Smelser, Seymour Martin Lipset, The foundation of this volume is the notion that the several processes of change constituting economic and social development are systematically interrelated. The essence of development is the appearance of rapid rates of increases in many different indices output per capita political participation literacy and the like. These quantitative changes are however commonly accompanied by vast changes in the social structure markets emerge political bureaucracies arise and new educational systems appear. Written by the leading authorities on the subject this group of papers tackles the causes and consequences of social mobility. Each author brings his particular skills to bear on various aspects of the problem in studies of persons moving from rural to urban settings from one kind of industry to another and from one prestige level to another. Several of the papers review the theoretical and methodological issues involved in comparative research on social mobility while others compare and contrast traditional and modern stratification systems. Various papers explore the economic religious and psychological basis of social mobility concluding with enquiry into the consequences of rapid mobility especially in terms of the political stability of developing nations. Because social mobility is a central consideration in any study of economic and social change every student of change will use this pioneering reference source as a text for all future research. Contributors include Otis Dudley Duncan Harold L. Wilensky Michael G. Smith Bert F. Hoselitz Wilbert E. Moore Natalie Rogoff Ramsy Gideon Sjöberg Reinhard Bendix Harry Crockett David Matza Lester Seligman and Gino Germani. Neil J. Smelser is emeritus professor Department of Sociology University of California Berkeley.
