

The Development of Post-War Philippine Land Reform: Political and Sociological Explanations

By David Wurfel. In Second View from the Paddy, Antonio Ledesma, Perla Q. Makil & Virginia A. Miralao, eds., Institute of Philippine Culture, Ateneo de Manila, 1983

Introduction

The history of Philippine agrarian policy since independence is a sadly monotonous one for the scholar, a bitterly disappointing one for the hopeful tenant cultivator. It is a story of repeated initiative from the center of government that did not result in anywhere near the announced change in the countryside. Explanations for this series of ineffectual reforms have varied from insincerity and corruption to lack of peasant interest in getting ownership of the land. The most convincing analysis, however, seems to relate to the political and economic interests of the top decision makers, those initiating policy and supervising its implementations, and to the socioeconomic characteristics of the agrarian systems being reformed. The cumulative political consequences of agrarian policy also find both political and socioeconomic explanations.

Agrarian reform is a complex of policies designed to transform rural society in the direction of greater equality of wealth and power among groups and classes, and greater equality of opportunity for individuals. Where agrarian reform has followed a successful revolution it has usually involved the uncompensated redistribution of land. A much more modest attempt at transformation may be the creation of cooperatives in which small cultivators are given greater opportunities than their large competitors. But the type of reform on which we will focus here is the redistribution of tenanted land with compensation to the original owner, land for which the beneficiary of reform must repay the government. Despite all the permutations in Philippine policy

Education Systems in Historical, Cultural, and Sociological Perspectives Daniel Tröhler, Ragnhild Barbu, 2012-03-26 For nearly half a century research on education systems has been increasingly popular. However, this popularity was long restricted primarily to internationally linked policy makers and education planners often backed up by international organizations such as the OECD but also by governmental or para governmental organizations within the individual countries. These institutional affiliations provided education research with a specific character that often centres on notions such as excellence, efficiency or standards. The specific comparative character of this policy driven research agenda triggered the development of suitable research techniques such as comparative statistics and pertinent sub disciplines such as cognitive psychology. Backed up by powerful global institutions, this agenda purported to be rather unique and it tended to ignore the cultural complexity of the educational field and those research approaches that address this complexity. This volume includes different historical, cultural and sociological approaches to the education systems and to questions as to how research on education systems can be undertaken beyond the parameters of the existing research agenda. They demonstrate how pertinent problems of research on education systems can only be tackled taking an international and interdisciplinary approach with regard to both research questions and methods concerning education systems.

Understanding Gender in the African Context Kurebwa, Jeffrey, 2020-04-10 One of the most significant dimensions of gender studies is that it is political. It raises questions about power in society and how and why power is differentially distributed between different genders. It asks questions about who has power over whom, in which situations, how power is exercised and how it is and can be challenged. Different theories and perspectives within gender studies have different approaches to these questions and look for answers in different social processes. Many debates are on going as new data is revealed and new theories are put forth. Understanding Gender in the African Context is a scholarly reference that explores the complexities of the ideologies and social patterns that contribute to the field of gender studies. Featuring a range of topics such as human rights, feminism and social media, this book is ideal for policymakers, sociologists, social scientists, civil society organizations, government officials, academicians, researchers and students.

Modernity in India Renu Vinod, 2023-12-01 This book presents a sociological interpretation of the emergence of modernity in India via the colonial encounter and its ramifications for Indian society, economy and polity. It outlines the main features of modernity and the Western context in which it was defined both in classical and later sociological works as well as the Western roots of India's development project after independence. The Eurocentric origins of modernity in India are summarised along with the challenges it has posed in the political realm in the building of a pan Indian or national consciousness and in the emergence of dominant caste politics and regional and regionalistic parties to counter what was perceived to be an elite and marginalising project to modernise the Indian nation. It describes the trajectory that the Indian economy has undertaken from state supported capitalism at the time of independence to market centric neoliberalism by the 1990s and the effects of this trajectory on both rural and urban India. The dominating role of both the old and the new middle classes as formidable cultural forces and the heterogeneous character of the latter as a result of the upward mobility that has been underway since independence are also summarised as are the debates around the ever imminent breakup of the Indian family and its implications for women and the elderly. It ends by outlining the history and persistence of various economic and cultural forms of social exclusion in contemporary India. This book would be useful for students, researchers and teachers of sociology, history, political science and interdisciplinary courses in the social sciences such as modern Indian studies.

Reforming Land and Resource Use in South Africa Paul Hebinck, Charlie Shackleton, 2010-11-23. This book explores the debates surrounding land and agrarian reform in South Africa and explores how these reforms and particular those that make access easier have created new options for and broadened the use of land and natural resources. One Hundred Years of Social Protection Lutz Leisering, 2020-12-14. While the rise of social protection in the global North has been widely researched, we know little about the history of social protection in the global South. This volume investigates the experiences of four middle income countries: Brazil, India, China and South Africa from 1920 to 2020, analysing if, when and how these countries articulated a concern about social issues and social cohesion. As the first in depth study of the ideational foundations of social protection policies and programmes in these four countries, the contributions demonstrate that the social question was articulated in an increasingly inclusive way. The contributions identify the ideas, beliefs and visions that underpinned the movement towards inclusion and social peace as well as counteracting doctrines. Drawing on perspectives from the sociology of knowledge, grounded theory, historiography, discourse analysis and process tracing, the volume will be of interest to scholars across political science, sociology, political economy, history, area studies and global studies as well as development experts and policymakers.
