Celtic from the West 3 John T. Koch, Barry Cunliffe, 2016-09-01 The Celtic languages and groups called Keltos i.e. Celts emerge into our written records at the pre Roman Iron Age The impetus for this book is to explore from the perspectives of three disciplines archaeology genetics and linguistics the background in later European prehistory to these developments There is a traditional scenario according to which Celtic speech and the associated group identity came in to being during the Early Iron Age in the north Alpine zone and then rapidly spread across central and western Europe This idea of Celtogenesis remains deeply entrenched in scholarly and popular thought But it has become increasingly difficult to reconcile with recent discoveries pointing towards origins in the deeper past It should no longer be taken for granted that Atlantic Europe during the 2nd and 3rd millennia BC were pre Celtic or even pre Indo European The explorations in Celtic from the West 3 are drawn together in this spirit continuing two earlier volumes in the influential series The Archaeology of Cook Inlet, Alaska Frederica De Laguna, 2017-11-15 This book is a volume in the Penn Press Anniversary Collection To mark its 125th anniversary in 2015 the University of Pennsylvania Press rereleased more than 1 100 titles from Penn Press s distinguished backlist from 1899 1999 that had fallen out of print Spanning an entire century the Anniversary Collection offers peer reviewed scholarship in a wide range of subject areas Archaic Hunters and Gatherers in the American Midwest James L Phillips, James A Brown, 2016-09-16 This volume reports on a series of multidisciplinary projects involving the Archaic period of the American Midwest A period of innovation and technical achievement the articles focus on changes in environmental social and economic factors operating in this period and the adaptation of the hunter gatherer peoples living at this time The Archaeology of Arcuate Communities Martin Menz, Analise Hollingshead, Haley Messer, 2024-06-03 Provides case studies of social dynamics and evolution of ring shaped communities of the Eastern Woodlands The Dash Reeves Site Andrew C. Fortier, 2001 This newest addition to the American Bottom Archaeology series reports on the Dash Reeves site an extensive Middle Woodland habitation site that represents a major floodplain village and locality for the production of stone tools The village area consists of clusters of pits and a dense refuse heap containing hundreds of diagnostic Middle Woodlands artifacts an extensive collection of lamellar blades and blade cores projectile points Hill Lake ceramics a diversity of flake blade and core tools and several exotic Hopewell like pieces including earspool and human figurine fragments Inhabited between 150 A D and 300 A D during the Hill Lake phase Dash Reeves appears to have been an important locus of interaction with peoples far to the south The production of blades at Dash Reeves especially those made of local colorful red and blue Ste Genevieve cherts possibly served as the focal point of a far reaching blade exchange system in the Midwest America the American Bottom Archaeology series documents the excavation of sites affected by the construction of Interstate Highway 270 on the Mississippi River floodplain in Illinois counties across the river from St Louis The series is cosponsored by the Federal Highway Administration and the Illinois Department of Transportation Volumes on individual sites are supplemented by a summary volume on the FAI 270 Project's contribution to the culture history of the Mississippi River Valley The Hurricane Hill Site (41HP106), 1999 The Archaeologist's Field Handbook Heather Burke, Claire Smith, Larry J. Zimmerman, Indiana University-Purdue University, Indianapolis, 2008-10-09 This comprehensive handbook provides step by step instructions on how to do archaeological fieldwork in North America The wealth of diagrams photos maps and checklists clearly illustrate how to design fund research map record interpret photograph and present archaeological surveys and excavations Seeking the First Farmers in Western Sjælland, Denmark T. Douglas Price, 2022-06-16 This volume summarizes 30 years of fieldwork in Denmark some of the evidence for the spread of agriculture and the Neolithic into Scandinavia and some opinions about the origins of agriculture It is intended to be both academic and personal and to describe the actual process of research because most projects involve elements of both There is an introduction to each chapter that relates some of the more personal aspects of the research and the bulk of each chapter will be a more technical scientific report on our investigations Each chapter will deal with one of the components of the project survey testing and excavations We excavated eight sites from the Late Mesolithic and Early Neolithic that are discussed in this volume The concluding chapter summarizes our research in the area and proffers opinions on a variety of archaeological subjects with visits to climate change seasonality and sedentism hunter gatherer complexity aDNA inequality and the origins and spread of agriculture The Development of Neolithic House Societies in Orkney Colin Richards, Richard Jones, 2016-04-30 Considering that Orkney is a group of relatively small islands lying off the northeast coast of the Scottish mainland its wealth of Neolithic archaeology is truly extraordinary An assortment of houses chambered cairns stone circles standing stones and passage graves provides an unusually comprehensive range of archaeological and architectural contexts Yet in the early 1990s there was a noticeable imbalance between 4th and 3rd millennium cal BC evidence with house structures and villages being well represented in the latter but minimally in the former As elsewhere in the British Isles the archaeological visibility of the 4th millennium cal BC in Orkney tends to be dominated by the monumental presence of chambered cairns or tombs In the 1970s Claude Lévi Strauss conceived of a form of social organization based upon the house soci t s maisons in order to provide a classification for social groups that appeared not to conform to established anthropological kinship structures In this approach the anchor point is the house understood as a conceptual resource that is a consequence of a strategy of constructing and legitimizing identities under ever shifting social conditions Drawing on the results of an extensive program of fieldwork in the Bay of Firth Mainland Orkney the text explores the idea that the physical appearance of the house is a potent resource for materializing the dichotomous alliance and descent principles apparent in the archaeological evidence for the early and later Neolithic of Orkney It argues that some of the insights made by Lévi Strauss in his basic formulation of soci t s maisons are extremely relevant to interpreting the archaeological evidence and providing the parameters for a social narrative of the material changes occurring in Orkney between the 4th and 2nd millennia cal BC The major excavations undertaken during the Cuween Wideford Landscape Project provided an unprecedented depth and variety of evidence for Neolithic occupation bridging the gap between domestic and ceremonial architecture and form exploring the transition from wood to stone and relationships between the living and the dead and the role of material culture The results are described and discussed in detail here enabling tracing of the development and fragmentation of soci t s maisons over a 1500 year period of Northern Isles prehistory The Mesolithic in Britain Chantal Conneller,2021-11-29 The Mesolithic in Britain proposes a new division of the Mesolithic period into four parts each with its distinct character The Mesolithic has previously been seen as timeless where little changed over thousands of years This new synthesis draws on advances in scientific dating to understand the Mesolithic inhabitation of Britain as a historical process The period was in fact a time of profound change houses monuments middens long term use of sites and regions manipulation of the environment and the symbolic deposition of human and animal remains all emerged as significant practices in Britain for the first time The book describes the lives of the first pioneers in the Early Mesolithic the emergence of new modes of inhabitation in the Middle Mesolithic the regionally diverse settlement of the Late Mesolithic and the radical changes of the final millennium of the period The first synthesis of Mesolithic Britain since 1932 it takes both a chronological and a regional approach This book will serve as an essential text for anyone studying the period undergraduate and graduate students specialists in the field and community archaeology groups The Practitioner Francis Edmund Anstie, Henry Lawson, 1873 Prehistory and the Missouri Valley Development Program Waldo Rudolph Wedel, 1953

Sessional Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1905 Last House on the Hill Mirjana Stevanovic, Ruth Tringham, 2012-12-31 Recipient of the Jo Anne Stolaroff Cotsen Prize Occupied from around 7500 BC to 5700 BC the large Neolithic and Chalcolithic settlement of Catalhoyuk in Anatolia is composed entirely of domestic buildings no public buildings have been identified First excavated in the early 1960s the site was left untouched until 1993 During the summers of 1997 2003 a team from the University of California at Berkeley the BACH team excavated an area at the northern end of the East Mound of Catalhoyuk The houses there date predominantly to the late Aceramic and early Ceramic Neolithic around 7000 BC Last House on the Hill is the final report of the BACH excavations This volume comprises both interpretive chapters and empirical data from the excavations and their materials The research of the BACH team focuses on the lives and life histories of houses and people the use of digital technologies in documenting and sharing the archaeological process the senses of place and the nature of cultural heritage and our public responsibilities Anahim Lake Archaeology and the Early Historic Chilcotin Indians — Vertebrate Faunal Remains from the Potlatch Site (FcSi-2) in South Central British Columbia Roscoe Hall Wilmeth, Frances L. Stewart, 1978-01-01 Excavation of a number of pit house sites at Anahim Lake in the central plateau of British Columbia has resulted in the definition of five components the last two attributed to the Chilcotin There are significant resemblances between these two components and Athabaskan complexes recorded elsewhere in North America In this second part of this publication analysis of the vertebrate remains from Potlatch site reveal much about the subsistence of the Chilcotin Significant changes occurred in the percentage of vertebrate remains through time Evidence of butchering and artifactual modification are discussed Range changes of several species are of zoological interest Published in English      Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,1901      Late Quaternary Paleoecology in the Bonneville Basin David B. Madsen,2000 The work reported here is part of an extended study of paleoenvironmental change and human adaptation in the deserts of western Utah This research involving both archaeological excavations and the recovery of strictly paleoecological materials is loosely grouped under the rubric of The Silver Island Expedition since much of the work has been conducted in the vicinity of the Silver Island Mountains along the western margin of the Great Salt Lake Desert      The Entomologist's Record and Journal of Variation James William Tutt,1917 Subsistence and Culture in the Western Canadian Arctic Matthew W. Betts,2008-01-01 Through innovative analysis of animal bones recovered from archaeological sites this comprehensive study documents the intricate relationships between the Siglit or Mackenzie Inuit and their food animals from their earliest occupations 800 years ago to the arrival of Europeans in the 19th century This volume chronicles the connections between developing Siglit economies and shifts in technology settlement demography and climate exposing in the process the primary link between Siglit subsistence and culture Published in English      Chapters in the Archeology of Cape Cod, I ,1984
