Paul's Eschatological Anthropology Sarah Harding,2016-02-01 In this study Sarah Harding examines Paul s anthropology from the perspective of eschatology concluding that the apostle s view of humans is a function of his belief that the cosmos evolves through distinct aeons in progress toward its telos Although scholars have frequently assumed that Paul s anthropological utterances are arbitrary inconsistent or dependent upon parallel views extant in the first century world Harding shows that these assumptions only arise when Paul s anthropology is considered apart from its eschatological context That context includes the temporal distinction of the old aeon the new aeon and the significant overlap of aeons in which those in Christ dwell as well as a spatial dimension that comprises the cosmos and the powers that dominate it especially sin and the Holy Spirit These eschatological dimensions determine the value Paul attaches to any particular anthropological aspect Harding examines the cosmological power dominant in each aeon and the structures through which in Paul s view these influence human beings examining texts in which Paul discusses nous kardia and s ma in each aeon

Sex and the Single Savior Dale B. Martin,2006-01-01 Probing into numerous questions about gender and sexuality Dale Martin delves into the biblical texts anew and unearths surprising findings Avoiding preconceptions about ancient sexuality he explores the ethics of desire and marriage and pays careful attention to the original meanings of words especially those used as evidence of Paul s opposition to homosexuality For example after a remarkably faithful reading of the scriptural texts Martin concludes that our contemporary obsession with marriage and the whole search for the right sexual relationships is antithetical to the message of the gospel In all of these essays however Martin argues for engaging Scripture in a way that goes beyond the standard historical critical questions and the assumptions of textual agency in order to find a faith that has no foundations other than Jesus Christ
