Southern Ghors And Northeast Arabah Archaeological Survey:

The Places Where Men Pray Together Paul Wheatley, 2001 What makes a city an economic political and cultural center In The Places Where Men Pray Together Paul Wheatley draws on two decades of astonishingly wide ranging research to demonstrate that Islamic cities are defined by function rather than form by what they do rather than what they are Focusing on the roles of cities during the first four centuries of Islamic expansion Wheatley explores interconnected cultural historical economic political and religious factors to provide the clearest and most extensively documented portrait of early Islamic urban centers available to date Building on the tenth century geographer al Maqdisi s writings on urban centers of the Islamic world buttressed by extensive comparative material from roadbooks topographies histories adab literatures and gazetteers of the time Wheatley identifies the main functions of different Islamic urban centers Chapters on each of the thirteen centers that al Maqdisi identified ranging from the Atlantic to the Indus and from the Caspian to the Sudan form the heart of this book In each case Wheatley shows how specific agglomeration and accessibility factors combined to make every city functionally distinct as a creator of effective space He also demonstrates that far from revolutionizing every aspect of life in these cities the adoption of Islam often affected the development of these cities less than previously existing local traditions The Places Where Men Pray Together is a monumental work that will speak to scholars and readers across a broad variety of disciplines from historians anthropologists and sociologists to religious historians archaeologists and geographers

The Sacred Bridge Anson F. Rainey, R. Steven Notley, 2006 Of all the writings held sacred by the world s religions only the Bible presents a message linked to geography This is not just the location of religious centers but the experience of a people in its land a people that has insisted on its God given right to self identity throughout the ages and in defiance of all forces that sought to deny it All Jews and Christians who profess to find the source of their faith in these Scriptures look to the experiences of that people depicted in the Bible as examples and role models for their search after the Divine will and for their moral conduct among men The religious experiences of that ancient people took place in relation to a geographical setting generally a small postage stamp on the face of the globe a patch of terrain in the southern part of the eastern Mediterranean littoral The Bible is replete with geographical information not as a guidebook for travelers or a textbook on geography but often almost incidental to the message Yet without the geography that message is often obscured or vitiated for the uninformed reader The present atlas seeks to introduce the reader to the geographical elements that can help to make real the social historical and spiritual experience of the People of the Book Publisher North Arabian Desert Archaeological Survey, 1925-50 Henry Field, 1960
