the relationship between officially registered churches and the communist government This study investigates the history of one such official church Moore Memorial Church in Shanghai This church was founded by American Methodist missionaries By the time of the 1949 revolution it was the largest Protestant church in East Asia running seven day a week programs As a case study of one individual church operating from an historical rather than theological perspective this study examines the experience of people at this church against the backdrop of the turbulent politics of the Mao and Deng eras It asks and seeks to answer questions such as were the people at the church pleased to see the foreign missionaries leave Were people forced to sign the so called Christian manifesto Once the church doors were closed in 1966 did worshipers go underground Why was this particular church especially chosen to be the first re opened in Shanghai in 1979 What explanations are there for its phenomenal growth since then A considerable proportion of the data for this study is drawn from Chinese language sources including interviews personal correspondence statistics internal church documents and archives many of which have never previously been published or accessed by foreign researchers The main focus of this study is on the period from 1949 to 1989 a period in which the church experienced many ups and downs restrictions and limitations The Mao era in particular remains one of the least understood and seldom written about periods in the history of Christianity in China This study therefore makes a significant contribution to our evolving understanding of the delicate balancing act between compromise co operation and compliance that categorizes church state relations in modern China

Comprehensive reform of China s pension and social security system is an essential element of achieving its objectives of a harmonious society and sustainable development China's New Role in the World Economy Yiping Huang,Miaojie Yu,2013-01-04 The remarkable rise of China over the past three decades has been unprecedented in both its scale and speed Analysts around the world have attempted to understand the causes of this unique event and to predict how long it will last China s rise has also raised two important questions The first concerns the stability and the sustainability of China s growth which has been accompanied by growing internal and external imbalances rising inequality at home environmental degradation and an increased risk of catastrophic climate change and has happened in spite of the continuing if diminished role of the state in many sectors of the economy The second concerns trying to guess what the effect of China s rise will be on its relations with the rest of the region the world and the existing global order It seems only a matter of time until China becomes the world s largest economy and history suggests that it is unthinkable that this event would be without geopolitical consequences The chapters in this volume draw on papers originally presented to the 34th Pacific Trade and Development Conference held in Beijing in 2010 to discuss these two big questions and China s changing role in the world economy This book will be welcomed by students and scholars of Chinese economics business and politics and those interested in the pervasive impact of China s development on the global economy
