Gregory, 2009 In his latest book Marshall Gregory begins with the premise that our lives are saturated with stories ranging from magazines books films television and blogs to the words spoken by politicians pastors and teachers He then explores the ethical implication of this nearly universal human obsession with narratives Through careful readings of Katherine Anne Porter's The Graveyard Book s The Graveyard Book s The Catbird Seat as well as David Copperfield and Wuthering Heights Gregory asks and answers the question How do the stories we absorb in our daily lives influence the kinds of persons we turn out to be Shaped by Stories weaves its own compelling story about the pervasive ethical effects of reading narrative with Marshall Gregory serving as a highly engaging and ethically admirable narrator a very model of good company James Phelan Distinguished University Professor of English Ohio State University

Marshall Gregory's Shaped by Stories brings ethical criticism to the level of felt experience Witty and passionate full of personal reflections and sharp examples this book will help anyone who has been drawn to the mysterious power of stories to think more carefully about the connections between narrative art and human ethos Gregory reminds us that the urgency of our need for stories is tied permanently to the need to exercise judgment belief and empathy in the process of becoming who we are Annette Federico James Madison University From a lifetime of reflecting on the ethics of fiction Marshall Gregory has given us an elegant analysis of the power of stories to instruct and delight No one interested in storytelling will want to be without this incisive guide to both the myriad ways that stories shape our lives and the strategies writers use to affect our responses Both the theoretical and practical halves of Shaped by Stories have clarity and eloquence Robert D Denham Fishwick Professor of English Emeritus Roanoke College

Rhetoric and Pluralism Frederick J. Antczak, 1995 The first of five groups of essays situates Booth within contemporary controversies and within the life experiences and roles where such controversies matter most for human character Booth's work as a literary critic shapes the second section which focuses on what the authors see as Booth's key ethical questions about literature and literary criticism The third section of essays is concerned with the implications of Booth's writing particularly in its connection with politics Booth's influence in fields other than literary studies provides the theme for the fourth section The final section explores the problematic but promising relation among assent ethics and pluralism
