The History Of The Maghrib:

A History of the Maghrib in the Islamic Period Jamil M. Abun-Nasr, 1987-08-20 Building on the two previous editions of his History of the Maghrib Professor Abun Nasr has written a completely new history of North Africa within the Islamic period which begins with the Arab conquest and brings the story up to the present day He emphasises the factors which led to the adoption of Islam by practically the entire population the geographical position of the area which made it the main trade link between the Mediterranean world and the Sudan and led to its involvement in the confrontation between the Christian and Islamic worlds In Morocco this confrontation led to the emergence of a distinct religio political community ruled by sharifian dynasties and in the rest of the Maghrib to integration in the Ottoman empire The political and economic developments of the piratical regencies of Algeria Tunisia and Libya the establishment of European colonial rule the nationalist movements and Islamic religious reform are all treated in detail The balance between factual account and interpretation makes the book especially useful to students of African and Islamic history

The History of the Maghrib, 1977 The History of the Maghrib Abdallah Laroui, 2015-03-08 This survey of North African history challenges both conventional attitudes toward North Africa and previously published histories written from the point of view of Western scholarship The book aims in Professor Laroui's words to give from within a decolonized vision of North African history just as the present leaders of the Maghrib are trying to modernize the economic and social structure of the country The text is divided into four parts the origins of the Islamic conquest the stages of Islamization the breakdown of central authority from the sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries and the advent of colonial rule Drawing on the methods of sociology and political science as well as traditional and modern historical approaches the author stresses the evolution marked by these four stages and the internal forces that affected it Until now the author contends North African history has been written either by colonial administrators and politicians concerned to defend foreign rule or by nationalist ideologues Both used an old fashioned historiography he asserts focusing on political events dynastic conflicts and theological controversies Here Abdallah Laroui seeks to present the viewpoint of a Maghribi concerning the history of his own country and to relate this history to the present structure of the region Originally published in 1977 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 The History of the Maghrib, 1977 ~Aœ History of the Maghrib Jamil M. Abun-Nasr, 1971 A History of the Maghrib Jamil Mir'i Abu al-Nasr, 1971 A History of the Maghrib in the Islamic Period Jamil M. Abun-Nasr, 1987 A History of African Societies to 1870 Elizabeth Isichei, 1997-04-13 This comprehensive and detailed exploration of the African past from prehistory to approximately 1870 is intended to provide a fully up to date complement to the Cambridge History of Africa. Reflecting several emphases in recent scholarship it focusses on the changing modes of production on gender relations and on ecology laying particular stress on viewing history from below. A distinctive theme is to be found in its analyses of cognitive history. The work falls into three sections. The first comprises a historiographic analysis and covers the period from the dawn of prehistory to the end of the Early Iron Age. The second and third sections are for the most part organised on regional lines. The second section ends in the sixteenth century. The third carries the story on to 1870. A second volume now in preparation will cover the period from 1870 to 1995. This book attempts a more rounded view of African history than most of the other textbooks on the subject addressed to a largely undergraduate level student. Earlier histories have tended to ignore some of the current foci in the scholarly literature on Africa generally not reflected in the textbooks. These include discussions of topical issues like ecology and gender. Isichei's book is also more radical. A History of the Maghrib Jamil M. Abun-Nasr, 1975

History of Humanity UNESCO, 2000-12-31 Volume IV deals with the Middle Ages. It starts with the expansion of Islam and closes with the discovery of the New World. Various events during this period led to a significant expansion in communications: the rapid spread of Islam and of Gengis Khan's Mongol Empire as well as the Crusades and the development of trans-Saharan and maritime routes around Africa to the Indian Ocean leading to multiplied exchanges between the peoples and cultures of Africa, Asia and Europe. The History of the Mohammedan Dynasties in Spain

Ahmed ibn Mohammed al-Makkari, 2002 This is the original History of the Mohammedan Dynasties of Spain reprinted from the first edition of 1840. It represents the foundations of our modern understanding of a great civilisation. The History of Northern Africa Amy McKenna Senior Editor, Geography and History, 2011-01-15 Examines the history of northern Africa including an overview of each of the countries that comprise that area of the continent. An Introduction to the History of the Middle East for Military Students Lewis B. Ware, 1975

Encyclopedia of African History 3-Volume Set Kevin Shillington, 2013-07-04 Covering the entire continent from Morocco, Libya and Egypt in the north to the Cape of Good Hope in the south and the surrounding islands from Cape Verde in the west to Madagascar, Mauritius and Seychelles in the east, the Encyclopedia of African History is a new A-Z reference resource on the history of the entire African continent. With entries ranging from the earliest evolution of human beings in Africa to the beginning of the twenty-first century, this comprehensive three-volume Encyclopedia is the first reference of this scale and scope. Also includes 99 maps. A History of Algeria James McDougall, 2017-04-24 Covering a period of five hundred years from the arrival of the Ottomans to the aftermath of the Arab uprisings, James McDougall presents an expansive new account of the modern history of Africa's largest country. Drawing on substantial new scholarship and over a decade of research, McDougall places Algerian society at the centre of the story, tracing the continuities and the resilience of Algeria's people and their cultures through the dramatic changes and crises that have marked the country. Whether examining the emergence of the Ottoman viceroyalty in the early modern Mediterranean the 130 years of French colonial rule and the revolutionary war of independence the Third World nation building of the 1960s and 1970s or the terrible violence of the 1990s this book will appeal to a wide variety of readers in African and Middle Eastern history and politics as well as those concerned with the wider affairs of the Mediterranean

The Berber Identity Movement and the Challenge to North African States Bruce Maddy-Weitzman, 2011-05-01 Like many indigenous groups that have endured centuries of subordination the Berber Amazigh peoples of North Africa are demanding linguistic and cultural recognition and the redressing of injustices Indeed the movement seeks nothing less than a refashioning of the identity of North African states a rewriting of their history and a fundamental change in the basis of collective life In so doing it poses a challenge to the existing political and sociocultural orders in Morocco and Algeria while serving as an important counterpoint to the oppositionist Islamist current This is the first book length study to analyze the rise of the modern ethnocultural Berber Amazigh movement in North Africa and the Berber diaspora Bruce Maddy Weitzman begins by tracing North African history from the perspective of its indigenous Berber inhabitants and their interactions with more powerful societies from Hellenic and Roman times through a millennium of Islam to the era of Western colonialism He then concentrates on the marginalization and eventual reemergence of the Berber question in independent Algeria and Morocco against a background of the growing crisis of regime legitimacy in each country His investigation illuminates many issues including the fashioning of official national narratives and policies aimed at subordinating Berbers in an Arab nationalist and Islamic centered universe the emergence of a counter movement promoting an expansive Berber imagining that emphasizes the rights of minority groups and indigenous peoples and the international aspects of modern Berberism

The Cambridge History of Judaism: Volume 5, Jews in the Medieval Islamic World Phillip I.
