The Chinese City In Space And Time The Development Of Urban Form In Suzhou:

The Chinese City in Space and Time Yinong Xu, 2000-01-01 Drawing on a wealth of primary materials detailing the city's history, customs, and urban construction as well as on recent work in Chinese history, culture, and religion, Yinong Xu examines characteristics of building and transformation in pre-modern Suzhou, characteristics that while particular to the city's own historical development, reflect or were determined by factors representative of China's urban history in general. Chinese Urbanism: Urban Form And Life In The Tang-song Dynasties Jing Xie, 2020-02-25 Since the 1990s, the urban landscape of China has witnessed revolutionary changes that are unrivalled in any country of the world throughout history. Rapid urbanization, facilitated by the modern planning mechanism for growth, provides a feast for property developers. Yet associated urban problems, such as housing affordability, traffic congestion, energy consumption, and environmental deterioration, are aggravated. This book takes a historic approach to investigate the planning philosophy, urban form, and life of the past. Through a detailed study of urban development from early times through the imperial period, with a focus on the Tang-Song dynasties, this book attempts to articulate the good qualities of urban landscapes from the past that still have instructive value for modern practices. The focus on the Tang-Song period is not only because China was the most advanced civilization of its time but also because it underwent a similar process of urbanization, evident by tremendous economic growth, a dramatic rise of urban population, and an extended building boom. Through evaluating the streets, city layout, public places, urban communities, houses, and gardens, and using interdisciplinary research in urban planning, urban design, architecture history, and cultural studies, this book asserts that the past is quintessentially important. The past not only truthfully records the course of social and cultural formation of urban community and its associated physical fabric but also regulates the directions we may take in the future. Gardens of a Chinese Emperor Victoria M. Siu, 2013-06-12 The Garden of Perfect Brightness, Yuanming Yuan, in the western suburbs of the Qing capital Beijing, was begun by the great Kangxi (r. 1661-1722) and expanded by his son Yongzheng (r. 1722-1735) and brought to its greatest glory by his grandson Qianlong (r. 1736-1796). A lover of literature and art, Qianlong sought an earthly reflection of his greatness in his Yuanming Yuan. For many years, he designed and directed an elaborate program of garden arrangements. Representing two generations of painstaking research, this book follows the emperor as he ruled his empire from within his garden. In a landscape of lush plants, artificial mountains, and lakes, and colorful buildings, he sought to represent his wealth and power to his diverse subjects and to the world at large. Having been looted and burned in the mid-nineteenth century by western forces, it now lies mostly in ruins, but it was the world's most elaborate garden in the eighteenth century. The garden suggested a whole set of concepts: religious, philosophical, political, artistic, and popular, represented in landscape and architecture. Just as bonsai portrays a garden in miniature, the imperial Yuanming Yuan at the height of its splendor represented the Qing Empire in microcosm. Includes 62 color plates and 35 black-and-white photographs. The Glory of Yue Olivia Milburn, 2010-01-28 The Glory of Yue is the first translation into any Western language of the Yuejue shu a collection of essays on history literature religion architecture economic thought military science and philosophy related to the ancient kingdoms of Wu and Yue in present day eastern China This book consists of sixteen chapters together with three additional chapters of explanation written by the compilers in approximately 25 CE This translation is presented with copious annotations and explanations linking the concepts discussed with the development of the mainstream Chinese cultural tradition and draws on both modern Western and Chinese exegesis as well as archeological discoveries to elucidate this highly complex and unjustly neglected text Traces of the Sage James A. Flath,2016-03-31 The Temple of Confucius Kong Temple in Qufu is the definitive monument to the world's greatest sage From its humble origins deep in China's past the home of Confucius grew in size and stature under the auspices of almost every major dynasty until it was the largest and most richly endowed temple in the Ming and Qing empires The decline of state sponsored ritualism in the twentieth century triggered a profound identity crisis for the temple and its worshipers yet the fragile relic survived decades of neglect war and revolution and is now recognized as a national treasure and a World Heritage Site Traces of the Sage is the first comprehensive account of the history and material culture of Kong Temple Following the temple's development through time and across space it relates architecture to the practice of Confucianism explains the temple's phenomenal perseverance and explores the culture of building in China Other chapters consider the problem of Confucian heritage conservation and development over the last hundred years a period when the validity of Confucianism has been called into question and the challenge of remaking Confucian heritage as a commercial enterprise By reconstructing its social life the study interprets Kong Temple as an active site of transaction and negotiation and argues that meaning does not hide behind architecture but emerges from the circulation and regeneration of its spaces and materials The most complete work on a seminal monument in Chinese history through millennia Traces of the Sage will find a ready audience among cultural and political historians of imperial and modern China as well as students and scholars of architectural history and theory and Chinese ritual Transforming Distressed Global Communities Fritz Wagner,Riad Mahayni,Andreas Piller,2016-03-09 Many of our global cities are distressed and facing a host of issues economic collapse in the face of rising expectations social disintegration and civil unrest and ecological degradation and the threats associated with climate change including more frequent and more severe natural disasters Our long held assumptions about man and nature and how they interact are defunct We realize now that we can no longer continue to build without addressing the long term impacts of our actions and their spillovers Energy and natural resources are finite The way we configure economies has come into question In the developed world especially in the United States infrastructure and the notions that underpin it are outdated Meanwhile the developing world is experiencing major rapid transformations in lifestyles and economies that are affecting billions of people and requiring a whole new way of planning human settlements Cities are the key to our future they represent the most effective vehicle for positive advancements in the human condition and environmental change This volume argues for the need to redesign and re plan our cities in holistic ways that reflect our new understanding and relate to their diversity and multi dimensionality Presenting a range of case studies from around the world this volume examines how these distressed cities are dealing with these issues in planning for their future Alongside these empirical chapters are philosophical essays that consider the future of distressed cities Bringing together a team of leading scholars United Nations agencies non governmental organizations private consulting firms international organizations and foundations and policy officials this volume provides a unique and comprehensive overview on how to transform distressed communities into more livable places China's Urban Communities Peter G. Rowe,Ann Forsyth,Har Ye Kan,2016-06-06 Cities in China are extremely dynamic and experience high pressure to grow transform and adapt But in what directions on what basis and to which goals The authors and their team have researched the intensive transformation processes of about twenty five neighborhood communities that were created in Beijing Shanghai Shenzhen and Suzhou in the last 30 years ranging from inner city to peripheral areas starting from planning and leading up to user satisfaction studies This in depth overview on neighborhood typology and development in China follows the book Emergent Architectural Territories in East Asian Cities by Peter Rowe who is among the world s best scholars on urban transformation in East Asia together with his colleagues Ann Forsyth and Har Ye Kan Gated Communities in China Choon-Piew Pow,2009-09-11 This book examines the nature and dynamics of gated communities within the specificities of reform Shanghai a city that arguably has been at the forefront of China s new urban consumer revolution Negotiating Urban Space Si-yen Fei,2020-03-17 Urbanization was central to development in late imperial China Yet its impact is heatedly debated although scholars agree that it triggered neither Weberian urban autonomy nor Habermasian civil society This book argues that this conceptual impasse derives from the fact that the seemingly continuous urban expansion was in fact punctuated by a wide variety of dynastic urbanisms Historians should the author contends view urbanization not as an automatic by product of commercial forces but as a process shaped by institutional frameworks and cultural trends in each dynasty This characteristic is particularly evident in the Ming As the empire grew increasingly urbanized the gap between the early Ming valorization of the rural and late Ming reality infringed upon the livelihood and identity of urban residents This contradiction went almost unremarked in court forums and discussions among elites leaving its resolution to local initiatives and negotiations Using Nanjing a metropolis along the Yangzi River and onetime capital of the Ming as a central case the author demonstrates that prompted by this unique form of urban rural contradiction the actions and creations of urban residents transformed the city on multiple levels as an urban community as a metropolitan region as an imagined space and finally as a discursive subject An Urban History of China Toby Lincoln,2021-05-20 The first history of Chinese cities from their early origins to becoming the largest urban society in the world
