The Film Makers Art:

Art History for Filmmakers Gillian McIver, 2017-03-23 Since cinema's earliest days literary adaptation has provided the movies with stories and so we use literary terms like metaphor metonymy and synecdoche to describe visual things But there is another way of looking at film and that is through its relationship with the visual arts mainly painting the oldest of the art forms Art History for Filmmakers is an inspiring guide to how images from art can be used by filmmakers to establish period detail and to teach composition color theory and lighting The book looks at the key moments in the development of the Western painting and how these became part of the Western visual culture from which cinema emerges before exploring how paintings can be representative of different genres such as horror sex violence realism and fantasy and how the images in these paintings connect with cinema Insightful case studies explore the links between art and cinema through the work of seven high profile filmmakers including Peter Greenaway Peter Webber Jack Cardiff Martin Scorsese Guillermo del Toro Quentin Tarantino and Stan Douglas A range of practical exercises are included in the text which can be carried out singly or in small teams Featuring stunning full color images Art History for Filmmakers provides budding filmmakers with a practical guide to how images from art can help to develop their understanding of the visual language of film

Film-makers Art Haig P. Manoogian, 1966-01-21 The Film-maker's Art Haig P. Manoogian, 1974 Film Makers on Film Making Harry M. Geduld, 1973 Film Art Phenomena Nicky Hamlyn, 2019-07-25 Alongside the commercial cinema of narrative and spectacle there has always been another practice call it avant garde experimental or artists film as opposed to art cinema It is this work that Nicky Hamlyn himself an acclaimed film maker in the alternative tradition investigates in Film Art Phenomena The work takes its cue from modern trends in other artforms notably painting and sculpture This is film making that emphasises the nature of its apparatus and medium in order to bring about a critical inquisitive state of mind in the viewer It deconstructs anatomises and reimagines what film images are it builds new machines it recreates the setting of cinema or expands into new kinds of performance and exhibition It often has a political dimension urging audiences to make a free and active response not a passive consumerist one Hamlyn's major new study treats artists film conceptually in order to explore key categories that connect different works and film makers from framing to digital media installation to interactivity point of view to sound In so doing he considers the work of Stan Brakhage Malcolm Le Grice and Michael Snow as well as younger artists such as Karen Mirza and Brad Butler Jennifer Nightingale and Colin Crockatt among many others Film Art Phenomena is a crucial intervention in debates about the modes of film making that diverge from and oppose the mainstream

Reel Rebels: the London Film-Makers' Co-Operative 1966 to 1996 Joy I. Payne, 2015-07-17 The London FilmMakers Cooperative was founded in 1966 by a group of artists who sought to explore the possibilities of the moving image whilst maintaining autonomy over the production distribution and exhibition of their work Although their films were not overtly political artists nevertheless expressed their political attitudes by creating nonnarrative films thereby rejecting conventional narrative structures associated with mainstream commercial cinema which they perceived as supporting the dominant ideology in society A return to narrative in the 1980s coincided with the introduction of British Art Cinema and the art house films of Derek Jarman Peter Greenaway and Sally Potter all of whom made experimental films in the early days of the London Co op

Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution Jing Meng, 2020-08-19 Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution argues that films and TV dramas about the Cultural Revolution made after China's accession to the WTO in 2001 tend to represent personal memories in a markedly sentimental nostalgic and fragmented manner This new trend is a significant departure from earlier films about the subject which are generally interpreted as national allegories not private expressions of grief regret or other personal feelings With China entering a postsocialist era the ideological conflation of socialism and global capitalism has generated enough cultural ambiguity to allow a space for the expression of personalized reminiscences of the past By presenting these personal memories in effect alternative narratives to official history on screen individuals now seem to have some agency in narrating and constructing history At the same time such autonomy can be easily undermined since the promotion of the sentiment of nostalgia is often subjected to commodification Sentimental treatments of the past may simply be a marketing strategy Underplaying political issues is also a safer way for films and TV dramas to secure public release in mainland China Meng concludes that the new mode of representing the past is shaped by the current sociopolitical conditions these personal memories and micro narratives can be understood as the defining ways of remembering in China's postsocialist era

Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution takes a comprehensive look at contemporary screen depictions of the Cultural Revolution The book convincingly ties close readings of the works analysed with broader social and cultural phenomena that already are hot topics of study and debate offering something original while also being closely engaged with existing scholarship Jason McGrath University of Minnesota

Breaking through the tired dichotomy between personal and collective narratives individual memory and grand history this refreshing book sheds much light on film memories of the Cultural Revolution in the post socialist millennium In a limpid and engaging style Jing Meng probes memory's nostalgia and imbrication with the collective destiny and critiques the personal focus aligned with neoliberal economy and commodification Ban Wang Stanford University

Voice and Vision Mick Hurbis-Cherrier, 2012-11-12 Voice Vision is a comprehensive manual for the independent filmmakers and film students who want a solid grounding in the tools techniques and processes of narrative film in order to achieve their artistic vision This book includes essential and detailed information on relevant film and digital video tools a thorough overview of the filmmaking stages and the aesthetic considerations for telling a visual story The ultimate goal of this book is to help you develop your creative voice while acquiring the solid practical skills and confidence to use it Unlike many books that privilege raw technical information or the line producing aspects of production Voice Vision places creativity visual expression and cinematic ideas front and center After all every practical decision a filmmaker makes like choosing a location an actor a film stock a focal length a lighting set up an edit point or a sound effect is also an expressive one and should serve the filmmaker's vision Every decision from the largest conceptual choices to the smallest practical solutions has a profound impact on what appears on the screen and how it moves an audience In Practice sidebars throughout connect conceptual aesthetic and technical issues to their application in the real world Some provide a brief analysis of a scene or technique from easily rentable films which illustrate how a specific technology or process is used to support a conceptual narrative or aesthetic choice Others recount common production challenges encountered on real student and professional shoots which will inspire you to be innovative and resourceful when you are solving your own filmmaking challenges
