The Master Plan Of Teaching:

The Master Plan of Teaching Matt Friedeman,1990      Teacher Preparation Illinois. Board of Higher Education. Master Plan Phase III Committee Q.,1969      Policy and Performance in American Higher Education Richard Richardson Jr.,Mario Martinez,2009-06-15 Policy and Performance in American Higher Education presents a new approach to understanding how public policy influences institutional performance with practical insight for those charged with crafting and implementing higher education policy Public institutions of higher learning are called upon by state governments to provide educational access and opportunity for students Paradoxically the education policies enacted by state legislatures are often complex and costly to implement which can ultimately detract from that mission Richard Richardson Jr and Mario Martinez evaluate the higher education systems of five states to explain how these policies are developed and how they affect the performance of individual institutions The authors compare the higher education systems of New Mexico California South Dakota New York and New Jersey and describe the difficulty of enforcing state policies amid increasing demands for greater efficiency and accountability In the process they identify the rules in use rules that are central to the coherence and performance of higher education systems that administrators apply to meet organizational goals within the constraints of changing sometimes conflicting federal and state policies Incorporating rich data from seven years of observations interviews and research Richardson and Martinez offer a clear comparative framework for understanding state higher education work is the starting point for understanding policy issues in varying regional and national contexts Often thought to be a social scientist eager to keep abreast of trends Kerr was actually au fond a moralist and surprisingly old fashioned in his personal values      Access and Expansion Post-Massification Ben Jongbloed,Hans Vossensteyn,2015-12-14 The twenty first century has the potential to be the era of universal higher education access the post massification century The growth of knowledge based service industries and an increased need for technological and social innovations require more education training and re training at the post secondary level This edited collection addresses the crucial issues emerging from this ongoing expansion of higher education focusing on how national systems of higher education can respond to demands for further expansion when traditional routes to higher education have been largely exhausted Does it make a difference how secondary education systems are organised Can we encourage under represented groups to participate in higher education offering them new ways of experiencing higher education without sacrificing quality What role will new suppliers of higher education such as private providers and modes of delivery such as MOOCs play Are there innovative ways to manage the finances of universal access including tuition fees and student loans Will all social groups benefit equally from expansion and find the institution and programme that fits their needs Expansion will require different modes of delivery new system models revised qualification structures changes to the role played by government and a revision of the public private finance mix While this may lead to tensions in terms of the quality efficiency or equality of opportunity in the higher education system there are also new opportunities for students and higher education institutions With experienced researchers offering insights national strategies and policy examples from around the world Access and Expansion Post Massification will give researchers and policymakers the tools they need to expand higher education into the era of the knowledge society
