He has indeed been called the Columbus of Central Africa but the title is inadequate. At the head of a long roll of honorable names he has placed his own not by some mere chance of circumstance or fortuitous turn of fortune's wheel but by dint of sheer determination to seek to find and not to yield by a rare courage and a devotion to duty hardly short of heroism. He is more than a mere discoverer for the scene of his many marvelous exploits has also been the center around which his highest hopes and deepest feelings have revolved. For twenty years he has been an African traveler for fifteen an African enthusiast. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. In a camp in the heart of Africa not far from Lake Bangweolo David Livingstone the traveller evangelist lay dead. His followers numbering about three score negroes of Zanzibar deliberated upon their future movements. To return to the coast ruled by their Sultan without their great white master would provoke grave suspicion. They resolved to prepare the remains so as to be fit for transportation across a breadth of tropical region which extended to the Indian Ocean fifteen hundred miles. After many weary months of travel they arrived at the sea coast with the body in charge of two of the faithful band. It was placed on board a homeward bound steamer to be finally deposited in a vault in Westminster Abbey. At the same period when the steamer coasted along the shores of Eastern Africa I was returning to England along the coast of Western Africa from the Ashantee campaign At St Vincent on February 25th 1874 cable news of the death of Livingstone substantiated beyond doubt was put into my hands At Lake Bangweolo the death occurred said the cablegram Just one thousand miles south of Nyangwe The great river remains then a mystery still for poor Livingstone s work is unfinished Fatal Africa One after another travellers drop away It is such a huge continent and each of its secrets is environed by so many difficulties the torrid heat the miasma exhaled from the soil the noisome vapours enveloping every path the giant cane grass suffocating the wayfarer the rabid fury of the native guarding every entry and exit the unspeakable misery of the life within the wild continent the utter absence of every comfort the bitterness which each day heaps upon the poor white
