The Memory Factory:

The Memory Factory Julie M. Johnson, 2012-05-15 The Memory Factory introduces an English speaking public to the significant women artists of Vienna at the turn of the twentieth century each chosen for her aesthetic innovations and participation in public exhibitions These women played important public roles as exhibiting artists both individually and in collectives but this history has been silenced over time Their stories show that the city of Vienna was contradictory and cosmopolitan despite men only policies in its main art institutions it offered a myriad of unexpected ways for women artists to forge successful public careers Women artists came from the provinces Russia and Germany to participate in its vibrant art scene However and especially because so many of the artists were Jewish their contributions were actively obscured beginning in the late 1930s Many had to flee Austria losing their studios and lifework in the process Some were killed in concentration camps Along with the stories of individual women artists the author reconstructs the history of separate women artists associations and their exhibitions Chapters covering the careers of Tina Blau Elena Luksch Makowsky Bronica Koller Helene Funke and Teresa Ries among others point to a more integrated and cosmopolitan art world than previously thought one where women became part of the avant garde accepted and even highlighted in major exhibitions at the Secession and with the Klimt group

The Memory Factory Melvin D. Levine, 2000 The Memory Marketplace Emilie Pine, 2020-06-30 What happens when cultural memory becomes a commodity Who owns the memory In The Memory Marketplace Emilie Pine explores how memory is performed both in Ireland and abroad by considering the significant body of contemporary Irish theatre that contends with its own culture and history Analyzing examples from this realm of theatre Pine focuses on the idea of witnesses both as performers on stage and as members of the audience Whose memories are observed in these transactions and how and why do performances prioritize some memories over others What does it mean to create rehearse perform and purchase the theatricalization of memory The Memory Marketplace shows this transaction to be particularly fraught in the theatricalization of traumatic moments of cultural upheaval such as the child sexual abuse scandal in Ireland In these performances the role of empathy becomes key within the marketplace dynamic and Pine argues that this empathy shapes the kinds of witnesses created The complexities and nuances of this exchange subject and witness spectator and performer consumer and commodified provide a deeper understanding of the crucial role theatre plays in shaping public understanding of trauma memory and history

A Mind at a Time Mel Levine, 2002-04-04 Different minds learn differently writes Dr Mel Levine one of the best known education experts and pediatricians in America today And that s a problem for many children because most schools still cling to a one size fits all education philosophy As a result these children struggle because their learning patterns don t fit the schools they are in In A Mind at a Time Dr Levine shows parents and others who care for children how to identify these individual learning patterns He explains how parents and teachers can encourage a child s strengths and bypass the child s weaknesses This type of teaching produces satisfaction and achievement instead of frustration and failure Different brains are differently wired Dr Levine explains There are eight fundamental systems or components of learning that draw on a variety of neurodevelopmental capacities Some students are strong in certain areas and some are strong in others but no one is equally capable in all eight Using examples drawn from his own extensive experience Dr Levine shows how parents and children can identify their strengths and weaknesses to determine their individual learning styles For example some students are creative and write imaginatively but do poorly in history because weak memory skills prevent them from retaining facts Some students are weak in sequential ordering and can't follow directions They may test poorly and often don't do well in mathematics In these cases Dr Levine observes the problem is not a lack of intelligence but a learning style that doesn't fit the assignment Drawing on his pioneering research and his work with thousands of students Dr Levine shows how parents and teachers can develop effective strategies to work through or around these weaknesses It's taken for granted in adult society that we cannot all be generalists skilled in every area of learning and mastery Nevertheless we apply tremendous pressure to our children to be good at everything They are expected to shine in math reading writing speaking spelling memorization comprehension problem solving and none of us adults can do all this observes Dr Levine Learning begins in school but it doesn't end there Frustrating a child's desire to learn will have lifelong repercussions This frustration can be avoided if we understand that not every child can do equally well in every type of learning We must begin to pay more attention to individual learning styles to individual minds urges Dr Levine so that we can maximize children's learning potential In A Mind at a Time he shows us how

The Female Secession Megan Brandow-Faller,2020-06-22 Decorative handcrafts are commonly associated with traditional femininity and unthreatening docility However the artists connected with interwar Vienna s female Secession created craft based artworks that may be understood as sites of feminist resistance In this book historian Megan Brandow Faller tells the story of how these artists disrupted long established boundaries by working to dislodge fixed oppositions between art and craft decorative and profound and masculine and feminine in art Tracing the history of the women s art movement in Secessionist Vienna from its origins in 1897 at the Women s Academy to the Association of Austrian Women Artists and its radical offshoot the Wiener Frauenkunst Brandow Faller tells the compelling story of a movement that reclaimed the stereotypes attached to the idea of Frauenkunst or women s art She shows how generational struggles and diverging artistic philosophies of art craft and design drove the conservative and radical wings of Austria s women s art movement apart and explores the ways female artists and craftswomen reinterpreted and extended the Klimt Group s ideas in the interwar years Brandow Faller draws a direct connection to the themes that impelled the better known explosion of feminist art in 1970s America In this provocative story of a Viennese modernism that never disavowed its ornamental decorative roots she gives careful attention to key primary sources including photographs and reviews of early twentieth century exhibitions and archival records of school curricula and personnel Engagingly written and featuring more than eighty representative illustrations The Female Secession recaptures the radical potential of what Fanny Harlfinger Zakucka referred to as works from women s hands It will appeal to art historians working in the decorative arts and modernism as well as historians of Secession era Vienna and gender history

A Sense of Self: Memory, the Brain, and Who We Are Veronica O'Keane, 2021-05-25

How do our brains store and then conjure up past experiences to make us who we are A twinge of sadness a rush of love a knot of loss a whiff of regret Memories have the power to move us often when we least expect it a sign of the complex neural process that continues in the background of our everyday lives This process shapes us filtering the world around us informing our behavior and feeding our imagination Psychiatrist Veronica O'Keane has spent many years observing how memory and experience are interwoven In this rich fascinating exploration she asks among other things Why can memories feel so real How are our sensations and perceptions connected with them Why is place so important in memory Are there such things as true and false memories And above all what happens when the process of memory is disrupted by mental illness O'Keane uses the broken memories of psychosis to illuminate the integrated human brain offering a new way of thinking about our own personal experiences Drawing on poignant accounts that include her own experiences as well as what we can learn from insights in literature and fairytales and the latest neuroscientific research O'Keane reframes our understanding of the extraordinary puzzle that is the human brain and how it changes during its growth from birth to adolescence and old age By elucidating this process she exposes the way that the formation of memory in the brain is vital to the creation of our sense of self

Erasures and Eradications in Modern Viennese Art Architecture and Design challenges the received narrative on the artists exhibitions and interpretations of Viennese Modernism The book centers on three main erasures the erasure of Jewish artists and critics erasures relating to gender and sexual identification and erasures of other marginalized figures and movements Restoring missing elements to the story of the visual arts in early twentieth century Vienna authors investigate issues of gender race ethnic and sexual identity and political affiliation Both well studied artists and organizations such as the Secession and the Austrian Werkbund and iconic figures such as Klimt and Hoffmann are explored as are lesser known figures and movements The book's thought provoking chapters expand the chronological contours and canon of artists surrounding Viennese Modernism to offer original nuanced and rich readings of individual works while offering a more diverse portrait of the period from 1890 through World War II and into the present The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history history design history architectural history and European studies
