Mendacity and the Figure of the Liar in Seventeenth-Century French Comedy Emilia Wilton-Godberfforde, 2017-06-14 The first book-length study devoted to this topic, Mendacity and the Figure of the Liar in Seventeenth-Century French Comedy offers an important contribution to scholarship on the theatre as well as on early modern attitudes in France, specifically on the subject of lying and deception. Unusually for a scholarly work on seventeenth-century theatre, it is particularly alert to plays as performed pieces and not simply printed texts. The study also distinguishes itself by offering original readings of Molière alongside innovative analyses of other playwrights. The chapters offer fresh insights on well-known plays by Molière and Pierre Corneille but also invite readers to discover lesser-known works of the time by writers such as Benserade, Thomas Corneille, Dufresny, and Rotrou. Through comparative and sustained close readings, including a linguistic and speech act approach, a historical survey of texts with an analysis of different versions, and a study of irony, the reader is shown the manifest ways in which different playwrights incorporate the comedic tropes of lying and scheming confusion and unmasking Drawing particular attention to the levels of communicative or mis communicative exchanges on the character to character axis and the character to audience axis this work examines the process whereby characters in the comedies construct narratives designed to trick misdirect dazzle confuse or exploit their interlocutors In the different incarnations of seducer parasite cross dresser duplicitous narrator messenger and deluded mythomaniac the author underscores the way in which the figure of the liar both entertains and troubles making it a fascinating subject worthy of detailed investigation The Dead Letter and The

The Figure in Composition Paul G. and Nutation, and the Calculus of Variations. Designed for the Use of Students in the University Sir George Biddell Airy,1826 The Figure of Hagar in Ancient Judaism and Galatians Ryan Heinsch,2022-10-11 In this study Ryan Heinsch

considers Paul's portrayal of Hagar in Gal 4 21-31 and argues that Paul stands in continuity with ancient Judaism in that he portrays Hagar and her descendants as non-Jews. As a result, the author demonstrates that the passage in Galatians is an allegory Paul develops about the experience of gentiles in general and the once pagan Galatian gentiles in particular. The Figure of Joseph in Post-Biblical Jewish Literature Niehoff, 2018-12-10. This book is a comparative study in the hermeneutics of the ancient interpretations of the biblical Joseph story. Assuming that every interpretation results from a creative encounter between the ultimately open text of Scripture and the specific thought world of the interpreter, it examines the particular way in which each exegete construes the biblical outline of Joseph's character. Paying special attention to the literary nature of the sources, the study begins with an analysis of the narrative methods and the hermeneutic potential of the biblical story and then proceeds to the intertestamental evidence. The central concern of this study is to compare the different interpretations of the philosopher Philo, the historian Josephus, and the Midrash Genesis Rabbah. These sources do not only range over a considerable amount of time but significantly derive respectively from the Greek and Hebrew cultural realm. Consequently, their figures of Joseph fulfil distinctly different purposes, ranging from an idealisation of Joseph as a Hellenistic politician to autobiographical apologetics and religious instruction. The Figure of Abraham in John 8 Ruth Sheridan, 2020-01-09. In the Gospel of John, the character of Jesus repeatedly comes into conflict with a group pejoratively designated as the Jews. In chapter 8 of the Gospel, this conflict could be said to reach a head with Jesus labeling the Jews as children of the devil (8:44), a verse often cited as epitomizing early Christian anti-Judaism. Using methods derived from modern and postmodern literary criticism, Ruth Sheridan examines textual allusions to the biblical figures of Cain and Abraham in John 8:1-59. She pays particular attention to how these allusions give shape to the Gospel's alleged and infamous anti-Judaism exemplified in John 8:44. Moreover, the book uniquely studies the subsequent reception in the Patristic and Rabbinic literature not only of John 8 but also of the figures of Cain and Abraham. It shows how these figures are linked in Christian and Jewish imagination in the formative centuries in which the two religions came into definition. On The Figure In General And The Body In Particular: Nicole Brenez, 2023-07-11. Films fill our imagination with figures, figurines, and talismans. They ceaselessly rework the same archetypes and invent troubling prototypes, especially when they establish a deeper relationship to reality. How do we understand these presences that are both so characteristic and so diverse in cinema? How does film deal with bodies, movements, and gestures? Why are we so drawn to these shadows, silhouettes, and hypothetical beings? What organizes the figurative values at work in a film? How do cinematic creatures circulate from film to film and image to image? How does film articulate the links between the abstract and the figurative? Is it possible to write a history of figurative forms? Starting from films themselves and works that are both classical: Sergei Eisenstein, Roberto Rossellini, Orson Welles, and contemporary: Abel Ferrara, Brian DePalma, Patricia Mazuy, celebrated: Robert Bresson, John Cassavetes, Ken Jacobs, Paul Sharits, and overlooked: Al Razutis, Jean Genet, Monte Hellman, and John Travolta, from auteurs as well as aesthetic questions, representations of dance
