The Poetry of American Women from 1632 to 1945 Emily Stipes Watts, 2014-09-10 American women have created an especially vigorous and innovative poetry beginning in 1632 when Anne Bradstreet set aside her needle and picked up her poet s pen The topics of American women poets have been various their images their own and their modes of expression original Emily Stipes Watts does not imply that the work of American men and that of American women are two different kinds of poetry although they have been treated as such in the past It is her aim rather to delineate and define the poetic tradition of women as crucial to the understanding of American poetry as a whole By 1850 American women of all colors religions and social classes were writing and publishing poetry Within the critical category of female poetry developed from 1800 to 1850 these women experimented boldly and prepared the way for the achievement of such women as Emily Dickinson in the second half of the nineteenth century Indeed at times for example from 1860 through 1910 it was women who were at the outer edge of prosodic experimentation and innovation in American poetry Moving chronologically Professor Watts broadly characterizes the state of American poetry for each period citing the dominant male poets she then focuses on women contemporaries singling out and analyzing their best work This volume not only brings to light several important women poets but also represents the discovery of a tradition of women writers This is a unique and invaluable contribution to the history of American literature

Power and the Pulpit in Puritan New England Emory Elliott, 2015-03-08 For years scholars have attempted to understand the powerful hold that the sermon had upon the imagination of New England Puritans In this book Emory Elliott puts forth a complex and striking thesis that Puritan religious literature provided the myths and metaphors that helped the people to express their deepest doubts and fears feelings created by their particular cultural situation and aroused by the crucial social events of seventeenth century America In his early chapters the author defines the psychological needs of the second and third generation Puritans arguing that these needs arose from the generational conflict between the founders and their children and from the methods of child rearing and religious education employed in Puritan New England In the later chapters he reveals how the ministers responded to the crisis in their society by reshaping theology and constructing in their sermons a religious language that helped to fulfill the most urgent psychological needs of the people Originally published in 1975 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 The American Puritans, Their Prose and Poetry Perry Miller, 1956 Selections from the writings of Puritans in New England in the first century of colonial life

A Peculiar Mixture Jan Stievernann, Oliver Scheiding, 2015-06-26 Through innovative interdisciplinary methodologies and fresh avenues of inquiry the nine essays collected in A Peculiar Mixture endeavor to transform how we understand the bewildering multiplicity and complexity that characterized the experience of German speaking people in the middle colonies They explore how the various cultural expressions of German speakers helped them bridge regional religious and denominational divides and eventually find a way to partake in America's emerging national identity Instead of thinking about early American culture and literature as evolving continuously as a singular entity the contributors to this volume conceive of it as an ever shifting and tangled web of contact zones They present a society with a plurality of different native and colonial cultures interacting not only with one another but also with cultures and traditions from outside the colonies in a peculiar mixture of Old World practices and New World influences Aside from the editors the contributors are Rosalind J Beiler Patrick M Erben Cynthia G Falk Marie Basile McDaniel Philip Otterness Liam Riordan Matthias Schnoher and Marianne S Woeck
