The Cement Garden:

The Cement Garden Ian McEwan, 2011-02-08 Orphaned siblings create a macabre secret world for themselves in this irresistibly readable novel by the New York Times bestselling author The New York Review of Books This powerful and disconcerting novel by the Booker Prize winning author of The Children Act and Atonement The Daily Telegraph tells the story of a dying family who live in a dying part of the city A father of four children decides in an effort to make his garden easier to control to pave it over In the process he has a heart attack and dies leaving the cement garden unfinished and the children to the care of their mother Soon after the mother too dies and the children fearful of being separated by social services decide to cover up their parents deaths they bury their mother in the cement garden The story is told from the point of view of Jack one of the sons who is entering adolescence with all of its attendant curiosity and appetites Julie the eldest is almost a grown woman Sue is rather bookish and observes all that goes on around her And Tom is the youngest and the baby of the lot The children seem to manage in this perverse setting rather well until Julie brings home a boyfriend who threatens their secret by asking too many questions A beautiful but disturbing novel The AV Club McEwan s evocative detail and perfect British prose lend a genteel decorum to the death and decay that surround the family The New Yorker

The cement garden Ian McEwan, 1980 Reflections Upon Childhood and Adolescence: Intertextual Dialogue in The Cement Garden Anna Wilczewska, 2014-04-10 The thesis is devoted to the intertextual analysis of The Cement Garden the first novel of a famous postmodern British novelist Ian McEwan In the following chapters I shall prove that the novel exhibits both intertextual relations with particular works of fiction and also enters into a discourse with the generic archetypes The first chapter refers to the intertextual relation text text and concentrates on the profound interconnectivity between McEwan s The Cement Garden and Golding s Lord of the Flies The focus is also placed upon depiction of childhood and in a more general sense human nature by both authors in relation to the literary tradition The chapter traces various techniques employed by McEwan in the novel in order to refresh the already read and provide a modern vision of childhood and adolescence The second and the third chapters are devoted to the intertextual discourse with the generic literary tradition namely Gothic fiction and psychological novel of development Both chapters depict the ways generic conventions are used in The Cement Garden but also portray the author s deliberate departure and inversion of particular attributes of the genres The author either provides the parody and inversion of the generic conventions or employs particular generic aspects in order to effectively express and emphasize certain issues brought about in the novel Thanks to the skillful use of the genres and their conventions McEwan achieves an extraordinary effect and invites the reader to explore a complex network of literary allusions Jardín de cemento Ian McEwan, Antonio-Prometeo Moya, 1982 Esta es una novela que nos har reflexionar sobre c mo hoy en d a las relaciones familiares se ven afectadas producto de una sociedad compleja y dif cil de asimilar Es una historia narrada por un adolescente de 16 a os de edad ambientada en una poblaci n marginal de Londres donde una familia comienza a sufrir inesperadamente la muerte del dueño de casa. Con la ausencia paterna y la falta de autoridad la organización familiar se distorsiona convirtiéndose a los hijos en seres extraños responsables de su propio destino. Ian McEwan Bestsellers Ian McEwan, 2020-10-16 These three bestselling novels by the Booker Award winning author explore the dark sides of love, family and sexuality. The Child in Time: On a routine Saturday morning trip to the supermarket, a father's brief moment of distraction turns his life upside down when his daughter is kidnapped. His spiral of guilt and bereavement has effects on his marriage, his psyche and time itself. The Cement Garden: When their mother suddenly dies, four siblings hide her body in the basement to prevent others from discovering her death and placing them in foster care. But their dark secret sets them on a path of isolation and boundary crossing intimacy. The Comfort of Strangers: Colin and Mary are vacationing in Venice in hopes of reigniting their relationship. But after losing their way in the winding streets, their acquaintance with another couple takes turns that are likewise erotic and violent in nature.

Beyond Postmodernism Klaus Stierstorfer, 2012-05-02 After the veritable hype concerning postmodernism in the 1980s and early 1990s when questions about when it began, what it means and which texts it comprises were apt to trigger heated discussions, the excitement has notably cooled down at the turn of the century. Voices are now beginning to be heard which seem to suggest a new episteme in the making which points beyond postmodernism while it remains at the same time very uncertain whether what appears as newness is not rather a return to traditional concepts, theoretical premises and authorial practices. Contributors to this volume propose to explore new openings and recent developments in anglophone literatures and cultural theories which engage with issues seen to be central in the construction of a postmodern paradigm but deal with them in ways that promise new openings or a new Zeitgeist.

Francis Bacon. The story of The Cement Garden is clearly one of the third kinds. Every time I read the book or watched the film, I stumbled upon more and more subtleties that have been built in. The Cement Garden is not an ordinary story. It is a story about a bizarre relationship which you would normally not only frown upon but Ian McEwan's and Andrew Birkin's work makes you understand the characters or even makes you sympathise with them. Although the plot is quite the same in both the film and the book, both authors have an individual way of telling the story. It can be stated that the novel and the film are not too different from each other concerning the plot. It is the devices that both authors use which differ widely. While McEwan favours classical rhetorical devices, Birkin makes great use of subtle audio-visual devices. However, both managed to create the atmosphere that makes this story so special. For this reason, I
