation the book authored by Matthew Holden in 1973 which is now considered one of the most influential books in the field of black politics Twenty five years provide a sufficient timespan on which to base a retrospective of the book and simultaneously to reflect upon the evolution of the black liberation struggle more formally called African American politics In the present age there is not much talk about a black nation certainly not as was heard during the 1960s and mid 1970s Yet there is a persistent sense of separateness in that there is constant thought and talk of Black America as a significantly separate communal entity Black Americans are seen as a racially and culturally distinct community holding to social political economic interests which have special significance and poignancy for them Holden s perception of the nature of the times in the early seventies stands in sharp contrast to how contemporary analysts of African American politics tend to perceive the nature of African Americans role in political life and their position in American society in the present age In this retrospective readers have the opportunity to get a sense of what Holden argued of the seven essays that make up his seminal volume and to consider how well Holden s observations have stood the tests of time In addition to the essays presented at the symposium which pointedly discuss Holden s work there are essays dealing with African American Politics in Constancy and Change by contributors including Charles Henry David Covin Robert C Smith Clyde Lusane Cheryl Miller D Linell Finley and Sekou Franklin among others Other features are a highly informative discussion of the Literary Digest magazine s Straw Vote Presidential Polls 1916 1936 and a review essay by Peter Ronaye in which he discusses America as New World Power U S Foreign Policy in the Post Cold War Era The volume concludes with fifteen book reviews by knowledgeable scholars The Politics of the Black Nation is a timely thought provoking volume It will be of immense value to ethnic studies specialists African American studies scholars political scientists historians and sociologists Georgia A Persons is professor in the School of Public Policy at the Georgia Institute of Technology and the current editor of the National Political Science Review
