Wildlife in a Changing World

Jean-Christophe Vié, Craig Hilton-Taylor, S. N. Stuart, 2009 Wildlife in a Changing World presents an analysis of the 2008 IUCN Red List of Threatened Species Beginning with an explanation of the IUCN Red List as a key conservation tool it goes on to discuss the state of the world s species and provides the latest information on the patterns of species facing extinction in some of the most important ecosystems in the world highlighting the reasons behind their declining status Areas of focus in the report include freshwater biodiversity the status of the world s marine species species susceptibility to climate change impacts the Mediterranean biodiversity hot spot and broadening the coverage of biodiversity assessments

Behavioural Responses to a Changing World Bob B. M. Wong, Ulrika Candolin, 2025-04-23 For many animals behavioural adjustments represent the first response to human modified conditions By improving reproduction and survival such adjustments can play the lead in maintaining viable populations in the face of rapid environmental change Behavioural responses however can also be maladaptive and reduce individual fitness particularly if favourable reaction norms have not yet evolved because animals are encountering conditions that they have never experienced before Clearly behaviour matters But how can we capitalise on our understanding of animal behaviour to improve conservation and management outcomes Behavioural Responses to a

Changing World Challenges and Applications a companion volume to the first edition published in 2012 examines wildlife behavioural responses to human induced environmental change through a translational lens Despite considerable and growing interest in research on the topic the predictive value and practical application of what has been learned remains underappreciated and underutilized in the context of developing real world solutions To redress this the current book builds upon the foundations of the original volume but with a more applied perspective that focuses on highlighting how different forms of environmental challenges from climate change to urbanisation influence animal behaviour and how we can effectively harness knowledge of animal behaviour to effect practical solutions to predicting and mitigating the weighty impacts of a radically changed and changing world The Changing World of Farming in Brexit UK Matt Lobley, Michael Winter, Rebecca Wheeler, 2018-11-22 The 2016 referendum resulted in a vote for the United Kingdom to withdraw from the European Union This has led to frenzied political debate across the whole spectrum of policy and agriculture is no exception For the first time in a generation the future of agriculture is unclear and unfettered by the constraints and incrementalism of the Common Agricultural Policy This book makes an empirical contribution to the Brexit debate bringing a social dimension to agri Brexit and sustainable agriculture discourses Understanding the social in the context of farmers is vital to developing a way forward on food security and agricultural sustainability Farmers are the recipients of the market and policy signals that link to global uncertainties and challenges This book is a commitment to understanding farmers as occupiers and managers of land Chapters in this book explore farmers own aspirations and knowledge about patterns of land use and production which underpin discussions around the environment and sustainability There is a deficit in understanding what kind of agricultural industry we now have following years of restructuring and repositioning This book is an attempt to address that deficit and will appeal to students and researchers exploring agriculture food politics and rural sociology Island Environments in a Changing World Lawrence R. Walker, Peter Bellingham, 2011-03-24 Islands represent unique opportunities to examine human interaction with the natural environment They capture the human imagination as remote vulnerable and exotic yet there is comparatively little understanding of their basic geology geography or the impact of island colonization by plants animals and humans This detailed study of island environments focuses on nine island groups including Hawaii New Zealand and the British Isles exploring their differing geology geography climate and soils as well as the varying effects of human actions It illustrates the natural and anthropogenic disturbances common to island groups all of which face an uncertain future clouded by extinctions of endemic flora and fauna growing populations of invasive species and burgeoning resident and tourist populations Examining the natural and human history of each island group from early settlement onwards the book provides a critique of the concept of sustainable growth and offers realistic guidelines for future island management Monarchs in a Changing World Karen S. Oberhauser, Kelly R. Nail, Sonia Altizer, 2015-11-16 Monarch butterflies are among the most popular insect species in the world and are an icon for conservation groups and environmental education programs Monarch caterpillars and adults are easily recognizable as welcome visitors to gardens in North America and beyond and their spectacular migration in eastern North America from breeding locations in Canada and the United States to overwintering sites in Mexico has captured the imagination of the public Monarch migration behavior and chemical ecology have been studied for decades Yet many aspects of monarch biology have come to light in only the past few years These aspects include questions regarding large scale trends in monarch population sizes monarch interactions with pathogens and insect predators and monarch molecular genetics and large scale evolution A growing number of current research findings build on the observations of citizen scientists who monitor monarch migration reproduction survival and disease Monarchs face new threats from humans as they navigate a changing landscape marked by deforestation pesticides genetically modified crops and a changing climate all of which place the future of monarchs and their amazing migration in peril To meet the demand for a timely synthesis of monarch biology conservation and outreach Monarchs in a Changing World summarizes recent developments in scientific research highlights challenges and responses to threats to monarch conservation and showcases the many ways that monarchs are used in citizen science programs outreach and education It examines issues pertaining to the eastern and western North American migratory populations as well as to monarchs in South America the Pacific and Caribbean Islands and Europe The target audience includes entomologists population biologists conservation policymakers and K 12 teachers

Behavioural Responses to a Changing World Ulrika Candolin,Bob B.M. Wong,2012-06-14 Species are typically adapted to the local environmental conditions in which they have evolved Birds and Climate Change James W. Pearce-Higgins,Rhys E. Green,2014-06-12 From the red grouse to the Ethiopian bush crow bird populations around the world can provide us with vital insights into the effects of climate change on species and ecosystems They are among the best studied and monitored of organisms yet many are already under threat of extinction as a result of habitat loss overexploitation and pollution Providing a single source of information for students scientists practitioners and policy makers this book begins with a critical review of the existing impacts of climate change on birds including changes in the timing of migration and breeding and effects on bird populations around the world The second part considers how conservationists can assess potential future impacts quantifying how extinction risk is linked to the magnitude of global change and synthesising the evidence in support of likely conservation responses The final chapters assess the threats posed by efforts to reduce the magnitude of climate change Terrestrial Ecosystems in a Changing World Josep G. Canadell,Diane E. Pataki,Louis F. Pitelka,2007-01-10 Over 100 authors present 25 contributions on the impacts of global change on terrestrial ecosystems including key processes of the earth system such as the CO₂ fertilization effect shifts in disturbances and biome distribution the saturation of the terrestrial carbon sink and changes in functional biodiversity ecosystem services such the production of wheat pest control and carbon storage in croplands and sensitive regions in the world threaten by rapid changes in climate and land use such as high latitudes ecosystems tropical forest in Southeast Asia and ecosystems dominated by Monsoon climate The book also explores new research developments on spatial thresholds and nonlinearities the key role of urban development in global biogeochemical processes and the integration of natural and social sciences to address complex problems of the human environment system Conservation in the Context of a Changing World Bertie J.

Weddell, 2023-10-12 This comprehensive book promotes understanding of the past challenges to and current opportunities in the conservation of the natural world
