

FAMOUS SEAMUS

Seamus Heaney is the most beloved poet of his generation in England and in his native Ireland.

But ever since Robert Lowell dubbed him "the best Irish poet since Yeats," he's also had to cope with being the most famous.

CRAG RIFE reports, on the U.S. publication of Heaney's latest collection, Seeing Things

Poetry doesn't often make the best-seller lists, but in 1987 Seamus Heaney's two volumes, The New Laureate, appeared on the London Sunday Times's list of general and miscellaneous books, crowding Gladstone's British Air (Angels and the Reader's Digest New Year's Eve Party Manual). His next book, Seeing Things, out in America this month from Farrar, Straus and Giroux, will probably do even better, mainly because Seamus Heaney is very good at just that—seeing things and describing things. So good that, in his poetry, the actual comes to mean metaphor. You quote Heaney because he can quote life: "haggs plump as a leather saddle"; "it, even like a tipsical girl"; then "Like consciousness, in gesture of air."

He is also adept at describing sounds, even such ordinary sounds as "the pump's whumping cough" or the price

The Famous Seamus:

The Famous Seamus Jill Tomlin, 2003 Seamus the ginger cat lives in a house by the sea His fondness for food and sleeping play a large part in the story but the book also tells about his mishaps and adventures on one particular day in the summer He is a likeable rascal who constantly seems to be in trouble with his owner Cat lovers will identify with the problems and hazards of living with a cat but also with the pleasures The story is particularly suitable for bedtime reading as it is very gentle and contains no violence The character and his accidents are based upon the author's real cat but his friends in the book come from the young illustrator's imagination Laura Murphy is only 12 years old but her pictures bring out the cartoon like character of the cats to the reader She has known the real Seamus all her life and the idea for the book stemmed from her frequent drawings of him Aoife O Connor who is 11 years old is a gold medallist in Speech and Drama Her lilting reading of the story enhances its gentle qualities and is sure to send children off to sleep with no problem at all The book is also intended to be educational as it allows children to follow the story through the pictures and the reading on CD This

Strange Loneliness Peter Mackay, 2021-04-15 This Strange Loneliness is the first comprehensive account of the poetic relationship between Seamus Heaney and William Wordsworth Peter Mackay explores how Heaney repeatedly turns to the Romantic poet's work for inspiration corroboration and amplification and as a model for the fortifying power of poetry itself which offers the fundamental lesson that it is on this earth we find our happiness or not at all Through an in depth look at archival materials and at uncollected poems and prose by Heaney Mackay traces the evolution of Heaney's readings of Wordsworth throughout his career revealing their shared interest in the connections between poetry and education the possibility of a beneficial understanding of poetic influence the complexities of place and displacement ideas of transcendence and ultimately the importance of late style later poems by Wordsworth might prove a cautionary tale as well as example for any poet Placing Heaney's readings within their political historical and poetic contexts the book also explores how he negotiated the complex relationship between Irish and British culture and identity to claim a persistent form of kinship and forge a strange community with the Romantic poet With illuminating readings that reveal new contexts to and currents in Heaney's work This Strange Loneliness is a powerful evocation of the Irish poet's sense of the uplift that poetry can provide

Robert Frost and Northern Irish Poetry Rachel Buxton, 2004-05-27 In this incisive and highly readable study Rachel Buxton offers a much needed assessment of Frost's significance for Northern Irish poetry of the past half century Drawing upon a diverse range of previously unpublished archival sources including juvenilia correspondence and drafts of poems Robert Frost and Northern Irish Poetry takes as its particular focus the triangular dynamic of Frost Seamus Heaney and Paul Muldoon Buxton explores the differing strengths which each Irish poet finds in Frost's work while Heaney is drawn primarily to the Frost persona and to the sound of sense it is the studied slyness and wryness of the American's poetry the complicating undertow which Muldoon values This appraisal of Frost in a non American context not only enables a fuller appreciation of Heaney's and Muldoon's poetry but also provides valuable insight into the nature of trans national and trans generational poetic influence Engaging with the politics of Irish American literary connections while providing a subtle analysis of the intertextual relationships between these three key twentieth century poets Robert Frost and Northern Irish Poetry is a pioneering work The Best American Poetry 2012 Mark Doty, 2012-09-18 Mark Doty brings the vitality and imagination that illuminate his own work to his selections for the twenty fifth volume in the Best American Poetry series He has chosen poems of high moral earnestness and poems in a comic register poems that tell stories and poems that test the boundaries of innovative composition This landmark edition includes David Lehman's keen look at American poetry in his foreword Mark Doty's gorgeous introduction and notes from the poets revealing the germination of their work Over the last twenty five years The Best American Poetry has become an annual rite of the poetry world and this year's anthology is a welcome and essential addition to the series

Getting to Good Friday Marilyn Richter,2023-01-03 Getting to Good Friday intertwines literary analysis and narrative history in an accessible account of the shifts in thinking and talking about Northern Ireland s divided society that brought thirty years of political violence to a close with the 1998 Belfast Good Friday Agreement Drawing on decades of reading researching and teaching Northern Irish literature and talking and corresponding with Northern Irish writers Marilyn Richter describes literary reactions and contributions to the peace process during the fifteen years preceding the Agreement and in the immediate post conflict era Progress in this period hinged on negotiators ability to revise the terms used to discuss the conflict As poet Michael Longley commented in 1998 In its language the Good Friday Agreement depended on an almost poetic precision and suggestiveness to get its complicated message across Interpreting selected literary works by Brian Friel Seamus Heaney Michael Longley Deirdre Madden Seamus Deane Bernard MacLaverty Colum McCann and David Park within a detailed historical frame Richter demonstrates the extent to which authors were motivated by a desire both to comment on and to intervene in unfolding political situations Getting to Good Friday suggests that literature as literature that is in its formal properties in addition to anything it might have to say about a given subject can enrich readers historical understanding Through Richter s engaging narrative creative writing emerges as both the medium of and a metaphor for the peace process itself
