The First Year Out Mental Patients After Hospitalization:

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1965 The First Year Out William W. Michaux,1969 National Academy of Sciences study of Health care for American veterans and the VA response United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Veterans' Affairs,1978 Short-Term Treatment in Occupational Therapy Kathy Kaplan,Diane Gibson,2014-04-04 This volume discusses prime topics relevant to the practice of short term psychiatric occupational therapy Administration in Mental Health ,1979 The Criminally Insane Terence Thornberry,Joseph E. Jacoby,1979-04 The Criminally Insane is the largest scale in depth follow up study on mentally ill criminals yet to appear This book challenges the assumption that inmates of maximum security mental hospitals are extraordinarily violent and questions the necessity for maintaining maximum security institutions which currently house some 15 000 persons in the United States In 1971 586 patients were released from a Pennsylvania maximum security hospital for the criminally insane They were not considered officially cured but a federal court held that their commitments had been unconstitutional Through exhaustive examination of hospital and police records and interviews with hospital administrators and the subjects themselves Thornberry and Jacoby assess the processes by which the patients had been retained in confinement the impact of their release upon their communities and their ability to adjust to the freedom of community life The authors demonstrate that the patients did not display a significant level of violent behavior during confinement nor did they pose a major threat to society after release In fact their social and psychological adjustment to community life is shown to have been comparable to that of non criminal mental patients Yet despite these findings the subjects had been retained in maximum security confinement for an average of fourteen years because they were predicted to be violent and dangerous to society The authors explain this inaccuracy by a process called political prediction in which clinicians avoid any potential risks to the community the reputation of their hospitals and their careers by consistently overpredicting dangerous behavior The Criminally Insane will stimulate response from professionals in a wide variety of fields including law criminology psychiatry and sociology and from anyone concerned with society s responsibility to the mentally ill offender Bibliography on Epidemiology of Mental Disorders [1966-1968] ,1970 Bibliography on Epidemiology of Mental Disorders ,1969 Rehabilitation of the Brain-Damaged Adult Gerald Goldstein,Leslie Ruthven,2013-03-07 Basic Issues in Rehabilitation of the Brain Damaged Definitions Because of the vagueness surrounding the term brain damage it is necessary at the outset to define the population to which this book may have some application Although it is usual to speak of the brain damaged patient in a general way the conditions referred to cover a variety of specific disorders In this book we will be discussing only individuals who become brain damaged as adults We will be addressing ourselves specifically to adults who have sustained demonstrable structural brain damage Those conditions in which brain dysfunction is a possible etiological agent such as a number of functional psychiatric disorders will not be considered Thus the entire topic of mental retardation and early life brain damage will not be treated here nor the many problems associated with minimal brain damage syndromes in school age children Modern psychiatric thinking has tended to blur the distinction between the so called functional and organic disorders d Shagass Gershon Friedhoff 1977 but we would add here to the view that the patient with structural brain damage continues to present relatively unique assessment and treatment problems Furthermore the emphasis of this book will be placed on individuals with nonprogressive chronic brain damage Rehabilitation Record ,1960 Departments of Labor and Health Education and Welfare
