Subject: Education

There has not been any significant change in the level of poverty in South Africa since the country got independence. In fact, poverty levels have remained high within the country. Stellenbosch University did research in 2000 that showed that the poverty line in South Africa was at about R250 for every person. This would be compared to about $35 per person in a month. Moreover, the same research indicated that as of 1993, the headcount rate relating to poverty was at about 50%. In 2006, the same rate was at about 45%, and this indicated a slight decline. The validity of this research was questioned in the year 2006 by other researchers who believed that about half of the South African citizens were still inferior. According to research, unemployment levels in South Africa were extremely high, and the tren...

South Africa Since 1994 Lessons And Prospects:

Politics in South Africa Tom Lodge, 2003 Further chapters consider the future prospects of South African democracy and provide assessments of both Nelson Mandela and his successor Thabo Mbeki BOOK JACKET Student Resistance to Apartheid at the University of Fort Hare Rico Devara Chapman, 2016-05-12 The book explores forms of popular student resistance to apartheid education in South Africa particularly at the University of Fort Hare UFH by tracing student activism at UFH from 1970 to 2000 highlighting the factors that influenced the development of a culture of student resistance investigating the root causes that made Fort Hare exceptional in its stand against apartheid and chronicling the educational and social implications that resulted from students unparalleled and fearless actions against the apartheid system Student resistance at Fort Hare can be traced as far back as the 1940s however this book will primarily focus on the critical 1970 2000 period which was marked by increased student activism in South Africa The 1980s and 1990s were peak years for student activism in the country There is no doubt that student struggles during this period and thereafter helped dismantle apartheid and usher in a new South African government One World, Many Knowledges Tar Halvorsen, Peter Vale, 2016-05-12 Various forms of academic co operation criss cross the modern university system in a bewildering number of ways from the open exchange of ideas and knowledge to the sharing of research results and frank discussions about research challenges Embedded in these scholarly networks is the question of whether a global template for the management of both higher education and national research organisations is necessary and if so must institutions slavishly follow the high flown language of the global knowledge society or risk falling behind in the ubiquitous university ranking system Or are there alternatives that can achieve a better more ethically inclined world Basing their observations on their own experiences an interesting mix of seasoned scholars and new voices from southern Africa and the Nordic region offer critical perspectives on issues of inter and cross regional academic co operation Several of the chapters also touch on the evolution of the higher education sector in the two regions An absorbing and intelligent study this book will be invaluable for anyone interested in the strategies scholars are using to adapt to the interconnectedness of the modern world It offers fresh insights into how academics are attempting to protect the spaces in which they can freely and openly debate the challenges they face while aiming to transform higher education and foster scholarly collaboration The Southern African Nordic Centre SANORD is a partnership of higher education institutions from Denmark Finland Iceland Norway Sweden Botswana Namibia Malawi South Africa Zambia and Zimbabwe SANORDs primary aim is to promote multilateral research co operation on matters of importance to the development of both regions Our activities are based on the values of democracy equity and mutually beneficial academic engagement The Changing Face of Land and Conservation in Post-colonial Africa George Barrett, Shirley Brooks, Jenny Josefsson, Nqobile Zulu, 2016-03-22 The year 2013 marked the 100th anniversary of the 1913 Land Act in South Africa which legalised the violent dispossession and alienation of the African majority from the land It is common cause that the alienation of land for conservation purposes introduced to Africa under colonial rule has continued more or less uninterrupted until today. However, while nature conservation practices inevitably raise challenging questions relating to land and land use, there has thus far been little concentrated effort to bring together scholars working on the land question, particularly around issues of land tenure, with those whose work focuses on questions of nature construction and the social impacts of conservation in an African context. Compiled from research presented at a ground-breaking interdisciplinary conference held at Rhodes University in Grahamstown, South Africa, in 2012, the chapters in this book made their first appearance in a special issue of the Journal of Contemporary African Studies (JCAS) in July 2013. The book brings critical interdisciplinary analyses of the complex interrelations between contemporary neoliberal conservation practices in post-colonial Africa into conversation with the well-trodden territory of land use and contested land issues on the continent. Anchored by an intellectual curiosity about the extent to which past practices continue into the present and with what consequences, the book provides fresh insights into the complex relationship between land and conservation in contemporary Africa.

Constitutionalism and Democratic Transitions Veronica Federico, Carlo Fusaro, 2006. The book, as the outcome of a research performed by the University of Florence and the United States Institute of Peace of Washington, explores the role of law in the process of democratic transition in South Africa. More specifically, it emphasizes how constitutional law may contribute to civilize apparently reconcilable conflicts, apart from laying down the foundations of the new legal order and institutions. Publisher's description: African Brain Circulation, 2007-07-30. In this book, discussions on African brain circulation and transnational society provide new insights and point to fertile research and policy agendas. Today, a globally important dilemma concerns citizens who either depart from their homeland to enhance their life chances in a rich society but possibly contribute to a brain drain for their homeland or stay home and work but possibly contribute to a brain waste, since conditions at home will not allow them to contribute commensurately with their capability. Increasingly, scholars on the subject of global South to West emigrants argue that it is not just a possibility of a brain drain occurring when citizens emigrate or brain waste occurring when they stay home but rather a brain gain when they emigrate strategically and contribute to development in the homeland.

Diplomacy and Developing Nations Maurice A. East, Justin Robertson, 2012-09-10. This volume explores the foreign policy environment facing developing nations and their particular foreign policy making structures and processes. By defining foreign policy broadly to incorporate the activities of a range of state actors and non-state actors, the book broadens the range of analytical frameworks for studying foreign policy making in developing nations. Thus, the actions of small groups of elites, international institutions, and transnational networks are seen to be part of foreign policy making as well as the traditional operations of foreign ministries The volume is comprised of an extensive introduction four thematic chapters six country studies and a conclusion that ties together common themes These serve as a useful contribution to the analysis of foreign policy making in developing nations a neglected area in the comparative study of foreign policy What Holds Us Together David Chidester, Phillip Dexter, Wilmot Godfrey James, 2003 Examines the effects of a range of global forces on local forms of identity coherence and cohesion With contributions from intellectuals from business organised labour community organisations government structures and academics this book is useful for those interested in the wide ranging effects of globalisation on South Africa There Was Another Country W. Forje, 2021-08-11 In this comprehensive well reasoned critical richly documented and boldly argued account on the Anglophone Southern Cameroons Ambazonia crisis John Forje a foremost scholar of identity politics in Cameroon offers insightful explorations and explanations of histories and cultures of telling truth to power that have come to be associated with the people of the English speaking region of Cameroon The book offers realistic perspectives for the reinstitution of justice equality and democratic governance in a country of plenty but lavishing in endemic underdevelopment Forje argues among other things that the current Anglophone crisis is the exhibition of one reality that more than half a century after independence and unification most Cameroonians are grossly disillusioned with their leaders The country has had only two presidents since independence Ahmadou Ahidjo and Paul Biya with the latter occupying the presidency for 40 years since 1982 and counting If something concrete is not undertaken now the cleavages of division would widen to a dangerous end Dark clouds hang over the future of the country Uncertainty about national unity and stability is hardly a solid foundation for a country aspiring to be an emerging polity by 2035 There is an urgent need for a broader dimension of political dispensation in Cameroon The book calls for proper soul searching critical analysis and a new comprehensive and visionary mindset to build a new country out of the ashes of the existing crumbling or failed polity The need to re rail Cameroon on the democratic train and on the path of sustainable development cannot be overemphasized The Oxford Companion to the Economics of South Africa Haroon Bhorat, Alan Hirsch, S. M. Ravi Kanbur, Mthuli Ncube, 2014 52 entries by leading economists from within and working on South Africa bringing together perspectives on a range of issues micro macro sectoral country wide and global
