Breast Cancer Umberto Veronesi, 2012-12-06. The Europe against Cancer programme has from its inception emphasised the key role which general practitioners must play in the actions necessary to achieve its aim of reducing the incidence and the mortality from cancer in the European Community. General practitioners because of their day to day direct and continuing contact with patients play a role not only in primary prevention and education of patients but also in motivating their patients to accept secondary prevention and screening some of it carried out by general practitioners themselves. These preventive activities are in addition to their traditional role in the care and management of patients with cancer at home and increasingly their role in active treatment. In view of the importance of the general practitioner in the Europe against Cancer programme the European Commission with a view to providing general practitioners with up to date useful information has sponsored the production of this series of publications on organ based cancers especially written for general practitioners. MICHEL RICHONNIER, Coordinator of the Europe against Cancer programme, Commission of the European Communities, Brussels. Preface. The present textbook is the second in the series published by the Commission of the European Communities within the context of the Europe Against Cancer Programme. After lung cancer it was felt that priority should be given to breast cancer, the most frequent neoplastic disease among European women.
