News Around the World Pamela J. Shoemaker,Akiba A. Cohen,2012-12-06 What s news A front page news story in the United States might not appear in a newspaper in China Or a minor story on German television may be all over the airwaves in India But News Around the World shows that the underlying nature of news is much the same the world over and that people no matter what their jobs or their status in society tend to hold similar notions of newsworthiness In this richly detailed study of international news news makers and the audience the authors have undertaken exhaustive original research within two cities one major and one peripheral in each of ten countries Australia Chile China Germany India Israel Jordan Russia South Africa and the United States The nations were selected for study based on a central principle of maximizing variation in geographic locations economic and political systems languages sizes and cultures The remarkable scope of the research makes this the most comprehensive analysis of newsworthiness around the globe 10 countries studied each with a university country director 2 cities in each country examined one major and one peripheral 60 news media studied newspapers television and radio news programs resulting in 32 000 news items analyzed 80 focus groups with journalists public relations practitioners and audience members 2 400 newspaper stories ranked according to newsworthiness and compared with how prominently they were published News Around the World provides remarkable insight into how and why news stories are reported testing and improving a theory of cross cultural newsworthiness and is essential reading for anyone seeking to understand international media and journalism

Doing News Framing Analysis II Paul D'Angelo,2018-05-11 This volume presents original big picture perspectives on news framing

Each chapter in this volume will feature an individual or team of framing analysts who take a reflective look at their own empirical work. The editors' goals are to identify the influences that determine the use of different theoretical and methodological approaches and to provide interpretive guides to news framing scholars regarding what news frames are, how they can be observed in news texts, and how framing effects are uncovered and substantiated in cultural group and individual sites. Doing News Framing Analysis II will continue the work of its predecessor by giving talented framing scholars the space to write about their work and bring readers closer to the framing research project. Journalism After September 11

Barbie Zelizer, Stuart Allan, 2011-04-22 This exciting collection raises important questions regarding what journalism should look like after the events of September 11th. It will be necessary reading for those concerned with the integrity of journalistic practice. Television News

Teresa Keller, 2019-04-18 Television News is a comprehensive resource for newswriting, reporting, shooting, and editing video, and producing a newscast. This book provides instruction in the basic steps of telling video stories and is perfectly suited for preparing young professionals for entry-level positions as television or multimedia journalists. Moreover, the text goes to the heart of storytelling with guidance appropriate for advancement in an industry that is challenged more than ever to retain the public trust. The reporting and video storytelling skills found in this book can also be applied in non-traditional video communication jobs in both businesses and nonprofits. Conversational and easy to understand, this book grounds readers in the ethical and legal considerations necessary to do the job right. New to the fourth edition is coverage of social media shooting and broadcasting with cell phones and a discussion of fake news. This book can be used in standalone introductory broadcast courses or across multiple specialized modules. It features a website with ancillary material that helps students learn to write, shoot, and edit video with practical activities. Media Strategy and

Military Operations in the 21st Century Michal Shavit, 2016-07-15 This book applies the concept of mediatization to the contemporary dynamic between war, media, and society, with a focus on the Israel Defence Forces (IDF). Since the beginning of the 21st century, the IDF has undergone an intensive process of mediatization that has transformed the media into an interpretative grid for many of its military activities and increasingly utilized media to garner public support and construct civilian perceptions of conflict and security through media activity and strategy. This process can be divided into four distinct chronological phases in accordance with the operational challenges confronted by the IDF during this period: from the Al Aqsa Intifada of 2000 through Israeli unilateral disengagement from Gaza in 2005 and the second Lebanon war of 2006 to the series of Gaza confrontations of 2008-2014. The work shows how the IDF's media policy evolved from a narrow perception of its role and separation between operational and media actions to a cohesive and coherently articulated media strategy that is increasingly intertwined with military action and operational strategy and a vital component of strategic military aims and objectives. This strategic stance has led the IDF to adopt a global media perspective using the most advanced new media platforms designed to influence public opinion and improve national narratives both in Israel and the international community By applying the concept of mediatization to the Israeli case this book fills a research lacuna and offers a new prism for the study of media military relations in contemporary conflicts The book will be of much interest to students of civil military relations strategic studies Middle Eastern Studies media and communication studies sociology and IR in general
