The Housing Question Edward Murphy,Najib B. Hourani,2016-03-09 In the wake of the Great Recession housing and its financing suddenly re emerged as questions of significant public concern Yet both public and academic debates about housing have remained constricted tending not to explore how the evolution of housing simultaneously entails basic forms of socio spatial reproduction and underlying tensions in the political order Drawing on cutting edge perspectives from urban studies this book grants renewed interdisciplinary energy to the housing question It explores how housing raises a series of vexing issues surrounding rights identity and justice in the modern city Through finely detailed studies that illuminate national and regional particularities ranging from analyses of urban planning in the Soviet Union the post Katrina reconstruction of New Orleans to squatting in contemporary Lima the volume underscores how housing questions matter in a wide range of contexts It draws attention to ruptures and continuities between high modernist and neoliberal forms of urbanism demonstrating how housing and the dilemmas surrounding it are central to governance and the production of space in a rapidly urbanizing world    The Housing Question ,1972    The Housing Question Charles Eugene Clark,1920

Dickson-Poynder,1908    Possessing the City Anish Vanaik,2020 Possessing the City is a social history of the property market in late colonial Delhi a period of much turbulence and transformation It argues that historians of South Asian cities must connect transformations in urban space with the economy of the city Using new archival material Anish Vanaik outlines the place of private property development in Delhi s economy from 1911 to 1947 Rather than large scale state initiatives like the Delhi Improvement Trust it was profit oriented decentralised and market based initiatives of urban construction that created the Delhi cityscape This volume also serves to chart the emerging relationship between the state and urban space in this period Rather than a narrow focus on urban planning ideas it argues that the relationship be thought of in a triangular fashion the intermediation of the property market was crucial to emerging statecraft and urban form in this period Possessing the City examines struggles and conflicts over the commodification of land particularly disputes over rents and prices of urban property The question of commodification can also however be discerned in struggles that were not ostensibly about economic issues clashes over religious sites in the city Through careful attention to the historical interrelationships between state space and the economy in Delhi this volume offers a novel intervention in the history of late colonial Delhi     The Housing Question Or, Associated Homes for the People.
