Shbatat, 2011-07-16 This book is a certain point of view introduced in a shape of story of a merchant called Uncle Salama in a small village called Ain Al Baida located in the southern part of kingdom of Jordan near to Petra one of the world seven wonders Moreover some events of this story are real while the others are imaginary The first three chapters of this book are talking about the village and Uncle Salama the merchant who was very concerned about what is going on his rejoin especially the absence of peace in the holy land in Palestine The book talks also about the Jews However Uncle Salama then narrates some historical events those took place in Middle East in last four decades in semi fictional way highlighting the western peoples position of those events Finally Uncle Salama concluded that the position of the western peoples toward his rejoin was not so positive this is due to the absence of a real democracy in the west according to Uncle Salama Uncle Salama aimed at awaking up the slumbered western peoples and turning positively their eyes toward the Arabic and Islamic peoples to help them solving some of their problems also to create rapprochement between the east and west He tried peacefully and kindly to urge western peoples to care more about his rejoin and people but unfortunately the west did not take that care or pay the desired attention toward his trials Then he thought of using abnormal ways to get the western peoples attention and to make them deal positively with his peoples and rejoin so he used a harsh way this time Did he make use of terror Did he change the propaganda of terror into propaganda of peace Did he The answerers of these questions are amongst the pages of this book

Ad Sanctos B. P. Nichol,1993 All of Nichol s work is stamped by his desire to create texts that are engaging in themselves as well as in context and to use indirect structural and textual devices to carry meaning In The Martyrology different ways of speaking testify to a journey through different ways of being Language is both the poet s instructor and through its various permutations the dominant image of the poem The nine books of The Martyrology document a poet s quest for insight into himself and his writing through scrupulous attention to the messages hidden in the morphology of his own speech Frank Davey

Akhnaton: King of Egypt Dmitri Merezhkovsky, 2012-01-01 Tutankhamon Tutankhaton the envoy of Akhnaton the king of Egypt brought him a marvellous gift from the island of Crete Dio the dancer the pearl of the Kingdom of the Seas He boasted that he had saved her from death but it was not he who saved her When she killed the god Bull in the Knossos arena to avenge her friend Eoia who had been sacrificed to the Beast she was sentenced to be burned at the stake But Tammuzadad a Babylonian who loved Dio went to the stake in her place and Tutankhaton merely hid her in his ship and brought her to Egypt Before bringing Dio to the king in the new capital Akhetaton the City of the Sun he settled her near Thebes or Nut Amon in the country house of his distant relative Khnumhotep formerly the chief superintendent of the granaries of Amon's temple Khnumhotep's estate was enclosed by high brick walls that formed an oblong quadrangle making it look like a fortress Within it were granaries cattle yards wine presses hay lofts barns and other buildings vineyards and gardens divided into regular squares kitchen garden orchard flower garden woods of pine and other trees and a palm plantation with three ponds one large and two small ones Two high three storied houses a brick one for winter and a wooden one with a brick bottom storey for the summer stood facing each other on opposite sides of the big pond Dio spent a couple of months in this quiet country place resting from all that had happened to her in Crete and learning Egyptian dances One afternoon in the middle of winter she was lying on carpets and cushions on the flat roof of the summer house in a light trellised shelter supported by a row of cedar pillars carved gilded and brightly painted She was looking at the sun in the dark almost black blue sky so abysmally clear that it seemed there never had been nor ever could be a cloud in it The sun of southern winter of winter's summer bright but not dazzling warm but not scorching was like the smile of a child asleep Half closing her eyes she looked straight at it and the light broke into a diamond rainbow like a tear on the eyelashes

Traveling with Skeptics Ken Ewell, 2009-11 Traveling with Skeptics is the much anticipated sequel to the critically acclaimed book Traveling with Philosophes However due to the author's honest and straightforward portrayal of the people of France he has incurred the wrath and condemnation of the French literary and intellectual establishment with many persons voicing harsh opinions as regards this unique and insightful work Insignificant writers cannot be crushed they lie too flat beneath the foot Honore de Balzac The art of writing is the art of discovering what you believe Clearly this most presumptuous writer believes in nothing Gustave Flaubert Since a person is never happy except at the price of some ignorance this writer must be the happiest man in the world Anatole France As soon as he ceased to be mad he became merely stupid As soon as he ceased to be stupid he became merely this writer Marcel Proust This author should be deconstructed with the aid of a guillotine Jacques Derrida There is but one truly philosophical problem and that is this author's suicide or murder Albert Camus If Hell is other people then this writer can go to Hell Jean Paul Sartre

Proceedings American Electric Railway Association, 1892 Killing Beauty in North America Constance Mills Atkins Buck PhD, 2022-11-07 My great grandfather Brigadier General Anson Mills engaged in battle with the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians in South Dakota in the 1800s He led the battle against the Native people at the Battle of Slim Buttes in Montana War trophies considered sacred objects by the Indians included a beautiful beaded clothing a war bonnet with buffalo horns and a blanket strip They were only a few of the pieces I grew up with They hung on the walls of my parents home I remember as a child that I would physically cringe and contract around them I did not know why but I felt pain and heard them speak I am in pain I want to go home In the early 1970s I met the sacred Hat Carrier and other Cheyenne native people I returned the beautiful articles which were placed in the Jim Gatchell Museum in Buffalo Wyoming There are many stories told about European experiences when they landed Most stories idealize the experience of white males There are many other stories to be told This is one of them Environmental Clashes on Native American Land Cynthia-Lou Coleman, 2020-07-20 This book explores how the media frame environmental and scientific disputes faced by American Indian communities Most people will never know what it is like to live on an Indian reservation in North America or what it means to identify as an American Indian However when conflicts embroil Indigenous folk as shown by the protests over a crude oil pipeline in 2016 and 2017 camera crews and reporters descend on the rez to cover the event The focus of the book is how stories frame clashes in Indian Country surrounding environmental and scientific disputes such as the Dakota Access Pipeline construction and the discovery of an ancient skeleton in Washington The narratives told over social media and news programs often fail to capture the issues of key importance to Native Americans such as sovereignty the right to self governance The book offers insight into how the history of Indian settler relations sets the stage for modern clashes and examines American Indian knowledge systems and how they take a back seat to mainstream approaches to science in discourse
