Action Research For Health And Social Care Hart, Frederick,Bond, Meg,1995-05-01 What is action research and how can it best be understood How can practitioners use action research to deal with problems and improve services What are the different types of action research and which might be most appropriate for use in a particular setting This book has been designed for use as a core text on research methods courses at undergraduate and postgraduate level and on professional training courses It is divided into three parts Part one traces the history of action research and shows the links between its use in education community development management research and nursing Building on this background the book explores different ways in which action research has been defined and proposes four different types each appropriate to a different problem situation and context In part two five case studies of action research are described from the perspective of the researcher including case studies of success and instructive failure Part three is designed to enable the reader to find a route through the maze of methods and approaches in action research by the use of such things as self assessment and mapping exercises a guide to diary keeping and to evaluation The final chapter suggests that by developing a project perspective action research can be of practical benefit to health and social care professionals in promoting service improvements

A History of Psychology William Douglas Woody, Wayne Viney, 2023-07-19 This seventh edition of A History of Psychology The Emergence of Science and Applications traces the history of psychology from antiquity through the early twenty first century giving students a thorough look into psychology s origins and key developments in basic and applied psychology It presents internal disciplinary history as well as external contextual history emphasizing the interactions between psychological ideas and the larger cultural and historical contexts in which psychologists and other thinkers conduct research teach and live It also has a strong scholarly foundation and more than 400 new references This new edition retains and expands the strengths of previous editions and introduces several important changes The text features more women people of color and others who are historically marginalized as well as new sections about early Black psychology and barriers faced by people who are diverse It also includes expanded discussions of eugenics and racism in early psychology There is new content on the history of the biological basis of psychology the emergence of qualitative methods and ecopsychology ecotherapy and environmental psychology Recent historical findings about social psychology including new historical findings about the Stanford Prison Experiment Milgram s obedience research and Sherif s conformity studies have also been incorporated Continuing the tradition of past editions the text focuses on engaging students and inspiring them to recognize the power of history in their own lives to connect history to the present and the future and to think critically and historically Rethinking the History of American Education W. Reese, J. Rury, 2007-12-25 This collection of original essays examines the history of American education as it has developed as a field since the 1970s and moves into a post revisionist era and looks forward to possible new directions for the future Contributors take a comprehensive approach beginning with colonial education and spanning to modern day while also looking at various aspects of education from higher education to curriculum to the manifestation of social inequality in education The essays speak to historians educational researchers policy makers and others seeking fresh perspectives on questions related to the historical development of schooling in the United States

Re-Membering History in Student and Teacher Learning Joyce E. King, Ellen E. Swartz, 2014-03-05 What kind of social studies knowledge can stimulate a critical and ethical dialog with the past and present Re-Membering History in Student and Teacher Learning answers this question by explaining and illustrating a process of historical recovery that merges Afrocentric theory and principles of culturally informed curricular practice to reconnect multiple knowledge bases and experiences In the case studies presented K 12 practitioners teacher educators preservice teachers and parents use this praxis to produce and then study the use of democratized student texts they step outside of reproducing standard school experiences to engage in conscious inquiry about their shared present as a continuance of a shared past This volume exemplifies not only why instructional materials including most so called multicultural materials obstruct democratized knowledge but also takes the next step to construct and then study how re membered student texts can be used Case study findings reveal improved student outcomes enhanced relationships between teachers and families and teachers and students and a closer connection for children and adults to their heritage
