State-Building in the Middle East and North Africa Mohammad-Mahmoud Ould Mohamedou, 2021-10-21 Why have state building projects across the MENA region proven to be so difficult for so long Following the end of the Ottoman Empire in the early 1920s the countries of the region began a violent and divisive process of state formation But a century later state building remains inconclusive This book traces the emergence and evolution of state building across the MENA region and identifies the main factors that impeded its success the slow end of the Ottoman Empire the experience of colonialism and the rise of nationalistic and religious movements The authors reveal the ways in which the post colonial state proved itself authoritarian and formed on the model of the colonial state They also identify the nationalist and Islamist movements that competed for political leadership across the nascent systems enabling the military to establish a grip on the security apparatus and national economies Finally in the context of the Arab Spring and its conflict filled aftermath this book shows how external powers reasserted their interventionism In outlining the reasons why regional states remained hollow and devoid of legitimacy each of the contributors shows that recent conflicts and crises are deeply connected to the foundational period of one century ago Edited by Mohammad Mahmoud Ould Mohamedou the volume features contributions by stellar scholars including Faleh Abdel Jabar Lisa Anderson Bertrand Badie Francois Burgat Benoit Challand Ahmad Khalidi Henry Laurens Bruce Rutherford Jordi Tejel and Ghassan Salam

Celebrating the work of Keith McLachlan a well known and much admired geographer of the Middle East and North Africa this book combines three interrelated topics that define the region The Middle East has been integral to the growth of the global oil industry an aspect of its evolution since 1908 which has had profound geopolitical implications as well The territory was also the arena for the last European experiment in colonialism a development that has left its legacy even today And historically it has been the location of the great hydraulic civilisations of Egypt and Mesopotamia yet is still dependent on the flow of its two major river systems the Nile and the Tigris Euphrates in an era of impending climate crisis These themes form the essence of themes that are discussed in the chapters that follow Keith McLachlan played a significant role in our understanding of these themes and of their effects in the contemporary world as the comments of those who worked with him and have contributed towards this book reveal Examining agriculture oil and state construction this volume offers an insight into how the contemporary Middle East was constructed after the collapse of the Ottoman Empire It is a key resource for scholars and students interested in geopolitics and the geography of the Middle East
