Text Into Image, Image Into Text Jeffrey Morrison, Florian Krobb, 1997 Text into Image Image into Text is a truly interdisciplinary publication Whilst all of the contributions focus upon the central problem of the relationship between literature and the visual arts one which has lost nothing of its fascination as the debate has expanded in numerous forms from antiquity into the realm of postmodern theory they come from contributors working in a large number of different areas Represented are academics from the worlds of German Studies French Studies English Studies Art History and Film Studies Given their backgrounds each of the contributors can offer a different perspective upon the core issue of translation between media but perhaps most valuable is the combination of perspectives made possible by the arrangement of the volume into sections dealing with aspects of the image text debate In the same way that the volume gains by ranging across traditional disciplinary boundaries so it also gains from dealing with a wide range of historical material from to take only one possible route Baroque iconography through Romantic imagery to Expressionist agony

The Hidden Image Peter Weiermair, 1988-01 The Hidden Image is both a stunning anthology of the male nude and a revealing history of how male sexuality has been portrayed photographically from the earliest daguerreotype self portrait of Hippolyte Bayard to the formalized fantasies of Robert Mapplethorpe The 142 photographs include many previously unpublished portraits from both public and private collections in Europe and the United States They include works by the historical luminaries Edward Weston May Ray Imogene Cunningham and Cecil Beaton and the modern innovators David Hockney Judy Dater Dino Pedriali and Joel Peter Witkin Because it is not limited to one photographer or even one genre of photography The Hidden Image is a record of the changing iconography of the male nude and of the repression the sublimation and the taboos surrounding the depiction of the body Some of the images such as those by Weston and Cunningham are romantic misty shots of Adonis like figures lounging in painterly landscapes others like those of Eadweard Muybridge and Etienne Jules Marey are multiframe studies of locomotion Still others are formal poses that treat the male body in abstract sculptural terms Some of the contemporary photographs depict erotic fantasies others such as those of Joel Peter Witkin confront us head on with our deepest primal terrors Peter Weiermair studied art history at the Universities of Innsbruck and Vienna was curator of the Innsbruck Art Institute and has been director of the German Photography Museum in Frankfurt since 1980 He has written widely on the history of photography and has published monographs on Wilhelm von Gloeden Robert Mapplethorpe Peter Hujar George Platt Lynes and Herbert Tobias He serves on the executive committee of the European Society for the History of Photography
