Southern Pacific 1269:

Southern Pacific 1269 Howard P. Wise, 1983 Sacramento's Southern Pacific Shops Kevin W. Hecteman, 2010 In 1862 the Central Pacific Railroad was founded and began building eastward from Sacramento as part of the transcontinental railroad. This required a shop capable of keeping the railroad's equipment in running order. So in 1867 in the swamps just north of town the Sacramento shops were born. For well more than a century this massive complex kept the Central Pacific and its corporate successor the Southern Pacific operating smoothly. For many decades the shops were the largest employer in the Sacramento area employing carpenters, painters, draftsmen, boilermakers, electricians, clerks, upholsterers and others. The shops forces designed, built and maintained locomotives, freight and passenger cars and other railroading equipment. The complex closed in 1999. Most of the area popularly known as the Railyards is set for redevelopment. The California State Railroad Museum handles maintenance and restoration of its collection in two of the shops buildings and plans to develop a Railroad Technology Museum on the site. Sacramento Southern Railroad Kevin W. Hecteman, 2009 The Sacramento Southern Railroad was born into a famous railroad family and a busy railroad town in July 1903. The mighty Southern Pacific which controlled the new line from the outset built south from Sacramento along the eastern bank of the Sacramento River into the delta's rich farmland area. At its zenith the line was about 31 miles long serving the communities of Freeport, Hood, Locke, Walnut Grove and Isleton. Trains on what became known as the Walnut Grove Branch hauled pears, sugar beets, asparagus and other products from the agricultural region's packing sheds and canneries. Competition from trucking and damage from flooding took a severe toll on the railroad and the Southern Pacific largely abandoned it by 1978 but a portion lives on as a labor of love. Niles Canyon Railways Henry J. Luna, 2005 All aboard for this photographic journey through the unique railroad history of Niles Canyon near the city of Fremont. The melodic wail of the steam whistle first echoed off these canyon walls in 1866 when the Western Pacific Railroad laid track into Niles as part of a planned route from San Jose to Sacramento. That was three years before the transcontinental route from Sacramento to Omaha was completed in May 1869. Four months after the driving of the Golden Spike that joined the eastern and western United States by rail, the connecting route from Sacramento to Oakland through Niles Canyon was finished, the very last leg of a rail route that truly joined the Atlantic to the Pacific waters for the first time. Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, 1990
