Smallholder Cash Crop Production Under Market Liberalisation A New Institutional Economics Perspective:

Smallholder Cash Crop Production Under Market Liberalisation Andrew Dorward, Jonathan Kydd, Colin Poulton, 1998 A new institutional economics perspective on current policy debates Cotton production and marketing in Northern Ghana the dynamics of competition in a system of interlocking transactions The cashew sector in Southern Tanzania overcoming problems of input supply Cotton and wheat marketing and the provision of pre harvest services in Sindh Province Pakistan New institutional economics policy debates and the research agenda Institutional Economics Perspectives on African Agricultural Development Johann Kirsten, 2009-01-01 Millions of Africans spend their entire lives poor hungry and malnourished and most depend on agriculture for their livelihoods either directly or indirectly Despite its potential to drive economic growth and poverty reduction however African agricultural development has remained disappointing whether because of underinvestment or poor returns to investments This book Institutional Economics Perspectives on African Agricultural Development is inspired by the conviction that effective African agricultural development requires building better institutions It provides an accessible synthesis of new institutional economics theory and research into understanding and improving African agriculture particularly smallholder agriculture Interspersing theory with case studies from a wide range of countries the book addresses such policy issues as how markets for different commodities and services function in different political cultural and economic contexts It not only makes an important contribution to the existing literature but also provides development practitioners policymakers and graduate students working or intending to work in these fields with essential knowledge and tools for addressing these challenges OVERVIEW Theoretical and Conceptual Framework Exchange in Goods and Services Natural Resources Management and An Institutional Perspective on the State Its Role and Challenges Reforming agricultural markets in Africa Kherallah, Mylene, Delgado, Christopher L., Gabre-Madhin, Eleni Z., Minot, Nicholas, Johnson, Michael, 2002-01-01 The long term reduction of hunger and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa remains one of the great challenges for the international development community Eliminating hunger and promoting widespread growth in the region inevitably involves agriculture given its central role in the region's economies Over the past 20 years most African governments have carried out reforms to deregulate agricultural markets and reduce the role of state enterprises How much has the state actually withdrawn from agricultural markets Have well functioning private markets emerged How successful were these reforms in boosting agricultural production economic growth and the incomes of the rural poor What lessons can we learn from the reform process The authors of this book address these questions through an analysis based on an extensive review of experiences with reform focusing on three major agricultural markets fertilizer food crops and export crops They examine the historical rationales for intervention the factors contributing to reform the process of implementation and the impact of the reforms on farmers and consumers in Sub Saharan Africa The authors find that reforms have had many favorable results but that the impact has been muted by partial implementation and structural constraints They propose a new agenda for promoting the development of agricultural markets in Sub Saharan Africa identifying areas where governments can play a supportive role They argue that appropriate agricultural marketing policies and investments can improve livelihoods and the economic health of the region     Unlocking markets to smallholders Herman D. van Schalkwyk, Jan A. Groenewald, Gavin C.G. Fraser, Ajuruchukwu Obi, Aad van Tilburg, 2012-03-10 This book assesses the institutional technical and market constraints as well as opportunities for smallholders notably emerging farmers in disadvantaged areas such as the former homelands of South Africa Emerging farmers are previously disadvantaged black people who started or will start their business with the support of special government programs Public support programs have been developed as part of the Black Economic Empowerment strategy of the South African government These programs aim to improve the performance of emerging farmers This requires first and foremost upgrading the emerging farmers skills by providing access to knowledge about agricultural and entrepreneurial practices To become or to remain good farmers they also need access to suitable agricultural land and sufficient water for irrigation and for feeding their cattle Finally for emerging farmers to be engaged in viable farming operations various factors need to be in place such as marketing and service institutions to give credit for agricultural inputs and investments input markets for farm machinery farm implements fertilizers and quality seeds and accessible output markets for their end products This book develops a policy framework and potential institutional responses to unlock the relevant markets for smallholders     Quality Standards, Value Chains, and International Development Johan Swinnen, 2015-07-28 This book offers the first theoretical analysis of the determination of quality standards and their effects along the value chain     Agricultural Transformation in a Global History Perspective Ellen Hillbom, Patrick Svensson, 2013-03-05 History teaches us that agricultural growth and development is necessary for achieving overall better living conditions in all societies Although this process may seem homogenous when looked at from the outside it is full of diversity within This book captures this diversity by presenting eleven independent case studies ranging over time and space By comparing outcomes attempts are made to draw general conclusion and lessons about the agricultural transformation process     Transforming Agriculture in South Asia Ashok K. Mishra, Anjani Kumar, Pramod K. Joshi, 2020-12-30 Debates about public expenditure in the agricultural sector have reopened in many developing and emerging economies because of high budget deficits and changes in public opinion As a result agricultural policy in many of these countries is beginning to take a more market oriented approach to agrarian problems most notably through the introduction of contract farming This book explores the policy issues around contract farming and its transformative potential and addresses the lack of empirical research on this topic by focusing on South Asia principally India Bangladesh and Nepal The book first addresses the effects of contract farming vertical coordination on productivity food security indicators yield consumption expenditures prices employment and input usage Then it draws lessons from the South Asian case studies on the impact of institutional changes like contract farming on income and food security of smallholder households The core of the book includes case study chapters on several commodities that are produced under contract farming including vegetables and fisheries in Bangladesh low value crops in Nepal and coffee in India Other chapters also explore contracts storage input usage and technical efficiency in these cases This book serves as an essential guide to academics researchers students legislative liaisons and think tank groups interested in agrarian issues agricultural economics and agricultural policy in emerging economies and particularly in South Asia Advances in Food and Non-Food Biomass Production, Processing and Use in Sub-Saharan Africa Daniel Callo-Concha,Hannah Jaenicke,Christine B. Schmitt,Manfred Denich,2020-05-20 The bioeconomy concept aims to add sustainability to the production transformation and trade of biological goods Though implemented around the world the development of national bioeconomies is uneven especially in the global South where major challenges exist in Sub Saharan Africa In this context the international BiomassWeb project aimed to underpin the bioeconomy concept by applying the value web approach which seeks to uncover complex interlinked value webs instead of linear value chains The project also aimed to develop intervention options to strengthen and optimize the synergies and trade offs among different value chains The Special Issue Advances in Food and Non Food Biomass Production Processing and Use in Sub Saharan Africa Toward a Basis for a Regional Bioeconomy compiles 23 articles produced in this framework The articles are grouped in four sections the value web approach the production side processing transformation and trade and global views Agricultural Trade and Poverty Making Policy Analysis Count OECD,2003-01-10 This conference proceedings examines how trade liberalisation and rich country farming practices affect the world s poor Local Institutional Innovation and Pro-poor Agricultural Growth Marijke D'Haese,N. Vink,2003 The cocoa coast: The board-managed cocoa sector in Ghana Kolavalli, Shashidhara,Vigneri, Marcella,2018-02-07 After almost 20 years of declining cocoa production Ghana has been able in the last decade to increase the share of export prices going to producers and more than double production Contrary to Washington Consensus prescriptions these accomplishments were achieved through reforms that did not include market liberalization In The Cocoa Coast The Board Managed Cocoa Sector in Ghana the authors identify factors that have contributed to Ghana s success in cocoa production These include the accountability of the government for the sector s performance cocoa sector performance being seen as a key dimension of economic management its interest in maintaining the ability to raise funds globally as a reliable supplier of high quality cocoa and its policy of retaining a portion of producer revenues to promote the adoption of yield enhancing measures The authors also suggest how Ghana can improve the efficiency of the cocoa sector through measures such as increased transparency and curtailing services that would be better provided by the private sector The Cocoa Coast will be a valuable resource for policy makers development specialists and others interested in different national development paths Renewing Development in Sub-Saharan Africa Deryke Belshaw,the late Arthur Ian Livingstone,2005-06-29 Renewing Development in Sub Saharan Africa reviews the debates and brings together specialist contributions to provide a clear guide to the major complexities of African development. They lay the foundation for designing a range of individual country specific policy sets in which the strategic components are prioritized according to each country's constraints and opportunities. The emphasis of the book is on the identification of effective strategies that will enable individual countries to most effectively exploit their growth opportunities and to meet poverty reducing and other key equity objectives.

Governance, Coordination and Distribution Along Commodity Value Chains Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Trade and Markets Division, 2007. Significant changes are taking place in the value chain for many agricultural commodities, particularly those fresh products destined for supermarket shelves. The changing patterns of these value chains in agriculture affect equity between producers and buyers and equity among producers themselves alter the allocation of resources in agriculture and have implications for domestic as well as international policy. This set of workshop proceedings is published to assist in the understanding and analysis of the implications of these developments, particularly the development of market power among the participants in these markets.

Can Africa Claim the 21st Century? Alan H. Gelb, 2000-01-01. Africa in the 21st Century offers a comprehensive review of development prospects in each of the major development sectors.

Biofuels, Food Security, and Developing Economies Nazia Mintz-Habib, 2016-01-08. The last decade has witnessed major crises in both food and energy security across the world. One response to the challenges of climate change and energy supply has been the development of crops to be used for biofuels. But as this book shows, this can divert agricultural land from food production to energy crops, thus affecting food security, particularly in less developed countries. The author analyses the extent to which biofuels feedstocks fit within the national food security strategy, agro-export orientation and rural development plans and policies of developing economies. Two case studies from Tanzania in East Africa and Borneo in Malaysia are considered in detail, using the non-edible crop of jatropha as an example of how compromises can be reached to balance food and energy goals as well as export markets. The author develops a novel integrated approach: the Institutional Feasibility Study as the basis of her analysis. She addresses key issues such as how do global initiatives for green growth energy security and sustainable development incorporate biofuels industry development Does global biofuels trade present meaningful foreign and local investment opportunities for developing countries To what extent does biofuels feedstock production help with poverty reduction and agricultural sector modernization What role do the EU and the US commitments to biofuels blending targets play in the rapid industry development in developing countries How does the biofuels industry fit within existing formal and informal institutional frameworks Who are the winners and losers in the biofuels global value chain Governing Cotton A. Sneyd,2011-01-28

This book traces the historic relationships between cotton production the international cotton trade and poverty south of the Sahara and assesses various approaches to corporate social responsibility and nongovernmental policy advocacy in this area

Institutions and Economic Change in Southeast Asia Colin Barlow,1999-12-21 This work scrutinizes the role of institutional change with special reference to Southeast Asia It suggests that the nature of institutional arrangements such as households community groups firms and formal governance systems can significantly affect human activity and economic success Economic Spaces of Pastoral Production and Commodity Systems Richard Le Heron,2016-04-29

Pastoralism as a land use system is under recognized in terms of its contribution to food provision livelihoods as well as to human security This book is the first attempt to explore the dynamics of economic spaces of pastoral production and commodity systems for explicit South and North positionings It develops and applies a new approach in combining agri food market and commodity chain perspectives with livelihood approaches This enables new understandings of re aligning exchange relations between the global south and the global north The case studies presented open up new empirical insights in largely under researched areas such as Afghanistan Chad Tibet and Siberia and very recent changes in industrialized economies with major pastoral sectors The book reveals new evidence and theoretical insights about significant changes in established producer consumer relations in agriculture and food Farmers & Markets in Tanzania Stefano Ponte,2002

Ponte Centre for Developmental Research Denmark analyzes farmers livelihood strategies during the upheavals of economic policy reforms in Tanzania He argues that much of the debate on deregulation and market liberalization has been on a macro level bases and has been based on aggregate data of dubious value thus missing the realities of the farmer on the ground He relates continent wide information to the specificities of agricultural change exploring agricultural change from colonial rule to the current day Agricultural input and credit distributions systems at the district level are investigated and the implementation of liberalization policies are explored at the regional and district levels Finally the impact of liberalization on livelihood diversification poverty and inequality are portrayed Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
