Dmitri Sergeevich Merezhkovsky and the Silver Age Bernice Glatzer Rosenthal, 2012-12-06 As the central event of modern times the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917 remains a major focus of historical investigation and controversy Unavoidably the conception of the historical problems and the evidence presented are shaped by the historian's view on both the desirability and the inevitability of the Bolshevik Revolution The years 1890-1917 are particularly important as the crucible in which revolutionary forces developed In the nineties Finance Minister Sergei Witte laid the groundwork for a modern economy While he achieved many of his economic goals the stresses and strains of forced draft industrialization contributed to the revival of the revolutionary movement political instability was their immediate effect By the turn of the century the peasants were in open revolt an alienated and militant urban proletariat was emerging and a cohesive liberal opposition was beginning to develop All these groups demanded fundamental reforms including full political rights for all citizens By 1905 they had gathered sufficient strength to force the government to issue a constitution and a legislature called the Duma Neither side however was satisfied The Imperial government tried to take back what it had granted under duress and the opposition parties attempted to discredit the system as sham constitutionalism Only a small center was willing to work with the government and the government was not always willing to work with them Dmitri Sergeevitch Merezhkovsky and the Silver Age B.G.
