How We Fight Helen Frowe, Gerald Lang, 2014-04-17 How We Fight Ethics in War presents a substantial body of new work by some of the leading philosophers of war. The ten essays cover a range of topics concerned with both jus ad bellum the morality of going to war and jus in bello the morality of fighting in war. Alongside explorations of classic in bello topics such as the principle of non-combatant immunity and the distribution of risk between combatants and non-combatants, the volume also addresses ad bellum topics such as pacifism and punitive justifications for war and explores the relationship between ad bellum and in bello topics or how the fighting of a war may affect our judgments concerning whether that war meets the ad bellum conditions. The essays take a keen interest in the micro-foundations of just war theory and uphold the general assumption that the rules of war must be supported if they are going to be supported at all by the liability and non-liability of the individuals who are encompassed by those rules. Relatedly, the volume also contains work which is relevant to the moral justification of several moral doctrines used either explicitly or implicitly in just war theory: in the doctrine of double effect in the generation of liability in basic self-defensive cases and in the relationship between liability and the conditions which are normally appended to permissible self-defensive violence: imminence, necessity and proportionality. The volume breaks new ground in all these areas.

Shots in the Dark Jadwiga Biskupska, Sara B. Castro, 2025-09-02 Brings together geographies and methodologies often kept apart by the difficulties of researching such a broad-ranging topic as the war. Shots in the Dark offers cutting-edge scholarship across different subfields in World War II history, revealing new insights into how this crucial conflict was planned, experienced and fought. Twelve chapters demonstrate the broad scope of wartime innovation and how the war functioned as a global turning point driving change at all levels of human society from government institutions to individual identities. Contributors collaborated in a vibrant workshops series sponsored by the North American branch of the Second World War Research Group (SWWRGNA), an organization that emerged to nurture scholarship on the global war and unite scholars fragmented in narrower regional and methodological stovepipes to consider the war as a whole. The SWWRGNA and this volume showcase the work of diverse historians across subfields: operational, cultural, gender, social intelligence and diplomatic history. This approach exposes the Second World War as a catalyst for overlapping global changes that revolutionized the world after 1945. These scholars reveal continuities and parallels in wartime experiences that would remain invisible in narrowly focused projects. The volume establishes three frameworks for understanding and interpreting changes the war provoked: 1 institutional adaptation, 2 totalization or the militarization of civilians, and 3 cultural transformation. Each of the three frameworks is explored from four vantage points. Geographies are deliberately contrasted within each framework to examine the broad scope of that level of war-driven change.
