Invisibility in African American and Asian American Literature Klara Szymańko, 2008-09-22 The book is a comparative study of the invisibility trope in African American and Asian American literature It distinguishes between various kinds of invisibility and offers a genealogy of the term while providing a theoretical dissection of the invisibility trope itself Investigating the various ways of striving for visibility the author places special emphasis on the need for cooperation among various racial groups While the book explores invisibility in a variety of African American and Asian American literary texts the main focus is on four novels Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man Sam Greenlee's The Spook Who Sat by the Door Maxine Hong Kingston's Tripmaster Monkey and Chang rae Lee's Native Speaker The book not only sheds light on the oppressed but also exposes the structures of oppression and the apparatus of power which often renders itself invisible Throughout the study the author emphasizes that power is multi directional never flowing only in one direction The book brings to light mechanisms of oppression within the dominant society as well as within and between marginalized racial groups

Psychological Constructs and the Craft of African Fiction of Yesteryears Linus Tongwo Asong, 2012 The novel remains the most popular genre in the African literary landscape In the very large body of criticism that has been devoted to the craft of African fiction this very stimulating study of six African novels will hold its own distinctive place for a long while It brings to African critical thought not only an exceptional acumen of interpretation and analysis but something much more important to most of the previous serious literary study than mere technical dissection a keen sense of the experience and imaginative truth that make Asong's selected African texts living books as well as authentic record of human and moral values Many of Asong's perceptions are not only critically shrewd but humanly searching alert to aesthetic quality and invention No one interested in creative criticism of African fiction will read this book without finding its approach a challenge to his or her own reading of African fiction and a stimulus to understanding the growth and enduring richness of the best of the African novel The book balances nicely in its choice of three texts in English and three in French the two dominant colonial languages in Africa South of the Sahara Even more interesting is the fact that although all the French texts have been translated into English Asong opts to treat the three in the original language in which they were conceived and executed a decision which keeps the reader as close as possible to the original idiom

A Historical Guide to Ralph Ellison Steven C. Tracy, 2004-05-13 Ralph Ellison has been a controversial figure both lionized and vilified since he seemed to burst onto the national literary scene in 1952 with the publication of Invisible Man In this volume Steven C Tracy has gathered a broad range of critics who look not only at Ellison's seminal novel but also at the fiction and nonfiction work that both preceded and followed it focusing on important historical and cultural influences that help contextualize Ellison's thematic concerns and artistic aesthetic These essays all previously unpublished explore how Ellison's various apprenticeships in politics as a Black radical in music as an admirer and practitioner of European American and African American music and in literature as heir to his realist naturalist and modernist forebears affected his mature literary productions including his own careful molding of his literary reputation. They present us with a man negotiating the difficult sociopolitical intellectual and artistic terrain facing African Americans as America was increasingly forced to confront its own failures with regard to the promise of the American dream to its diverse populations. These wide-ranging historical essays along with a brief biography and an illustrated chronology provide a concise yet authoritative discussion of a twentieth-century American writer whose continued presence on the stage of American and world literature and culture is now assured.

The New Romanticism Eberhard Alsen, 2014-02-04 The New Romanticism is an overview of the romantic trend taken up by American novelists in the twentieth century. Includes three classic essays by Saul Bellow, Thomas Pynchon, and Toni Morrison.

The Pussycat of Prizefighting Andrew M. Kaye, 2007-04-01 In 1926 Atlanta's Theodore Tiger Flowers became the first African American boxer to win the world middleweight title. The next year he was dead. More than an account of Flowers's remarkable achievements, the book is a penetrating analysis of the cultural and historical currents that defined the terms of Flowers's success. Through the prism of prizefighting, the author reveals the personal cost African Americans faced as they attempted to earn black respect while escaping white hostility.

Smoke Donald E. Westlake, 2001-04-11 Due to a foiled burglary in a high-tech lab doing research for cigarette manufacturers, Freddie Noon, the thief, is now invisible. This condition has clear-cut advantages for a man in Freddie's profession, but now everybody wants a glimpse of Freddie. But Freddie doesn't dare show his face, his shadow, anything. Because Freddie Noon has gotten a taste of invisibility and he can't quit now.

The Gothic World of Stephen King Gary Hoppenstand, Ray Broadus Browne, 1987 Stephen King's popularity lies in his ability to reinterpret the standard Gothic tale in new and exciting ways. Through his eyes, the conventional becomes unconventional and wonderful. King thus creates his own Gothic world and then interprets it for us. This book analyzes King's interpretations and his mastery of popular literature. The essays discuss adolescent revolt, the artist as survivor, the vampire in popular literature, and much more.

'Bitter with the Past but Sweet with the Dream': Communism in the African American Imaginary Cathy Bergin, 2015-05-19 The legacy of the relationship between African American writers and Communism in the US is a contested one. Bergin argues that in three novels by seminal mid-century authors, Wright, Himes, and Ellison, Communism is not dismissed as incapable of meeting the demands of black political identity but is castigated for its refusal to do so. A detailed focus on the political milieu in which these texts operate challenges many of the presumptions about the inability of Communism to comprehend racial oppression which dominate literary critical approaches to these novels. She draws on the complex formations of black political agency.
