emphasizes the logical and political problems of forecasting and discusses methods in economics sociology and political science by which the future can be studied More importantly he discusses the fallacies to which the study of the future is peculiarly likely to give rise The author argues that it is natural and necessary for the population to have visions of the future Without this he states we would only be able to set one opinion of the future against another If the origins and meanings of these predictions remained obscure only the event could decide among the opinions If any man can be said to have created the serious study of the future in our time it is Bertrand de Jouvenel Futuribles a periodical he created continues to represent a major turning point in contemporary social science Jouvenel aimed to show how the art of conjecture could inform prudential judgment and allow citizens and statesmen to detect troubles before they arise The Art of Conjecture
