Social Mindscapes Eviatar Zerubavel, 1999-10-15 Why do we eat sardines but never goldfish ducks but never parrots Why does adding cheese make a hamburger a cheeseburger whereas adding ketchup does not make it a ketchupburger By the same token how do we determine which things said at a meeting should be included in the minutes and which ought to be considered off the record and officially disregarded In this wide ranging and provocative book Eviatar Zerubavel argues that cognitive science cannot answer these questions since it addresses cognition on only two levels the individual and the universal To fill the gap between the Romantic vision of the solitary thinker whose thoughts are the product of unique experience and the cognitive psychological view which revolves around the search for the universal foundations of human cognition Zerubavel charts an expansive social realm of mind a domain that focuses on the conventional normative aspects of the way we think With witty anecdote and revealing analogy Zerubavel illuminates the social foundation of mental actions such as perceiving attending classifying remembering assigning meaning and reckoning the time What takes place inside our heads he reminds us is deeply affected by our social environments which are typically groups that are larger than the individual yet considerably smaller than the human race Thus we develop a nonuniversal software for thinking as Americans or Chinese lawyers or teachers Catholics or Jews Baby Boomers or Gen Xers Zerubavel explores the fascinating ways in which thought communities carve up and classify reality assign meanings and perceive things defamiliarizing in the process many taken for granted assumptions      The Handbook of Communication Skills Owen Hargie,2018-07-16 The Handbook of Communication Skills is recognised as one of the core texts in the field of communication offering a state of the art overview of this rapidly evolving field of study This comprehensively revised and updated fourth edition arrives at a time when the realm of interpersonal communication has attracted immense attention Recent research showing the potency of communication skills for success in many walks of life has stimulated considerable interest in this area both from academic researchers and from practitioners whose day to day work is so dependent on effective social skills Covering topics such as non verbal behaviour listening negotiation and persuasion the book situates communication in a range of different contexts from interacting in groups to the counselling interview Based on the core tenet that interpersonal communication can be conceptualised as a form of skilled activity and including new chapters on cognitive behavioural therapy and coaching and mentoring this new edition also places communication in context with advances in digital technology The Handbook of Communication Skills represents the most significant single contribution to the literature in this domain Providing a rich mine of information for the neophyte and practising professional it is perfect for use in a variety of contexts from theoretical mainstream communication modules on degree programmes to vocational courses in health business and education With contributions from an internationally renowned range of scholars this is the definitive text for students researchers and professionals alike      Sexual Conduct William Simon,2017-07-05 The first edition of Sexual Conduct published in 1973 swiftly became a landmark text in the sociology of sexuality It went on to profoundly shape the ideas of several generations of scholars and has become the foundation text of what is now known as the social constructionist approach to sexuality The present edition revised updated and containing new introductory and concluding materials introduces a classic text to a new generation of students and professionals Traditional views of human sexuality posit models of man and woman in which biological arrangements are translated into sociocultural imperatives This is best summarized in the phrase anatomy is destiny Consequently the almost exclusive concern has been with the power of biology and nature in sexual conduct as opposed to understanding the significance and impact of social life In Sexual Conduct Gagnon and Simon lucidly argue that sexual activities of all kinds may be understood as the outcome of a complex psychosocial process of development Using the social script theory the authors trace the ways in which sexuality is learned and fitted into particular moments in the lifecycle and in different modes of behavior Sexual Conduct is a major attempt to consider sexuality within a non biological social psychological framework It is a valuable addition to the study of human sexuality and will be of interest to students of sociology psychology psychiatry social work and medicine      Rethinking Relationships Steve Duck,2010-08-31 In this book Steve Duck a founder of and prolific crossdisciplinary contributor to the field of relationships research challenges students to re examine their assumptions about relationships Duck shows that in order to understand relationships properly students must understand the roles that society language our taken for granted assumptions and other people who share those assumptions play in the conduct of relationships

Inappropriate Relationships Robin Goodwin, Duncan Cramer, 2005-04-11 In one of the great euphemisms of our time an embattled President Clinton admitted to an inappropriate relationship with his White House intern Monica Lewinsky But what exactly is an inappropriate relationship For that matter what is an appropriate relationship And how can an understanding of the rules of appropriateness help us understand personal relationships in our modern world Contributors to this book discuss the personal boundaries and taboos of modern relationships Together they examine the power struggles that can occur when individuals are involved in inappropriate relationships and the ways individuals in such a relationship may attempt to buffer themselves against sanctions or even embrace this relationship as an agent of social change Representing work from a range of disciplines this collection will appeal to scholars researchers students and professionals working on relationships issues in areas across the social sciences including those working in the fields of social psychology family studies social anthropology cultural studies and communication

Peacocks, Chameleons, Centaurs Wayne Brekhus, 2003-10 What does it mean to be a gay man living in the suburbs Do you identify primarily as gay or suburban or some combination of the two For that matter how does anyone decide what his or her identity is In this first ever ethnography of American gay suburbanites Wayne H Brekhus demonstrates that who one is depends at least in part on where and when one is For many urban gay men being homosexual is key to their identity because they live work and socialize in almost exclusively gay circles Brekhus calls such men lifestylers or peacocks Chameleons or commuters on the other hand live and work in conventional suburban settings but lead intense gay social and sexual lives outside the suburbs

Centaurs meanwhile or integrators mix typical suburban jobs and homes with low key gay social and sexual activities In other words lifestylers see homosexuality as something you are commuters as something you do and integrators as part of yourself Ultimately Brekhus shows that lifestyling commuting and integrating embody competing identity strategies that occur not only among gay men but across a broad range of social categories What results then is an innovative work that will interest sociologists psychologists anthropologists and students of gay culture     Time Maps Eviatar Zerubavel, 2020-03-04 The pioneering sociologist and author of The Seven Day Circle continues his analysis of time with this fascinating look at history as social construct Who were the first people to inhabit North America Does the West Bank belong to the Arabs or the Jews Why are racists so obsessed with origins Is a seventh cousin still a cousin Why do some societies name their children after dead ancestors As Eviatar Zerubavel demonstrates in Time Maps we cannot answer burning questions such as these without a deeper understanding of how we envision the past In a pioneering attempt to map the structure of collective memory Zerubavel considers the cognitive patterns we use to organize the past and the social grammar of conflicting interpretations of history Drawing on fascinating examples that range from Hiroshima to the Holocaust and from ancient Egypt to the former Yugoslavia Zerubavel shows how we construct historical origins how we tie discontinuous events together into stories how we link families and entire nations through genealogies and how we separate distinct historical periods from one another through watersheds such as the invention of fire or the fall of the Berlin Wall Time Maps extends beyond all of the old clichés about linear circular and spiral patterns of historical process and provides us with models of the actual legends used to map history brilliant and elegant Hayden White University of California Santa Cruz
