Williamson, Jerry F. Boren, Linda Evans, 1977

Media Bias? Tawnya J. Adkins Covert, Philo C. Wasburn, 2009-01-01 Media Bias addresses the question To what extent can mainstream news media be characterized as conservative or liberal The study involves a systematic comparative analysis of the coverage given to major domestic social issues from 1975 to 2000 by two mainstream newsmagazines Newsweek and Time and two explicitly partisan publications the conservative National Review and the liberal Progressive Working from the idea that some biased accounts of social issues can perform several positive functions for the maintenance and vitality of political democracy Adkins Covert and Wasburn offer a new methodology for analyzing bias empirically one that is capable of producing valid and reliable findings They begin by defining the meaning of bias and discuss possible methods of measuring media bias empirically and systematically By comparing each publication s coverage on poverty crime the environment and gender issues in which the line between the conservative and liberal positions are clearly delineated the authors consider both the positive and negative consequences of media bias and how the bias plays out within a media conscious democratic society

Essays on Strategy and Public Health Rodrick Wallace,2022-04-01 This book is a collection of essays that explore commonalities and contrasts between strategy in armed conflict and strategy in public health The first part uses the asymptotic limit theorems of information and control theories to study strategy as an exchange of messages between adversaries in the context of underlying power relations The messages to be exchanged are constructed from an alphabet of tactics available to each contender in a large sense The second part of the book explores four case histories from this perspective ranging across agribusiness generated pandemics through tuberculosis and COVID 19 The final chapter attempts a strategic synthesis applicable more specifically to public health than to the remarkably and disturbingly close parallel of armed conflict Taking a unique approach to public health tactics and strategy this volume will be of interest to social epidemiologists public health economists public policy scientists as well as public health researchers and practitioners

Handbook of Marriage and the Family Suzanne K. Steinmetz,Marvin B. Sussman,2013-11-11 The lucid straightforward Preface of this Handbook by the two editors and the comprehensive perspectives offered in the Introduction by one of them leave little for a Foreword to add It is therefore limited to two relevant but not intrinsically related points vis a vis research on marriage and the family in the interval since the first Handbook Christensen 1964 appeared namely the impact on this research of the politicization of the New Right and of the Feminist Enlightenment beginning in the mid sixties about the time of the first Handbook In the late 1930s Willard Waller noted Fifty years or more ago about 1890 most people had the greatest respect for the institution called the family and wished to learn nothing whatever about it Everything that concerned the life of men and women and their children was shrouded from the light Today much of that has been changed Gone is the concealment of the way in which life begins gone the irrational sanctity of the home The aura of sentiment which once protected the family from discussion clings to it no more We want to learn as much about it as we can and to understand it as thoroughly as possible for there is a rising recognition in America that vast numbers of its families are sick from internal frustrations and from external buffeting We are engaged in the process of reconstructing our family institutions through criticism and discussion 1938 pp 3 4

Searching for a Demon Steven M. Chermak, 2002 This provocative volume thoroughly examines the ways in which the media demonized militia groups following the devastating bombing of the Alfred F Murrah building in Oklahoma City Using quantitative and qualitative research methods Steven M Chermak offers a fresh perspective on how news coverage and popular entertainment transformed a largely overlooked movement into a symbol for this new threat of domestic terrorism and ignited a national panic over the militia menace Searching for a Demon describes the representation of the militia movement in the news media editorial cartoons films and television Chermak delves into such topics as the type and amount of coverage after the blast how social problems are constructed in the news the motivations and biases of authoritative or celebrity figures used as news sources and why images of militias were framed in specific ways Chermak balances his account with an in depth look at the philosophies activities and strategies of militia groups Drawing on extensive interviews he conducted at gun shows and preparedness exhibitions the author compares and contrasts media depictions of militia life and ideology with the firsthand accounts of members and leaders themselves and he assesses how media coverage affected changes in the movement In conclusion Chermak discusses the parallels between media treatment of militias in the wake of the Oklahoma City bombing and the coverage of the al Qaeda terrorist network after the September 11 2001 attacks Solidly grounded in social constructionist theory Searching for a Demon fills a significant gap in the literature on terrorism as well as on the roles of the news media and popular culture in reshaping the public consciousness after dramatic crimes

Armed Forces, Soldiers and Civil-Military Relations Gerhard Kummel, Giuseppe Caforio, Christopher Dandeker, 2009-02-01 It is an honor for us to introduce this collection of essays which is dedicated to an old friend and colleague who is no longer with us. It is an honor but also a pleasure because we feel like continuing a dialogue with Jürgen one that has never broken down over the years revisiting and recalling the different places and occasions where we met, discussed, collaborated and had fun. We, that is Giuseppe Caforio, Christopher Dandeker and Gerhard Kimmel, who have been friends and/or colleagues of and research collaborators with Jürgen and who represent three prominent institutions and organizations with which Jürgen worked, felt that this book is something we owe to Jürgen and we are grateful that many people who at different times and at different places had contact with Jürgen and his work were willing to contribute a chapter to this anthology. Most of Jürgen's studies, professional work and research activities took place at the Bundeswehr Institute of Social Sciences (SOWI). Jürgen, born in 1938, had joined the Bundeswehr in 1957 and had already worked at the SOWI's predecessor institution, the Scientific Institute for Education in the Armed Forces, from 1971 onwards after having finished his university studies. Since this institute was renamed SOWI in 1974, Jürgen belonged to the first generation of researchers that worked at the SOWI.
