Gender Inequalities in Africa's Mining Policies Francis Onditi, 2022-04-17 This book develops a discursive equalitarian theoretical framework for studying African mining ecosystem issues and policy interventions The theory of equalitarianism is developed as an alternative to the reductionist approach that has dominated post colonial debates about the classical jus ad bellum requirements to empower women in development spaces However the classical approach narrows the debate down to women issues rather than the whole of society As a consequence of this reductionism women continue to be devalued in the mining sector characterized by poverty traps power struggles and a lack of capacity to engage in large scale mining LSM activities This book advances principles for a holistic approach and spells out the implications for women across the mining value chain Drawing on moral scholarship the book poses that for women to gain access to strategic spaces in the mining sector the drive for empowerment must be embedded within whole of society principles This book is of interest to scholars researching

Contemporary Customary Land Issues in Africa J. Oloka-Onyango, Bridget Bwalya Umar, 2018-07-26 This book examines current trends in customary land issues in Africa focusing on the practice of converting customary land into leasehold tenure particularly in Zambia Since the enactment of the 1995 Lands Act No 29 in Zambia conversion of customary land has become a controversial policy raising questions about the future of customary land and rural communities and the role of traditional authorities in a changing environment Alienating customary land into leasehold tenure has serious implications for local and national politics and gender dynamics Analysis of these trends suggests that the policy of creating land markets on customary land is subjecting customary systems to the forces of change However governments that have adopted this policy have not by and large adopted measures to respond to these challenges Although customary tenure is widely believed to be resilient it is not clear how the customary system will navigate the current winds of change Chapters in this book draw from the Land Use and Rural Livelihoods in Africa Project LURLAP a collaborative research project undertaken by staff and students at the University of Cape Town and the University of Zambia
