The History Of The Negro Church:

The History of the Negro Church Carter G. Woodson, 2018-09-01 Carter Woodson 1875 1950 was a prominent black leader and intellectual of the first half of the twentieth century Born in Virginia in 1875 to formerly enslaved parents he was educated at Berea College in Kentucky the University of Chicago and finally Harvard where he earned his Ph D in History Woodson championed awareness of black historical experience by teaching and initiating the first Black History Week which became the basis for the later Black History Month He was a tireless writer also who published many volumes during his life including his classic The Mis Education of the Negro 1933 Published in 1921 The History of the Negro Church traces the construction of the black church in America from colonial times through the early years of the twentieth century The book unfolds a series of biographical sketches of male church leaders through the decades and offers a broad critique of church experience Beginning with early church movements in the North and efforts to minister to slaves in the South Woodson describes the origins of religious instruction for a race that he characterizes as neglected among an unenlightened colonial population The book offers a sophisticated and roving history of the limits of black inclusion in church and state Indeed Woodson s penetrating vision of the deep themes of American history and his incisive understanding of spiritual character make for a lively passage through a long history Many of his observations about the class caste and church seem only more relevant with the passage of time A DOCSOUTH BOOK This collaboration between UNC Press and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Library brings classic works from the digital library of Documenting the American South back into print DocSouth Books uses the latest digital technologies to make these works available in paperback and e book formats Each book contains a short summary and is otherwise unaltered from the original publication DocSouth Books provide affordable and easily accessible editions to a new generation of scholars students and general readers The History of the Negro Church Carter Godwin Woodson, 2012-05-22 Hardcover reprint of the original circa 1921 edition beautifully bound in brown cloth covers featuring titles stamped in gold 8vo 6x9 No adjustments have been made to the original text giving readers the full antiquarian experience For quality purposes all text and images are printed as black and white This item is printed on demand Book Information Woodson Carter Godwin The History of The Negro Church Indiana Repressed Publishing LLC 2012 Original Publishing Woodson Carter Godwin The History of The Negro Church Washington D C Associated Publishers circa 1921 Subject African American Churches History The History of the Negro Church Carter Woodson, 2018-02-03 The importance of the church in the life of the Negro justifies the publication of this brief account of the development of the institution For many years the various denominations have been writing treatises bearing on their own particular work but hitherto there has been no effort to study the achievements of all of these groups as parts of the same institution and to show the evolution of it from the earliest period to the present time This is the objective of this volume Whether or not the author has done this task well is a question which the public must decide This work does not represent what he desired to make it Many facts of the past could not be obtained for the reason that several denominations have failed to keep records and facts known to persons now active in the church could not be collected because of indifference or the failure to understand the motives of the author Not a few church officers and ministers however gladly cooperated with the author in giving and seeking information concerning their denominations Among these were Mr Charles H Wesley Prof J A Booker and Dr Walter H Brooks For their valuable assistance the author feels deeply grateful Carter G Woodson The History of the Negro Church Carte Godwin Woodson,2020-01-06 Carter Godwin Woodson December 19 1875 April 3 1950 was an American historian author journalist and the founder of the Association for the Study of African American Life and History He was one of the first scholars to study African American history A founder of The Journal of Negro History in 1916 Woodson has been cited as the father of black history In February 1926 he launched the celebration of Negro History Week the precursor of Black History Month Born in Virginia the son of former slaves Woodson had to put off schooling while he worked in the coal mines of West Virginia He made it to Berea College becoming a teacher and school administrator He gained graduate degrees at the University of Chicago and was the second African American to obtain a PhD degree from Harvard University Most of his academic career was spent at Howard University in Washington D C where Woodson eventually served as the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences The time that schools have set aside each year to focus on African American history is Woodson s most visible legacy His determination to further the recognition of the Negro in American and world history however inspired countless other scholars Woodson remained focused on his work throughout his life Many see him as a man of vision and understanding Although Woodson was among the ranks of the educated few he did not feel particularly sentimental about elite educational institutions The Association and journal that he started are still operating and both have earned intellectual respect Woodson s other far reaching activities included the founding in 1920 of the Associated Publishers the oldest African American publishing company in the United States This enabled publication of books concerning blacks that might not have been supported in the rest of the market He founded Negro History Week in 1926 now known as Black History Month He created the Negro History Bulletin developed for teachers in elementary and high school grades and published continuously since 1937 Woodson also influenced the Association s direction and subsidizing of research in African American history He wrote numerous articles monographs and books on Blacks The Negro in Our History reached its 11th edition in 1966 when it had sold more than 90 000 copies Dorothy Porter Wesley recalled Woodson would wrap up his publications take them to the post office and have dinner at the YMCA He would teasingly decline her dinner invitations saying No you are trying to marry me off I am married to my work Woodson s most cherished ambition a six volume Encyclopedia Africana was incomplete at the time of his death wikipedia org HISTORY OF THE NEGRO CHURCH CARTER GODWIN. WOODSON,2018 The History of the Negro Church Carter Godwin Woodson,1921 The History of the Negro Church Carter G. Woodson,2015-08-10 ONE of the causes of the discovery of America was the translation into action of the desire of European zealots to extend the Catholic religion into other parts Columbus we are told was decidedly missionary in his efforts and felt that he could not make a more significant contribution to the church than to open new fields for Christian endeavor His final success in securing the equipment adequate to the adventure upon the high seas was to some extent determined by the Christian motives impelling the sovereigns of Spain to finance the expedition for the reason that it might afford an opportunity for promoting the cause of Christ Some of the French who came to the new world to establish their claims by further discovery and exploration moreover were either actuated by similar motives or welcomed the cooperation of earnest workers thus interested The first persons proselyted by the Spanish and French missionaries were Indians There was not any particular thought of the Negro It may seem a little strange just now to think of persons having to be converted to faith in the possibility of the salvation of the Negro but there were among the colonists thousands who had never considered the Negro as belonging to the pale of Christianity Negroes had been generally designated as infidels but in the estimation of their self styled superiors they were not considered the most desirable of this class supposedly arrayed against Christianity There were few Christians who did not look forward to the ultimate conversion of those infidels approaching the Caucasian type but hardly any desired to make an effort in the direction of proselyting Negroes When however that portion of this Latin element primarily interested in the exploitation of the Western Hemisphere failed to find in the Indians the substantial labor supply necessary to their enterprises and at the suggestion of men like las Casas imported Negroes for this purpose the missionaries came face to face with the question as to whether this new sort of heathen should receive the same consideration as that given the Indians Because of the unwritten law that a Christian could not be held a slave the exploiting class opposed any such proselyting for should the slaves be liberated upon being converted their plans for development would fail for lack of a labor supply subject to their orders as bondmen The sovereigns of Europe once inclined to adopt a sort of humanitarian policy toward the Negroes at first objected to their importation into the new world and when under the pressure of the interests of the various countries they yielded on this point it was stipulated that such slaves should have first embraced Christianity Later when further concessions to the capitalists were necessary it was provided in the royal decrees of Spain and of France that Africans enslaved in America should merely be early indoctrinated in the principles of the Christian religion

A History of the Negro Baptists of North Carolina (Classic Reprint) J. A. Whitted,2018-01-11 Excerpt from A History of the Negro Baptists of North Carolina Since communication among the Negroes before the war was altogether Verbal confined to narrow limitations and since no record was kept of his doings as a churchman it is impossible to get anything like an accurate statement of his history previous to the emancipation Since we know that there were in this country at the close of the war four hundred thousand Negro Baptists and since the Negro Baptists of North Carolina formed a part of that number we know they had an existence of some kind Consider ing conditions as they were at that time and taking the statements as we gather them here and there it is safe to say throughout the entire South they existed only in connection with the white churches In the history of the North Carolina Baptist State Convem tion by Rev Livingston Johnson we get the follow ing in 1837 The committee on religious instruc tion of slaves urged that places be provided for them in the houses of worship and that their religious ih struction receive special attention Relating to another statement in the Convention of 1850 is the following The churches of the State are urged to establish schools for the oral instruction of the colored people In some instances the colored people were allowed to hold services conducted by some member of their own race in some sections and at specified times but such meetings were usually held under the supervision of a white man and at his discretion these meetings were brought to a close In very many instances such meetings were even conducted by a member of the white race In matters of discipline especially if a white member was involved the colored people had no voice whatever In matters affecting their own number often some colored brother in whom the church had confidence would make reports and recommendations In compliance With the resolution of 1837 which we have already mentioned in some instances provision was made in the erection of the church edifice by petition and in the galleries for the accommodation of the colored brethren In the communion services after the bread and wine had been passed to the white brethren it was passed in turn to the colored brethren This was regarded by them as a God sent privilege and a blessing for which their Amens were often loud and lasting About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Fortress Introduction to Black Church History Anne H.
