Social Science Applications In Asian Agroforestry:

Social Science Applications in Asian Agroforestry William R. Burch, 1991 An Introduction to Agroforestry P. K. R. Nair, 1993-07-31 This college level textbook summarizes the state of current knowledge in the rapidly expanding field of agroforestry. The book is organized into 25 chapters in six sections, reviews the developments in agroforestry during the past 15 years, and describes the accomplishments in the application of biophysical plant and soil related and socioeconomic sciences to agroforestry. Although the major focus of the book is on the tropics where the practice and potential of agroforestry are particularly promising, the developments in temperate zone agroforestry are also discussed. This text is recommended for students, teachers, and researchers in agroforestry, farming systems, and tropical land use. Applications of Systems Approaches at the Farm and Regional Levels P.S. Teng, M.J. Kropff, H.F.M. ten Berge, J.B. Dent, F.P. Lansigan, H.H. Van Laar, 2012-12-06 Systems approaches for agricultural development are needed to determine rational strategies for the role of agriculture in national development. Mathematical models and computer simulation provide objective tools for applying science to determine and evaluate options for resource management at field, farm, and regional scales. However, these tools would not be fully utilizable without incorporating social and economic dimensions into their application. The second international symposium, Systems Approaches for Agricultural Development, held in Los Baños 6-8 December 1995, fostered this link between the biophysical sciences and the social sciences in the choice of keynote papers and oral presentations, a selection of which is included in this book. The book's contents further reflect how systems approaches have definitely moved beyond the research mode into the application mode. The large number and high quality of interdisciplinary research projects reported from different parts of the globe to determine land use options that will meet multiple goals and yet sustain natural resource bases is a key indicator of this coming of age. At the farm level, where trade-off decisions between processes and products/commodities feature strongly, much progress is also evident in the development of systems-based tools for decision making. This book will be of particular interest to all agricultural scientists and planners as well as students interested in multidisciplinary and holistic approaches for agricultural development. Directions in Tropical Agroforestry Research P. K. Ramachandran Nair, C.R. Latt, 2013-04-18 Large areas of the warm humid tropics in Southeast Asia, the Pacific, Latin America, the Caribbean, and Africa are hilly or mountainous. Jackson and Scherr (1995) estimate that these tropical hillside areas are inhabited by 500 million people, or one-tenth of the current world population, many of whom practice subsistence agriculture. The region most affected is Asia, which has the lowest area of arable land per capita. Aside from limited areas of irrigated terraces, most of the sloping land, which constitutes 60% to 90% of the land resources in many Southeast Asian countries, has been bypassed in the economic development of the region. Maglinao and Hashim (1993) note that poverty in these areas is often high in contrast to the relative wealth of irrigated rice farms in lowland areas that benefited from the green revolution. Rapid population growth in some countries is also exacerbating the problems of hillside areas. Increasingly, people are migrating from high potential lowland areas where land is scarce to more remote hillside areas Such migration together with inherent high population growth is forcing a transformation in land use from subsistence to permanent agriculture on fragile slopes and is creating a new suite of social economic and environmental problems Garrity 1993 Maglinao and Hashim 1993 The Literature of Forestry and Agroforestry Peter McDonald,J. P. Lassoie,1996 Discusses the evolution of forestry and agroforestry and presents the core literature in these fields covering both traditional and emerging areas Topics include changes in forest science in the 20th century the development of agroforestry literature the role of professional societies and the US A.I.D.
