Strange Empire

Molly Patrick Rozum

Strange Empire:

The Riel Problem Albert Braz, 2024-06-06 Tracing Louis Riel's metamorphosis from traitor to hero Braz argues that through his writing Riel resists his portrayal as both a Canadian patriot and a pan Indigenous leader After being hanged for high treason in 1885 the Métis politician poet and mystic has emerged as a quintessential Canadian champion The Riel Problem maps this representational shift by examining a series of cultural and scholarly commemorations of Riel since 1967 from a large scale opera about his life through the publication of his extant writings to statues erected in his honour Braz also probes how aspects of Riel's life and writing can be problematic for many contemporary Métis artists scholars and civic leaders Analyzing representations of Riel in light of his own writings the author exposes both the constructedness of the Canadian nation state and the magnitude of the current historical revisionism when dealing with Riel Hearings United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Commerce, 1953 We Know Who We Are Martha Harroun Foster, 2016-01-18 They know who they are Of predominantly Chippewa Cree French and Scottish descent the Métis people have flourished as a distinct ethnic group in Canada and the northwestern United States for nearly two hundred years Yet their Métis identity is often ignored or misunderstood in the United States Unlike their counterparts in Canada the U S Métis have never received federal recognition In fact their very identity has been questioned In this rich examination of a Métis community the first book length work to focus on the Montana Métis Martha Harroun Foster combines social political and economic analysis to show how its people have adapted to changing conditions while retaining a strong sense of their own unique culture and traditions Despite overwhelming obstacles the Métis have used the bonds of kinship and common history to strengthen and build their community As Foster carefully traces the lineage of Métis families from the Spring Creek area she shows how the people retained their sense of communal identity She traces the common threads linking diverse Métis communities throughout Montana and lends insight into the nature of Métis identity in general And in raising basic questions about the nature of ethnicity this pathbreaking work speaks to the difficulties of ethnic identification encountered by all peoples of mixed descent

The Uneasy Chair Wallace Stegner, 2015-02-18 Bernard DeVoto was a wild intellectual from the Rocky Mountains a rebel iconoclast and idealist who fled his stifling small town for the intellectual freedom and community of Harvard While he settled eastward in his career as a novelist professor editor historian and critic he continued to love to a point of passion western openness freedom and society National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize winning author and fellow westerner Wallace Stegner's life intersected with DeVoto's many times first by accident and later by friendship and example They were kindred spirits both westerners by birth upbringing and demeanor novelists by vocation teachers by necessity and historians and conservationists by a sheer compulsion inspired by the region that shaped them Regionalists on the Left Michael C. Steiner, 2015-02-02 Nothing is more anathema to a serious radical than regionalism Berkeley English professor Henry Nash Smith asserted in 1980 Although regionalism in the American West has often been characterized as an inherently conservative backward looking force regionalist impulses have in fact taken various forms throughout U S history The essays collected in Regionalists on the Left uncover the tradition of left leaning western regionalism during the 1930s and 1940s Editor Michael C Steiner has assembled a group of distinguished scholars who explore the lives and works of sixteen progressive western intellectuals authors and artists ranging from nationally prominent figures such as John Steinbeck and Carey McWilliams to equally influential though less well known figures such as Angie Debo and Amrico Paredes Although they never constituted a unified movement complete with manifestos or specific goals the thinkers and leaders examined in this volume raised voices of protest against racial environmental and working class injustices during the Depression era that reverberate in the twenty first century Sharing a deep affection for their native and adopted places within the West these individuals felt a strong sense of avoidable and remediable wrong done to the land and the people who lived upon it motivating them to seek the root causes of social problems and demand change Regionalists on the Left shows also that this radical regionalism in the West often took urban working class and multicultural forms Other books have dealt with western regionalism in general but this volume is unique in its focus on left leaning regionalists including such lesser known writers as B A Botkin Carlos Bulosan Sanora Babb and Joe Jones Tracing the relationship between politics and place across the West Regionalists on the Left highlights a significant but neglected strain of western thought and expression

Indigenous Poetics in Canada Neal McLeod, 2014-05-28 Indigenous Poetics in Canada broadens the way in which Indigenous poetry is examined studied and discussed in Canada Breaking from the parameters of traditional English literature studies this volume embraces a wider sense of poetics including Indigenous oralities languages and understandings of place Featuring work by academics and poets the book examines four elements of Indigenous poetics First it explores the poetics of memory collective memory the persistence of Indigenous poetic consciousness and the relationships that enable the Indigenous storytelling process The book then explores the poetics of performance Indigenous poetics exist both in written form and in relation to an audience Third in an examination of the poetics of place and space the book considers contemporary Indigenous poetry and classical Indigenous narratives Finally in a section on the poetics of medicine contributors articulate the healing and restorative power of Indigenous poetry and narratives

Sweep Out the Ashes Mary Clearman Blew, 2019-09-01 Diana Karnov came to Versailles to uncover secrets Teaching college history in remote northern Montana offers the opportunity to put distance between herself and her overbearing great aunts and to uncover information about her parents especially the father she can't even remember At first overwhelmed by the brutal winter Diana throws herself into exploring mysteries her aunts refuse to explain Eventually she befriends several locals including a student Cheryl Le Tellier and her brother Jake As Diana's relationship with Jake deepens he discusses his Métis heritage and culture exposing the enormous gaps in her historical knowledge Astounded Diana begins to understand that American narratives what she learns about her father and the capacity for women to work and learn is not as set and certain as she was taught Mary Clearman Blew deftly balances

these 1970s pressure points with multifaceted characters and a layered romance to deliver an instant Western classic

Frank Farley and the Birds of Alberta Glen Hvenegaard, Jeremy Mouat, Heather Marshall, 2025-09-30 Frank Farley 1870-1949 was a passionate naturalist and enthusiastic booster for rural development in western Canada. He supported and managed newly designated migratory bird sanctuaries, networked with expert ornithologists across the continent, mentored young people including famous Canadian writer and grand nephew Farley Mowat, and published widely to scientific and popular audiences. His most significant publication was Birds of the Battle River Region. His data and research served as the basis for the first account of the birds of Alberta published in 1958. Farley's career shows how a single individual can make significant contributions to the fields of ornithology and environmental conservation both locally and internationally. Frank Farley and the Birds of Alberta adds a new layer to a complex western Canadian past and will be an invaluable resource for those interested in Canadian environmental history, climate change, and ecological activism.

Grasslands Grown Molly Patrick Rozum, 2021-08 In Grasslands Grown Molly P. Rozum explores the two related concepts of regional identity and sense of place by examining a single North American ecological region: the U.S. Great Plains and the Canadian Prairie Provinces. All or parts of modern-day Alberta, Montana, Saskatchewan, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Manitoba form the center of this transnational region. As children, the first postconquest generation of northern grasslands residents worked, played, and traveled with domestic and wild animals, which introduced them to ecology and shaped sense of place rhythms. As adults, members of this generation of settler society worked to adapt to the northern grasslands by practicing both agricultural diversification and environmental conservation. Rozum argues that environmental awareness, including its ecological and cultural aspects, is key to forming a sense of place and a regional identity. The two concepts overlap and reinforce each other: place is more local, ecological, and emotional; sensual and region is more ideational, national, and geographic in tone. This captivating study examines the growth of place and regional identities as they took shape within generations and over the life cycle.

Montana: A Cultural Medley Robert R. Swartout, Jr., 2015-06-15 The whole is greater than the sum of the parts when Montana historian Robert Swartout gathers the fascinating stories of the state's surprisingly diverse ethnic groups into this thought-provoking collection of essays. Fourteen chapters showcase an African American nightclub in Great Falls, a Japanese American war hero, the founding of a Métis community, Jewish merchants, and Dutch settlement in the Gallatin Valley, as well as stories of Irish Scots, Chinese, Finns, Mexican Americans, European war brides, and more.
